Beverly Beard Honored Guest Upon Retirement

A large number of people gathered at the Will O' the Wisp on the evening of June 24 to honor Beverly J. Beard, who recently retired from the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Among those present at the banquet event were a number of state and local officials, family members, and past and present employees of the local department. Robert Shaffer, director of Garrett County Social Services, praised Mrs. Beard for numerous accomplishments during her 30 years of service to the citizens of Garrett County.

Mrs. Beard, who has been the assistant director at the local department for over 20 years, is credited with maintaining one of the most efficient and effective Income Maintenance Units in the entire state. Shaffer said that the local unit, under Mrs. Beard's direction, "amassed an unparalleled record of accuracy" in management of public assistance and food stamp programs.

HONORED ON RETIREMENT - Beverly Beard, who recently retired from the Garrett County Department of Social Services, was the guest of honor at a special banquet at Will O'the Wisp. Mrs. Beard, who has been the assistant director of the department for over 20 years, was employed there for 33 years. Pictured with her above are her daughter, Kelly Smith, Hagerstown; her son, Michael Beard, Odenton; and her husband, David Beard. See story for details.

Among the many plaques on the walls of Mrs. Beard's office is one which honored the local department for five consecutive years of zero-error rate in processing of public assistance applications. Mr. Shaffer also gave special recognition to Mrs. Beard for her "outstanding performance" in establishing and maintaining Project Independence in Garrett County, a program that has been highly successful in providing job training and employment for a large number of former welfare recipients.

Over her career, Mrs. Beard has represented the local department on numerous boards and committees, including the Governor's Workforce Investment Board, the governing board of the Garrett County Community Action Agency, the Private Industry Council, and the Emergency Food and Shelter Board. Special recognition has often been given to her by the Oakland Rotary Club for her "exemplary work" with the club's annual Christmas project. With the help of Mrs. Beard the club provided food and gifts to over 350 needy families in 1993. The club presented a "Service Above Self" plaque to her in November 1993.

At the retirement banquet a number of certificates were presented to Mrs. Beard by various officials. James Curry, of the Quality Assurance Office of the Department of Human Resources, presented a Certificate of Appreciation from Carolyn Colvin, secretary of DHR. Father Martin Feild, chairman of the Social Services Advisory Board, presented Mrs. Beard with a House Resolution from the Maryland General Assembly, commending her for her many years of dedicated service. A special Governor's Citation was presented by Administrative Law Judge William Hohenberger on behalf of Governor Schaefer. Judge Hohenberger praised Mrs. Beard for her "professionalism and cooperative spirit" during his tenure of service in Western Maryland.

In a brief address at the banquet, Mrs. Beard expressed high praise and personal appreciation to the members of her staff. She credited "a highly efficient staff" for many of her professional accomplishments. She also expressed a desire to continue to serve the citizens of Garrett County in various capacities during her retirement years. She plans to continue her work with the Rotary Club Christmas Project and other volunteer organizations. Leisure activities will include boating, stitchery, handcrafts, and visiting with her children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Beard resides in the Green Glade area with her husband, David, a teacher at Southern High School. They are the parents of a son, Michael, of Odenton, and a daughter, Kelly Smith, Hagerstown.

WHICH DOCTOR
-NOT-
"WITCH DOCTOR"

How do you recognize a quack? The health swindler still preys heavily on our society. He is a fraud with phoney words, eye-appealing, ear-catching mechanical devices, mystical potions and magic pills. He falsely promises he can diagnose and cure disease.

To avoid the pitfalls of quackery, which thrives on health problems including arthritis, rheumatism, cancer, mental health, etc., rely on your physician. To delay reliable medical care may mean the difference between life and death. With his prescription and diagnostic techniques, your best chance for good health is your doctor.

The Message of the Butterfly

Mr. Webster defines a butterfly as "any of numerous slender-bodied diurnal insects with large (usually) bright colored wings". But that definition is somewhat cold and doesn't tell us much about a butterfly. Don't blame Webster, though. Who can describe the feeling of seeing, sometimes holding, a butterfly? It is a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Aside from its beauty, that must be experienced and not defined, the butterfly carries on its wings a deeper message, captured by Richard Bach in his book Illusions, "What the caterpillar calls the end of the world, the Master calls a butterfly."

The butterfly speaks to us of a world that often experiences its greatest growth through change, and of the fact that even while we crawl through life today, there shall be wings tomorrow.

The tragedies of today, the hardships of the moment, the tears of the hours, are but God re-forming us into new creatures with fresh wings of the morning.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BREAKING LOOSE
July 24, 1994

Background Scripture:
Exodus 32; 34:1-10
Devotional Reading:
Numbers 12:1-16

There are a lot of characterizations of God in Exodus 32 and 34 that are obviously quite contrary to the God we meet in Jesus Christ. I could "write around them," but I won't.

The God of these passages is a mercurial God: "...now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may burn hot against them and I may consume them..." (32:10a). He is also a God susceptible to argumentation. Moses argues, "Why should the Egyptians say, 'With evil intent did he bring them forth, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth'... repent of this evil against thy people..." (32:11,12). The writer tells us that God is persuaded by Moses' argument: "And the Lord repented of the evil which he thought to do his people" (32:14).

Nor does Moses present us with a Christlike model. When he returns from the mountain, we are told that "all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him..." (32:26). And Moses gave them a chilling assignment: "And the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses; and there fell for the people that day about three thousand men (32:28). Then, when Moses asks God to forgive the people, God refuses: "Whoever has sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." "...And the Lord sent a plaque upon the people, because they made the calf..." (32:33,35). And then there is one more passage that sticks in my throat like a bone: "a God...who will by no means clear the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children's children, to the third and fourth generation" (34:8).

I have cited these passages simply to show that the ancient Israelite understanding of God is radically different than the God revealed in Jesus Christ. To try to paste the God of Exodus together with the God of the Four Gospels is a hopeless, fruitless task. So what do we do with the Book of Exodus? I look upon it as the testimony of a view of God that is instructive, but incomplete and immature. There is much we can learn from it, but our understanding of God cannot end with the Book of Exodus.

The scripture passages upon which the Uniform Bible Lesson series and "The Bible Speaks" is based are selected by an interdenominational committee. These particular passages from Exodus 32 and 34 were selected as representing Biblical teaching about forgiveness. I must respectfully disagree: what these passages tell us about forgiveness is quiet contrary to what Jesus teaches us. (I was interested to discover that in my various Bible commentaries, the scholars chose to ignore the violent atrocities by Mosses and the Levites. I understand that; they are embarrassing.)

To me, then, these passages speak, not so much of forgiveness as they do sin and what it does to one's relationship with God. This is illustrated in 32:25 when the writer tells us, "And when Moses saw that the people had broken loose (for Aaron had let them break loose), then Moses stood in the gate of the camp and said, "Who is on the Lord's side?"

This is an interesting term "broken loose." I cannot recall coming across it anywhere else in the Bible. Yet it is very descriptive of what happens when we become impatient for God to act, when we demand satisfaction now, when we are unwilling to trust and obey him. The connection between God and ourselves is broken by our willful disobedience. The worst thing about sin is not that God will punish us, but that we have cut ourselves off from him. Breaking loose from God is the worst thing we can do to ourselves. Fortunately, there is a way to be connected with Him again--and it doesn't take three or four generations.

COVER STORY

CBS taking a Long look at 'Good Advice'

BY JEFF PLASS

Care for a bit of "Good Advice"? Check out Shelley Long's series of the same name, Wednesdays on CBS, before the network pulls the proverbial plug on it.

The series, which stars Long as Dr. Susan DeRuzza, a well-respected, albeit recently divorced, marriage counselor, has been around for quite some time.

Unfortunately, it has never quite gotten the break it needs to catch on as a bona fide network regular.

Beginning with problems in preproduction, the highly likeable series has run the gamut of woes since it was announced as a midseason replacement for CBS in the fall of 1992.

"On CBS there were, and are, so few good slots," Long explains, "because they have so many successful hour-long shows. And, in fact, now they have even more successful hour-long shows.

"So there aren't very many good half-hour slots on CBS. And we were hoping that if somebody dropped out, it would be a better slot than was available when it was agreed that we would go on the air."

This decision left the door open for executive producer Danny Jacobson to begin work on another series that was in its formative stages, the then fledgling (and now highly successful) NBC sitcom "Mad About You."

"Unfortunately, as a result of that decision," Long states, "Danny started the other show first. It worked out well for 'Mad About You,' but unfortunately we experienced just some strange things.

"(Things like) a staff that didn't get along, which he was unable to ameliorate. When you can't start off on a good foot, it's hard."

"Then, of course," Long continues, "he couldn't write the whole show. We had an order for 13 (episodes), and he was able to do six and still do the 'Mad About You' series. And then, he was burned out. He admitted it."

Shelley Long

So the show eventually made its way into the Monday night slot, following network behemoth "Murphy Brown," which, according to Long, is "what the show was developed for." And it did "remarkably well" in that time slot.

"And that's the frustration," Long adds. "That there's a level of sophistication about the show, so that it doesn't fit every place. But, naturally, everyone wants the slot after 'Murphy Brown.'

"But every time we've been in that slot, with the 'Murphy Brown' lead-in, we've done very well. In fact, recently, we did better (in that slot) than anyone has done since 1991."

So while the show hasn't been renewed for the CBS fall lineup, there is still some talk about bringing it back as a midseason replacement, again.

"There's still a lot of enthusiasm and optimism about the show," Long states. "We're not on the fall lineup, but we're not dead in the water, either.

"The cast members have been released from their contracts, but everybody is ready to go and excited about doing the show. So we just have to see if CBS can find a place for us that makes sense, that's right for our show."

'Intentions' portrays a stormy ever after

BY SUZANNE GILL

"I am not a writer," Swedish filmmaker Ingmar Bergman once said. Nevertheless Bergman wrote the prequel to his own life, a script that became director Bille August's 1992 romantic drama, "The Best Intentions."

The film airs in three parts on PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre," beginning Sunday, July 24 (check local listings). Set in the decade before Bergman's birth, it is the story of his parents' unlikely courtship and difficult adjustment to life together.

Though Bergman is not technically in the film, he is all around and through it, from his reversed initials in the English title to his mother's second pregnancy (which led to his birth) as the film closes. In his notes on "The Best Intentions," he says that he is like both his mother and his father, a statement that may help viewers of his work to understand the conflicts in his earlier films.

Pernilla August (the director's wife) plays vivacious Anna Akerblom, the pet of her bourgeois family. Max von Sydow portrays her father, a retired railroad man. Samuel Froler is Henrik Bergman, a theology student from a deprived background who finds himself pursued then rejected by the forthright and hard-headed Anna.

The intensity of their courtship carries over into marriage, as the two work hard to make his first parish, in Sweden's austere north country, prosper. Henrik cannot believe his happiness is real; Anna tests him more than once by withdrawing to the safety of her family, though she suffers without him.

Theirs is a romance of mesmerizing beauty and anguish, viewed through the eyes of the storyteller it produced.

Pernilla August portrays Ingmar Bergman's mother, Anna, and Max von Sydow is her father in "The Best Intentions," Sunday on PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre" (check local listings).

TV-PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Where can we write David Hyde Pierce of "Frasier"? Also, please give me some information on Donna Reed. –Donna Deverill, Billings, Mont.

A: Write to Pierce C/O NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Born Donna Mullenger in 1921, Reed won an Oscar for her portrayal of a shady lady in "From Here to Eternity." Her hit sitcom, "The Donna Reed Show," ran on ABC from 1958-1966. She replaced Barbara Bel Geddes for a single season (1984-85) as Ellie Ewing on "Dallas" and sued the producers when they did not renew her contract. Reed died of cancer in 1986.

Q: I watch "XUXA" every day. Where can I write to her? –Larry of Alliance, Ohio.

A: C/O MTM Television Distribution, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, Calif. 91604.

Q: Where can I find a video of "Beauty and the Beast" starring George C. Scott and his wife, Catherine? –Julia A. Belt, Rapid City, Mich.

A: Actually, that was his wife Trish (as in an Van Devere), but that production has never been released on video.

Q: Wasn't there a movie called "The Morning After" with Dick Van Dyke as an alcoholic? No one else recalls it. Did I dream it? Is it available on video? –Beverly Tully, Franklin, N.H.

A: You're not dreaming, but it's not on video.

Q: I enjoyed a TV series in the late '50s starring Betty White as a housewife named Gladys. Will this be rerun? –Evelyn Hepla, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A: Betty White never played a housewife named Gladys. I suspect you're thinking of "Pete and Gladys," an early '60s sitcom starring White look-alike Cara Williams. I would say it is a long shot for new life in syndication.

Donna Reed

Q: Is Charlie Chase related to one of the Statler Brothers? –J.A. Scheppler, Harwich, Mass.

A: No.

Q: Where can I send Vanna White a gift for her baby? –Mrs. Phyllis T., Brewer, Maine.

A: C/O "Wheel of Fortune," Merv Griffin Productions, 9860 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90210.

Q: Are there any members of the Baldwin family in show business other than Alec, William and Adam? –J.L., Flint, Mich.

A: There's a bogus Baldwin on your list: Adam isn't related, but Daniel from TV's "Homicide: Life on the Street" and Stephen from "Born on the Fourth of July" are Alec and William's siblings.

MOVIE MARQUEE

'Bitter Vengeance' leaves viewers hungry

BY JOHN CROOK

A woman is framed for murder by her faithless husband in "Bitter Vengeance," a by-the-numbers revenge drama premiering Thursday, July 28, on the USA Network.

San Diego policeman Jack Westford (Bruce Greenwood, formerly of "St. Elsewhere") and his future wife, Annie (Virginia Madsen), meet when he stops her for speeding.

Before you can say flash-forward, it's five years later. Jack is forced to resign from the police department after he takes the fall in a use-of-force complaint. His marriage to Annie souring, Jack grudgingly takes a job as a bank security guard.

In short order, he becomes besotted with a sexy young bank teller named Isabella (Kristen Hocking), with whom he has a torrid affair and conspires to steal some money pouches from the bank. After Isabella filches empty money bags from the bank to assist in the robbery, she quits her job so she won't be a suspect.

Meanwhile, Jack has been making nice with Annie again, and the two go off on a sailing weekend. Once on board, Jack drugs Annie, cuts himself with a knife, swims ashore and flees to Mexico with Isabella.

The Coast Guard rescues Annie, but the bloody knife leads them to arrest her for Jack's murder. How she pieces together her husband's scheme and tracks him down leads to the TV movie's climax.

"Bitter Vengeance" has some intriguing plot twists and boasts two appealing performers in Greenwood and Madsen, an actress whose early promise has been undermined by a series of bimbonic roles.

Virginia Madsen

What scuttles the movie is the lack of foundation in its rushed early scenes. Jack is never seen a sympathetic light: In fact, when he first approaches Annie's car in the opening scene, the music sounds as if Darth Vader has walked on screen. Is Jack innately a heel? If so, Annie seems really dim indeed.

Among other movies airing this week, Sunday, July 24, brings "Rio Diablo" with Kenny Rogers and Travis Tritt on CBS; Gabrielle Anwar in "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" on NBC; and "Citizen Kane" on American Movie Classics.

"Hearts of Darkness: A Filmmaker's Apocalypse" takes viewers behind the scenes of "Apocalypse Now" Tuesday, July 26, on PBS (check local listings).

TV audiences can decide for themselves whether Arnold Schwarzenegger's "Last Action Hero" deserved to be one of 1993's biggest bombs when it premieres Saturday, July 30, on HBO.

TIME OUT

NFL quarterbacks go to Disney World

BY JEFF PLASS

For the past four years, some of the NFL's top signal callers have taken part in a charity fund-raiser known as the "NFL Quarterback Challenge."

Taped in June, the competition will air on NBC in two parts, beginning Saturday, July 30, and concluding Sunday, July 31.

NBC football commentators Tom Hammond, Joe Gibbs and Paul Maguire will call the action from Walt Disney World Resort's Palm Golf Course in Orlando, Fla.

Competitors in the fifth annual event include Drew Bledsoe (New England Patriots), Randall Cunningham (Philadelphia Eagles), John Elway (Denver Broncos), Boomer Esiason (New York Jets), Brett Favre (Green Bay Packers), Rick Mirer (Seattle Seahawks), Warren Moon (Minnesota Vikings), Neil O'Donnell (Pittsburgh Steelers) and Steve Young (San Francisco 49ers).

The players compete in four events designed to measure the various skills needed to be a top NFL quarterback.

First is the accuracy competition, which features the players throwing at a variety of moving and stationary targets.

Easier said than done, claims Pittsburgh's O'Donnell:

"The event that was probably the easiest, I did the worst in. Hitting the stationary targets is harder than you'd think.

"People adjust to the football," O'Donnell adds. "When you have stationary targets, there's no such thing."

Then there's the speed and mobility drill, in which competitors race around an obstacle course, testing their ability to throw on the run. This contest would seem to favor the fleet-footed Cunningham, O'Donnell, Young and Mirer.

Boomer Esiason

Next up is the self-explanatory distance drill, giving the players an opportunity to simply air it out, with the longest throw winning. The cannon-armed Elway, Bledsoe and Cunningham have to be considered the favorites here.

And finally there's the read and recognition drill, which combines both mental and physical skills by challenging contenders to hit specific moving targets. Seasoned veterans Moon, Young, Elway and Esiason look to be the top contenders in this category.

While tight-lipped about the outcome of the competition, O'Donnell underscores the event by saying, "It was a lot of fun and I competed with the best in the business, the best athletes out there. Overall, I was happy with it, and I'm looking forward to next year's contest."

SOAP TALK

Reeves keeping busy, staying happy

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Melissa Reeves has it all, though she might never admit it to herself.

She portrays one of the most popular characters on TV (Jennifer, "Days of Our Lives") and she has a beautiful daughter, Emily, and loving husband, Scott Reeves (Ryan, "The Young and the Restless").

"Things are really good for us right now," says Reeves. "It is nice to have both people working, especially when you are actors because it is so hard to get a job."

Reeves has the same pressures as most working moms, keeping house and taking care of the baby, but says she really enjoys these things. The Reeves do not have a nanny or a household staff; they take care of everything themselves.

"When you are doing a soap, you usually don't have to work five days a week, so we haven't ever had to hire anyone to take care of Emily," she says. "The days we both work, her grandma watches her. It just all works out for the best. We try to keep things really normal for her."

She says their daughter is the center of their lives.

"I'm not sure what we did before Emily came," says Reeves. "We must have been really bored. I can't remember the last time we turned on the TV, except maybe for an occasional Barney video. We just sit around and watch Emily play."

"It is funny how your whole life changes when you have a child," says Reeves. "I would have never imagined my husband walking around the house singing Barney songs and doing the funny little dance, but it has happened. And I really wouldn't want it any other way."

Melissa Reeves

It was a year ago when "Days" let Matthew Ashford (ex-Jack, Jennifer's love interest at the time) go. Reeves was surprised and somewhat hurt when fans suggested she should have quit along with Ashford.

"Sometimes the fans don't understand that this is a job, and as upset as I was about Matt, I still have to support my family," she says.

All of that is over now, and fans are curious to see what happens between Jennifer and her new love interest, Peter (Jason Brooks).

"I'm glad that the writers and producers have taken their time and gradually moved Peter and Jennifer closer. It gives the fans time to get used to us."

CABLE OVERVIEW

Focus on Annie Leibovitz, 'Body Snatchers' redux

Photographer Annie Leibovitz comes into frame on A&E's "Biography" Thursday, July 28.

Leibovitz's work at Rolling Stone and Vanity Fair is featured in the 1993 production, along with a look at her early life and her own reflections on her career and her battle with drug addiction. Interviews include Mick Jagger, Hunter S. Thompson and former Vanity Fair editor Tina Brown.

The program ends with a lengthy piece on the making of her famous portrait of actress Demi Moore, pregnant and nude, which ran on the cover of Vanity Fair, and its follow-up a year later.

The Tour de France, the world's most prestigious cycling event, concludes Sunday, July 24, with coverage on ESPN.

In September comic Margaret Cho will make her series debut in ABC's new "American Girl," but cable audiences can see her now in the latest "HBO Comedy Half-Hour," debuting Thursday.

David Bowie is host of "George Michael's Concert of Hope," debuting Sunday on The Disney Channel. Taped in London, the concert was a fund-raiser for Britain's National AIDS Trust and Crusade. k.d. lang is among the featured performers.

Showtime's "Rebel Highway" film series promises to take viewers back to the time of leather jackets, chocolate milk, eight-cylinder sedans and newsreels at the movies.

Authenticity takes a back seat to mood-setting and high-risk fun in these retellings of 1950s cult films, beginning with "Roadracers," a rock 'n' roll spin on "Invasion of the Body Snatchers." David Arquette stars Thursday as a misunderstood greaser. (Warning: Fans of the dry look may find the protagonist's hairdressing rituals nauseating.) "Invasion" star Kevin McCarthy makes a guest appearance.

Margaret Cho

The second "Rebel Highway" offering, "Motorcycle Gang," debuts Friday, Aug. 5.

Canton, Ohio, is the site of the Pro Football Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony, airing Saturday, July 30, on ESPN.

"The Titanic," a two-part A&E special, begins Sunday with "Death of a Dream," chronicling the steamship's fateful maiden voyage. Part 2, "The Legend Lives On," airs next Sunday, July 31.

"Black to the Promised Land" debuts Wednesday, July 27, on Cinemax. The documentary, by Madeleine Ali, follows a group of Brooklyn teens as they earn high-school credits working on a kibbutz in Israel.

Pula Poetry Book Available Locally

A volume of poetry by a Maryland poet, Thaddeus J. Pula, Baltimore, is available locally at K's Korner in Grantsville. The poet is the father of Michael S. Pula, a resident of Grantsville and a computer teacher at Northern Middle School.

Pula's work, noted for its subtle -- and often not so subtle -- humor, is also characterized by unusual perspectives on everyday people and their struggles to make meaning of events in their lives.

Mauderings, written under the pseudonym of Theo L. Quest, includes works which date back to Pula's high school days in 1940 and range through recent reflections captured while strolling the greens of Mount Pleasant golf course in Baltimore.

Primary Voters Must Register By Aug. 15

August 15 is the last day that a person may apply for registration in order to vote in the September 13 Maryland Primary Election. Candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties will be selected to run in the November 8 General Election for the following offices: governor/ lt. governor; comptroller; attorney general; U.S. senator; representatives in Congress; state senators; members of the House of Delegates; county government officials; judges; and courthouse officials.

In addition, party central committees will be chosen and in some counties there will be a non partisan primary to choose general election candidates for board of education.

A person may register to vote if he or she is a United States citizen who resides in Maryland, who will be 18 years old by the next general election, and who is not disqualified by a criminal record or under guardianship for a mental disability.

A person may request a voter registration application by calling his or her local election office or the State Administrative Board of Election Laws. Voter registration applications are available throughout Maryland at any office of the State Department of Health, Social Services Administration, or Motor Vehicle Administration, and most other state agencies.

One may also obtain voter registration applications at post offices, libraries, and any public elementary or secondary school, or community college. The completed application may be mailed to the election board or delivered in person.

A person who has changed his or her address or name since the last election must, over his or her signature, notify the registration board where he or she is registered, or risk loss of registration. If a person has moved from one jurisdiction to another, he or she must register with the election board for the new residence jurisdiction.

A voter registration application received by mail after the August 15 deadline, but no later than 4 p.m. on August 17, is considered timely received if it is postmarked by the U.S. Post Office on or before August 15, 1994.

For more information regarding voter registration, interested persons may call the Garrett County Board of Supervisors of Elections at 334-1962 or the State Administrative Board of Election Laws at 1-800-222-VOTE.

Jennings ELCA Women Convene

Women of the ELCA of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on July 12, with six members attending.

A Bible study, based on the Letter to the Hebrews and titled "He Lives For Us" was led by Leota Baker. The study led the group to encounter the Old Testament figure of Melchizedek and at the same time gain a deeper understanding of what Jesus has done for mankind. The importance of sanctuaries was discussed and the hymn, "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," sung during devotions, was compared with the text from Hebrews.

Ruthella Resh presided over the business meeting.

A gift offering was received from Viola Meyers, a former member of Zion's unit. A birthday offering was presented by Shirley Yommer.

Tribute to the memory of Mrs. Vena L. Beachy, was made through an offering from Zion's unit to Women of the ELCA churchwide, designated for community re-development in Appalachia.

A love offering was sent to the synodical convention of Women of the ELCA which convened July 15 and 16. The quarterly offering was sent to The American Bible Society for the Bible-A-Month ministry.

A book titled Friendship was sent recently to Betty Broadwater when she was a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland.

A package of cancelled postage stamps was sent to the National Lutheran Home in Rockville for the Stamp Club.

The next project will be a wash cloth shower and invalid gowns for The Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa., and will terminate in September.

Subscriptions are due in August for the devotional guide, "Christ in Our Home.

The next meeting is scheduled for August 2.

Paradise Church To Celebrate Its 100th Anniversary

The Paradise United Methodist Church, Sand Flat Road, will celebrate its 100th anniversary on Sunday, July 31. Worship will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Former pastors have been invited to attend, and will participate in the day's celebration, according to the church's pastor, the Rev. Sam Wachter. The Rev. William Turley, Romney District Superintendent of the West Virginia Annual Conference, will deliver the morning message. Traditional hymns and liturgy from the early church will enhance the morning worship service, which will conclude with the celebration of the sacrament of Holy Communion, the Rev. Wachter said.

Following the morning worship service at noon, a covered dish dinner will be shared. Turkey, ham and beverages will be provided. All are invited to join in the fellowship.

A fellowship time of remembering, with pastors and members sharing about the church of days gone by, will begin at 1:30 p.m.

For more information about the church's centennial celebration, persons may call the Rev. Wachter at 387-6832.

B&L Employees Of The Month Named

Management at the local Bausch & Lomb facility recently announced the June employees of the month. They are Norma Dawson (left) and Vicki Lewis.

Vicki Lewis, a P.A.T. inspector, was recognized for her flexibility in various areas of manufacturing and inspection. Her inspection skills ensure customer satisfaction, a spokesperson said.

Ms. Lewis, who resides in Swanton, has been employed by B&L since November 1986 at which time she was a final inspector in the assembly area. Since then, she has been cross-trained in nearly every aspect of inspection. She is considered one of B&L's most valuable employees, the spokesperson said.

Norma Dawson, a P.A.T. inspector, was recognized for her outstanding efforts as an inspector. The company spokesperson said Mrs. Dawson gives constant assistance to final sample inspection in the manufacturing areas.

"She faces constant priority changes and accepts these challenges without complaint," the spokesperson said.

Mrs. Dawson has been with B&L since September 1983, beginning her employment as a machine operator. She has held several manufacturing positions.

"Norma's experience is a valuable asset to Bausch & Lomb," the spokesperson said. Mrs. Dawson resides in Deer Park with her husband and two daughters.

FUN FOR ALL AGES

Small business health plans?
It's time to exercise your options.

1. It's time you had a choice. The only choice a lot of health insurers offer small employers is simple: Take it or leave it. Not us. Because though Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland* is one health care company, we have more choices when it comes to health coverage for your employees. Whether you're looking to offer a high quality HMO, an Opt-out plan that provides your employees with convenience and savings but also lets them choose doctors outside of the network, or even traditional health insurance where they can pick any doctor they want, you'll find the coverage you're looking for – at a cost you can handle.

2. The most for your money. When you choose Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland you gain a partner that's as interested as you are in working to keep health care costs in line. Each of our health care options is designed for maximum cost efficiency. On the average 85 cents, or more, of every premium dollar goes directly toward providing health care.

3. We make it easy. When you choose a health coverage option from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland, it's easier for you to do your job. You'll have just one sales representative to work with for all of your options. Plus, depending on the options you choose, you'll benefit from programs designed to reduce the paperwork and administrative load on you and your staff. Features such as no-balance billing or no claims to file so your employees won't have to worry about paperwork or paying a portion of a doctor's bill, freeing up valuable time and money for both of you.

The widest range of choices for Small Business

When you choose one health care company — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland — you can have access to a number of plans you already know:

- HMO Options including:
  - FreeState Health Plan
  - Columbia Medical Plan
  - CareFirst
  - Potomac Health Plan
- Opt-out Coverages
- Preferred Provider Network
- Traditional Health Insurance

Call to find out about the new Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland Small Employer Group Options.

No matter which plans you offer, when you pick Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland, you've already made the right choice.

4. We offer quality care. Your employees want access to quality health care in convenient locations, and that's what they'll get no matter which Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland coverage options you offer them. Whether it's from the fully-credentialed doctors and professionals in our HMO networks, the variety of physicians and specialists to choose from in our Opt-out plans, or a network of more than 20,000 health care providers with our traditional coverage, your employees will get the quality care they want and need.

5. One health care company. Finding a range of coverage options when deciding which health plans to offer your employees can be a daunting task. Just researching all of the coverages and all of the companies takes up too much time. But it can be easier. A lot easier. Because when you offer Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland, you'll find the solutions to lots of health care needs — all from one health care company.

To find out more, ask your benefits advisor or call 1-800-544-8703, ext. 350.

Evans, Hinnant To Teach Law Enforcement Courses at GCC

Courses in the new law enforcement program at Garrett Community College will be taught by two of Garrett County's veteran law enforcement personnel during the fall semester.

Lt. Charles Hinnant, commander of the Maryland State Police barrack in McHenry, will teach Introduction to Law Enforcement on Thursday evenings; and Sheriff Van Evans will teach the Law Enforcement and Community Relations course on Tuesday evenings.

Hinnant, who has had 23 years of experience in law enforcement, has been commander of the barrack for the past three years. Before that he served as assistant to the division commander of the Maryland State Police Criminal Investigative Division in Pikesville where he was in charge of support services. For 13 years as a criminal investigator, Hinnant supervised criminal investigative units in Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties. He is a graduate of the Maryland State Police Training Academy and the Harvard Associates in Police Science Homicide School and has completed numerous investigative and management courses.

Evans, a graduate of Garrett Community College's first law enforcement program and West Virginia University, served 12 years as a deputy sheriff in Garrett County, and has been sheriff for the past nine years. Before that time he was a military police officer with the United States Marine Corps. Evans graduated from the FBI National Police Academy and completed law enforcement training courses at the Maryland State Police Criminal Investigative School and the Harvard Associates in Police Science Homicide School.

The law enforcement program at GCC has been implemented as an option in the Human Services Certificate. It involves 30 credit hours of academic courses that can generally be completed in two semesters by a full-time student, or in four semesters by a part-time student. The program is designed to prepare students for entry level positions in the law enforcement field. Persons desiring further information about the program should contact Joan Crawford at 387-3046.

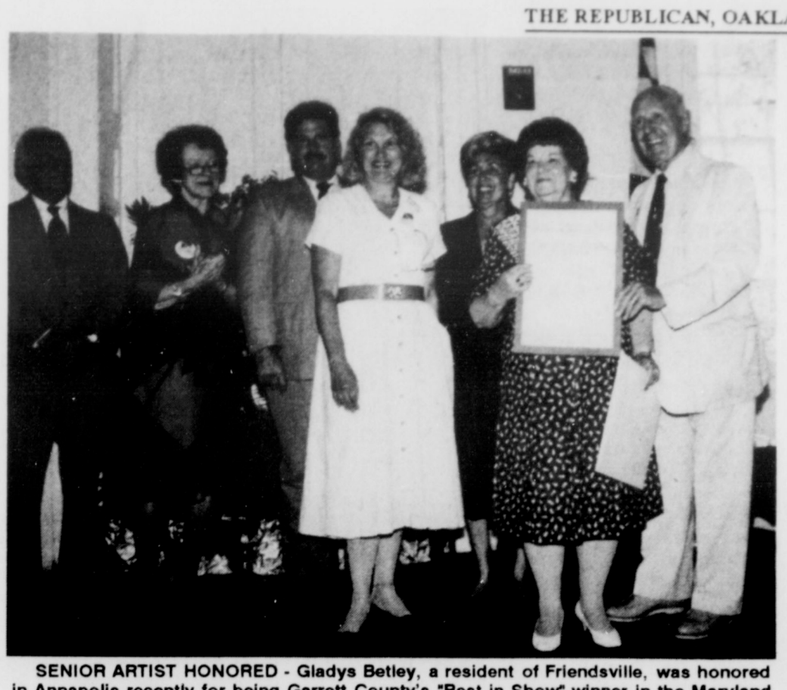
She recently finished her sophomore year at Frostburg State University as an elementary education major.

Since her application has been accepted, Kim is responsible to raise $400 a month for her financial support during her tour with Captive Free. She is in need of either 16 people to sponsor her for $25 a month for 14 months or 40 people to sponsor her for $10 each month for 14 months, thus raising the required amount of $6,000.

Persons pledging their support will be encouraged to pray for Kim on an assigned day, thereby becoming an integral part of the ministry she has undertaken while she attempts to reach her goal. Interested persons may pledge more or less than the suggested $10 each month or make a one-time contribution gift.

Those desiring to pledge or wanting more information about the program may call Dave Terlizzi at 334-9398 or Miss Wampler or her parents at 334-9112.

Miss Wampler expressed her appreciation in advance to those contributing in any way to her upcoming ministry.



SENIOR ARTIST HONORED - Gladys Betley, a resident of Friendsville, was honored in Annapolis recently for being Garrett County's "Best in Show" winner in the Maryland You are Beautiful Senior Citizens' Fine Arts Competition. Governor Wm. Donald Schaefer recognized each county's winner at an awards ceremony at St. John's College. Ms. Betley is a former WAVE in the U.S. Navy who now enjoys traveling to historical sites, reading, and painting in watercolors and oils. Her winning watercolor entry is titled "The Old Mill." Pictured left to right above are: James Backas, director, Maryland State Arts Council; Janette Martin, Maryland Office on Aging; Christopher Nelson, president, St. John's College; Barbara Hornyak, Garrett County Area Agency on Aging; Floraine B. Applefeld, director of the Maryland You are Beautiful program; Ms. Betley; and Louis Goldstein, comptroller, state of Maryland. Each county winner received a custom-designed pin, a Governor's Salute to Excellence, and a Maryland get-a-way package for two, donated by restaurants and motels throughout the state. There were over 1,000 entries in the competition.

Shepard Campaign Makes Donation To Frantz/Ashby Fund

In January, the Bill Shepard for Governor campaign lost its Garrett County co-chairman, Paul Frantz, chief deputy clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court, in an automobile accident that also claimed the life of his sister, Pamela R. Ashby, a reporter/writer for The Republican.

A Frantz/Ashby Trust Fund has been established to provide support for surviving children of Frantz and Ashby. In support of that effort, the Bill Shepard for Governor Committee of Garrett County recently held a Bingo fundraiser.

Supplementing that effort, Shepard notified several of his campaign contributors in search of contributions to aid the Frantz/Ashby fund. Any contribution earmarked for the trust fund was set aside for that purpose.

From these efforts, checks totalling $1,000 were received. Shepard traveled to Garrett County last week to attend the Republican Women's picnic at the Accident Town Park, to present the checks to Frantz's widow, Debbie.

Any further contributions for this purpose will be accepted, and referred to the Frantz/Ashby Trust Fund.

Oakland Woman Convicted Of Battery In District Court

Among the numerous cases heard recently in Garrett County District Court was one involving an Oakland woman who was found guilty of two counts of battery.

Kathleen L. Capan, 32, was convicted of those offenses by Allegany County District Court Judge Timothy Finan. The judge waived fines and court costs because of Capan's indigence, and placed her on 18 months of supervised probation for each count. The conditions of her probation state that she must satisfacrily complete mental health counseling as directed by Garrett County Mental Health. Two additional charges of child abuse were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Capan was charged with those offenses on April 13-14 after she reportedly struck one minor child with her fists, causing a swollen eye, and also struck the child again on his back with a broom stick. She reportedly struck another minor child on the head and shoulder with her fists, and on the legs with a belt.

Cpl. Randy L. Sines, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and Carla Hyson from the Department of Social Services, investigated the incident at the defendant's home, and she was subsequently arrested.

In other district court news, David M. Stoner Sr., 38, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of harassment and one count of battery, at the request of the complainant, Sharon Stoner. Allegany District Court Judge Paul Stakem was presiding in the absence of Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett. The charges stemmed from a domestic incident involving the two in April.

Robert A. Kilduff Jr., 26, McHenry, pleaded guilty to possession of CDS, and was granted probation before judgment. He was fined $150 and placed on 12 months of supervised probation, until he completes a drug education course, and then probation will be unsupervised. An additional charge of CDS paraphernalia use was not prosecuted by the state's attorney because of a plea agreement.

The charges stemmed from an April 14 incident when a search and seizure warrant was executed by the Maryland State Police Drug Enforcement Division, to search a vehicle at Kilduff's residence. The search revealed a wooden smoking pipe containing suspected marijuana, resulting in his arrest.

Ronald E. Teets, 37, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, at the request of the victim.

Michael Corby, 19, Swanton, had a motion to revise his sentence denied by Judge Burnett.

Corby had been convicted on one count of intimidating/influencing a juror. The judge sentenced him to 60 days in jail, with 30 days suspended, fined him $350, with $300 of that amount suspended, and placed him on one year of supervised probation, after an incident that occurred between Jan. 28 and April 7, when Corby threatened Steven Eyler, a witness in a case of the State of Maryland vs. Parker and Corby. Corby's sister, Billy J. Corby, was a defendant in the case.

Corby was found not guilty of harassment against Eyler, stemming from the same incident.

Ann Sweitzer, 61, was not prosecuted on one count of harassment because of insufficient evidence. She was charged with the offense after an incident in Grantsville that occurred between March 20 and April 21, involving Walter Eggers.

Charges of repeated telephone abuse and harassment against Dennis J. Skeweris, 38, Oakland, were placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainant, Clifford Dull, 27, also of Oakland.

In a cross-complaint, a charge of battery against Dull was also placed on the stet docket, at Skeweris' request. The charges against the two stemmed from a Feb. 22 incident.

James Speicher Jr., 24, McHenry, was convicted on one count of trespassing in Judge Finan's court. He was handed a 90-day suspended sentence, fined $500, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation for the offense. Additional charges of breaking and entering, disturbing the peace, and being disorderly on private property, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney.

Speicher had been charged with those crimes on Nov. 30, 1993, by Kenneth B. Sukow, Accident, after he was reportedly disorderly on Sukow's property, remained on the property after he was asked to leave, and was disruptive in the neighborhood. Speicher was later arrested on the strength of a warrant by Maryland State Police.

The judge also ordered Speicher to stay away from Kenneth B. Sukow's house and place of employment, and to have no hostile contact with him.

Three charges of battery against Speicher, resulting from a unrelated incident, were placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainant. The charges stemmed from a Nov. 18, 1993, altercation involving Victoria M. Murdock.

Nancy M. Niner, 24, Massillon, Ohio, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on one count of trespassing because the complainant, Carol S. Burns, Mtn. Lake Park, failed to appear in court.

Charges of repeated telephone abuse, trespassing on private property, and being disorderly on private property against Lisa D. Fratz, 35, Accident, were all placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainant, Anna M. Fratz, McHenry.

Also placed on the stet docket were charges of assault, spinning wheels, and speed greater than reasonable, against Frank D. Futch, 27, Swanton, at the request of the victim, Donald G. Duckworth, also of Swanton. Duckworth had filed the charges against Futch after an incident near his home in June 1992.

Joe Ashby, 41, and Joey Ashby, 19, both of Oakland, were each charged with one count of battery involving Philip R. Coddington. At Coddington's request, neither Ashby was prosecuted. The charges stemmed from a March 8 incident at Coddington's home.

A Burrell, Pa., man was convicted on one count of malicious destruction of property and was handed a 60-day sentence, with all of the sentence suspended except for time already served.

John J. McAndrew, 40, had been charged with the crime by state police after he reportedly destroyed a phone booth at the Trading Post truck stop on Keysers Ridge on March 4.

McAndrew had 60-days' credit for time he had already served in the Garrett County Jail, and the judge ordered he be released

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases were heard over the past few weeks in district court.

Samuel Fheo Polce, 23, Frederick, had a motion to revise his DWI sentence denied by Judge Burnett.

Thomas James Meyers, 21, Ohio, failed to appear on a DWI charge. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest, and a new $250 bond was issued by Judge Stakem. Meyers' initial arrest for the offense was on July 9, 1993, by Maryland State Police.

Frederick Drew Sanders, 52, Oakland, was convicted on one count of DWI in Stakem's court. He was handed a one-year sentence, which was reduced to six months and one day, fined $1,000, and placed on three years of probation supervised by the DWI Monitor.

David Richard Armstrong, 21, W.Va., had a sentence revision approved by Judge Burnett. His jail term was suspended, except for time already served. His arrest for DWI was on Feb. 21, 1993, by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Russell Joseph Rounds, 64, Md., was found guilty on one count of DWI. The charge was amended to DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol). Judge Burnett handed him a 30-day suspended sentence, fined him $350, and placed him on one year of supervised probation.

GCC Offering Fall Semester Science Course

A new three-credit course, Introduction to Science (SC100), has been added to the Garrett Community College fall semester schedule, according to Jim Allen, director of technology.

The course has been designed to take a non-mathematical approach to science and to give students a broader perspective of science than is normally taught in the traditional laboratory sciences, Allen said. It will begin by looking at the nature of science and the scientific method, then the 18 general principles that bind together all scientific knowledge and the key principles important in each of the three main branches of science: physical science, earth science, and life science.

Allen explains that the course might be titled, "Basic Scientific Literacy."

"A fundamental background in science is essential it we are to ask intelligent questions and make informed decisions about the sort of issues that confront us everyday: global warming, the ethics of genetic engineering, destruction of the rain forests, funding for superconductor research. Scientific literacy can also help us to understand how something as abstruse as quantum mechanics can challenge the concept of an ordered, predictable universe that has prevailed for the last 300 years," he said.

The course will be taught by Allen on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in Room 308. Anyone desiring further information about the course may call Allen at 387-3006.

DNR Thanks Farmers Who Participate In WHIP Program

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has commended Maryland farmers who have enrolled in the Wildlife Habitat Improvement Program (WHIP).

"While severe weather like last winter's creates a lingering nuisance for the citizens of Maryland, prolonged periods of ice and snow can practically eliminate all sources of food for wildlife," Dr. Brown said.

Many wildlife species feed on waste corn, soybeans, and sorghum left scattered on the ground from the previous fall harvest. Ringnecked pheasants, bobwhite quail, songbirds, Canada geese, and other waterfowl depend on waste grain for their winter food. Extended periods of snow and ice-covered farmlands cause these high energy foods to disappear from wildlife diets, forcing wildlife to expend more time and energy searching for food, thereby making them more susceptible to predation.

Farmers enrolled in the upland part of the WHIP program leave unharvested crops next to permanent cover, allowing wildlife to easily forage for food above the ice and snow and then retreat into cover when threatened by predators.

In 1993, WHIP provided 600 acres of wildlife food and cover. The 1994 WHIP sign-up was again very successful representing the fifth straight year that farmers and landowners' bids exceeded available funding. Since 1989 the program has provided $750,000 to landowners who have left about 4,000 acres of unharvested crops for food and cover.

Funded by a portion of revenues from the sale of non-resident hunting licenses, DNR's Wildlife Division has made WHIP available to 10 counties. The upland game portion of the program is available in Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick, Washington, Calvert, Charles, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, and Dorchester counties. The water-fowl portion of the program focuses on the primary winter range of Canada geese and is available in Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Dorchester and Calvert counties. Emphasis on declining populations of ring-necked pheasants, bobwhite quail and Canada geese determined the counties eligible for WHIP.

For further information, those interested should contact the DNR Habitat Program, Fish, Heritage and Wildlife Administration, P.O. Box 68, Wye Mills, MD, 21679, (410) 827-8612.

Maryland Egg Production Totals

Maryland laying flocks produced 69 million eggs during May 1994. No similar date is available for 1993 when estimates were made quarterly. Rate of lay was 2,279 eggs per 100 layers or 73.5 percent. The average number of layers on hand during the month was 3,027,000. On June 1, 1994, 2.5 percent of the layers in Maryland were being molted; 23 percent of all layers were through a molt.

Farm Bureau Outlines Goals For Farm Bill

The 1995 farm bill should continue in the basic direction of current law but provide more planting flexibility and creative environmental incentives while maintaining farm income, the American Farm Bureau Federation recently told a House Agriculture subcommittee.

"Improving net farm income, enhancing the economic opportunity for farmers and preserving property rights are our most important goals and should be the foundation on which all farm policy is built," said Bob Stallman, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, at ta hearing on the outlook for agriculture and farm policy.

Stallman, an AFBF board member, expressed concern that the new farm bill will mean more budget cuts for agriculture. Farm program payments have dropped by $21 billion since 1989, he noted. "These (cuts) have been felt on the bottom line of many farm families." Since then, net cash farm income is about 10 percent lower, he added.

Stallman said the next farm bill shouldn't continue that trend by creating new conservation incentive payments with dollars previously allocated for farm support programs. He said such new programs are "deserving of consideration" but "should not be funded by reductions in direct income support programs." They should be "companion" programs he asserted, not replacements for traditional commodity programs.

Along those lines, he said the conservation reserve program, which is expiring, should be continued and made more flexible. Without a CRP, he added, the farm program will require large set-asides, which will make the program ineffective in controlling commodity supplies, supporting farm income or achieving environmental goals.

Maryland Milk Production Down Three Percent

Maryland dairy operators produced 123 million pounds of milk during May 1994, down three percent from the same month a year earlier. The number of milk cows declined to 93,000 head from the 100,000 head of a year earlier. Yield per cow during May, at 1,320 pounds, increased 50 pounds from a year earlier.

Fly Control Methods For Livestock

Sanitation

Good sanitation practices are the basis for all fly control programs and can account for as much as 75 percent toward the prevention of fly breeding. Sanitation should be the first line of defense against house flies and other filth-breeding fly species. Under optimum conditions, house flies can complete their life cycle (egg to adult) in as few as nine days. By adhering to a strict manure management program throughout the period of greatest fly activity, it is possible to disrupt the life cycles of these pests.

(a) Remove all manure from livestock pens as frequently as possible. Pens with calves or bulls require special attention and should be cleaned once or twice a week. A clean livestock barn has fewer fly problems.

(b) Manure that has been removed should be spread thinly on fields or other large areas to facilitate rapid drying. This will help kill rapid developing fly eggs and larvae. Another option is to stack the manure and cover completely with black plastic.

(c) Eliminate silage seepage areas, wet litter, manure stacks, old wet hay or straw bales, and other organic matter accumulations that may attract flies on the farm. Wet feed remaining at the ends of mangers also will breed flies.

(d) Provide proper drainage in barn yards. Use clean gravel and other fill to eliminate low spots.

To be successful in controlling flies, it is important to implement a control program that best fits the operation. Reliance on a single practice or pesticide product is not the best approach.

Residual Sprays

The next line of defense is residual sprays applied to the outside and inside of buildings. Residual sprays are applied to walls, ceilings, partitions, stanchions, posts and other fly resting places. These sprays are much more effective in stanchion barns than in loose-housing, open barns where landing and resting surfaces are minimal. Smooth surfaces require less spray than rough, porous surfaces. Thoroughly wet the surface to the point of runoff at low pressures of 80 to 100 pounds per square inch. Avoid contamination of feed, drinking water, milk, milking utensils, and milk rooms. The importance of FOLLOWING DIRECTIONS EXACTLY ACCORDING TO LABEL cannot be stressed enough when using any pesticide product.

Long Residual Treatments

(a) Dimethoate (Cygon). Follow directions according to label. Remove animals (except birds in poultry house) from building before spraying. Keep animals out of treated buildings for at least four hours.

(b) Fenvalerate (10 percent) (Ectrin Water Dispersible Liquid). Mix one quart product in 10 gallons water and apply at the rate of one gallon of spray per 750 square feet. Remove animals before spraying. Keep animals out of treated building for at least four hours. Do not contaminate feed or drinking water. THIS PRODUCT IS LABELED FOR USE ONLY IN SWINE OR HORSE BUILDINGS.

(c) Permethrin (25 percent) (Atroban WP). Mix 6.67 oz. product in 10 gallons of water and apply at the rate of one gallon spray per 1,000 square feet. Do not make direct applications to animals, feed or drinking water. THIS PRODUCT IS NOT LABELED FOR USE IN MILK ROOMS.

(d) Permethrin (10 percent) (Permectrin II). Mix one quart product in 25 gallons of water and apply at the rate of one gallon of spray per 750 square feet. Can be used in barns, dairies, feedlots, stables and poultry houses.

(e) Permethrin (Ectiban; Hard Hitter; Insectrin). Refer to label for use directions regarding these as well as other permethrin products.

(f) Tetrachlorvinphos (50 percent) (Rabon 50 WP). Follow directions according to label. Remove animals before spraying. Keep animals out of treated buildings for at least four hours. Do not contaminate feed or drinking water. Can be used in dairy barns, poultry houses, swine buildings, and other animal buildings.

(g) Tetrachlorvinphos (23 percent) and dichlorvos (5.3 percent) (Ravap EC). Mix one gallon product in 25 gallons water (or one gallon product in 12.5 gallon water for extreme infestations) and apply at the rate of one gallon of spray per 500-1,000 square feet of walls, ceilings, or other areas where flies rest or congregate. Remove animals before spraying. Keep animals out of treated buildings for at least four hours. Do not contaminate feed or drinking water. Can be used in dairy barns, poultry houses, swine buildings, livestock sheds, and other animals buildings.

Rain Continues To Evade Many Farms Downstate

During the week ending July 17, drought conditions prevailed in several major growing areas in the State. Conditions were most severe in parts of the southern Eastern Shore. Rain benefitted crops in some areas but other localities still had dire needs for rain as crops were becoming dry and stressed. The hot, dry weather has provided Maryland farmers the opportunity to harvest their small grains with very little delay but 80 percent of the oats remain to be harvested. Nearly all of the wheat and barley have been combined. Some sorghum was headed, and a few soybeans were in bloom. This year potato harvest was ahead of last year. Cantaloupe, cucumbers and snap beans harvest was underway. Pasture feed provided fair grazing conditions and hay was adequate in most areas. Peach harvest was ahead of the same week a year earlier. Apples were in fair condition. Grasshoppers were active on crops.

Topsoil moisture was very short in eight percent of the state, 35 percent was short and 50 percent had adequate moisture; subsoil moisture was very short in 13 percent of Maryland, 55 percent was short and 32 percent had adequate supplies of moisture. Warm and wet days allowed an average of 6.0 days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Maryland's progress for the week ending July 17 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Planting progress: Corn, silked, 34, 38, 35. Soybeans, planted, 96, 96, 94; blooming, 11, 9, 15. Small Grains: Wheat, harvested, 94, 97, 88; Barley, harvested, 99, 99, 97; Oats, harvested, 75, 71, 74. Sweet corn, harvested, 33, 17, 20. Alfalfa hay, 2nd cutting, 92, 88, 76. Other hay, 2nd cutting, 59, 56, 36. Peaches, harvested, 17, 8, 13.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending July 17, had above normal temperatures and precipitation which ranged from light to heavy. Temperatures averaged 80.0 degrees, 4.3 degrees above the normal of 75.7 degrees for the July 8 through July 15 period. Minimum temperatures were as low as 48 degrees at Oakland, but generally in the 60's. Maximum temperature was 99 degrees in College Park, and generally in the 90's for all stations. Precipitation averaged 0.65 inches, 0.21 inches below the normal of 0.86 inches. Precipitation ranged from 0.00 at Upper Marlboro to 2.70 inches at Wilmington. Regional rainfall averages were: Western, 0.80; North Central, 0.69; Southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.89 and Eastern Shore, 0.37 inches.

USDA Proposes Requiring Certification For All Imported Milk And Milk Products

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed to require that all milk and milk products imported into the United States be accompanied by certificates stating that the milk was produced and processed in countries declared free of rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease (FMD).

To prevent the introduction of these diseases, the importation of milk and milk products is restricted unless the exporting countries are considered to be free of rinderpest and FMD by USDA's criteria. As many trade barriers are being lifted among countries, especially among members of the European Union, it has become increasingly difficult for USDA to ensure that milk and milk products imported into the United States have never been in a country where rinderpest and FMD exist.

To ensure that milk or milk products being imported into the United States were produced and processed in countries free of rinderpest and FMD, the proposed rule would require that a certificate accompany all such shipments. This certificate would have to be endorsed by a full-time salaried veterinarian employed by the exporting country. It would state the country in which the milk was produced and the country in which the milk or milk products were processed. The certificate would also have to state that the milk product has never been in any country in which rinderpest or FMD exist.

This proposal would not apply to milk or milk products imported from Canada because Canada shares a common land border with only the United States and imports milk and milk products under the same restrictions as the United States.

FMD is a severe, highly communicable viral disease of cattle and swine that has been eradicated from the United States since 1929. The FMD virus has a remarkable capacity for remaining viable in carcasses and animal products and by-products. The U.S. livestock population is highly susceptible to FMD since it was eradicated a long time ago and no animals are vaccinated against it. The U.S. cattle population is also highly susceptible to rinderpest, a viral bovine disease that has never occurred in North America.

This proposed rule was published in the June 21 Federal Register. Comments will be considered if received on or before Aug. 22. To submit a written comment, send the original and three copies referring to docket number 93-061-1 to Chief, Regulatory Analysis and Development, PPD, APHIS, USDA, Room 804 Federal Building, 6505 Belcress Road, Hyattsville, MD. 20782. Comments received may be reviewed at USDA, Room 1141 South Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C., between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays. Persons wishing to review comments are requested to call ahead on (202) 690-2817 to facilitate entry into the comment reading room.

The information collection and record keeping requirement of this proposed rule will be submitted to the Office of Management and Budget for approval. Please send copies of written comments also to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for APHIS, Washington, D.C. 20503; and to Clearance Officer, OIRM, USDA, Room 404-W, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250.

Espy Call EPA Regulation A Big Victory

Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy says the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) reformulated gasoline regulation is a big win for farmers and a step forward for the nation.

The rule requires 30 percent of oxygen added to reformulated gasoline be derived from renewable resources, and fulfills President Clinton's promise to provide a meaningful role for ethanol and other renewable fuels in the reformulated gasoline program. In addition, increasing the U.S. ethanol market could substantially reduce America's dependence on foreign oil.

"This is a major triumph for the farmer and taxpayer with long-term benefits for agriculture, the environment and the consumer," said Espy. "The best way to improve financial conditions for U.S. agriculture is by expanding demand for our products. Increased use of ethanol will generate new market demand for corn and other commodities. This will improve farm prices, farm income and create new jobs in rural areas."

Studies show this new regulation will lessen our dependence on fossil energy and reduce emissions that damage the ozone layer, Espy added.

The EPA rule will increase ethanol demand by 500 million gallons a year. That translates to an additional 200 million bushels of corn every year.

The benefits for farmers will begin with this year's harvest as additional corn is ground to meet new ethanol demand. USDA estimates corn prices could increase 4-8 cents per bushel over the next two years as a result of EPA's rule. These price increases would decrease deficiency payments for feed grains and raise U.S. net farm income.

The rule is also expected to spur new investment in ethanol plants throughout the Midwest. USDA expects ethanol capacity to top 1.7 billion gallons annually by the end of 1996. This expansion will increase economic opportunities in rural America by creating new markets for corn. With continued growth, ethanol production could reach 2 billion gallons annually by the year 2000.

Agricultural Conservation Program Works

Producers are converting soil, water and environmental problems on more than 106 acres of farmland in Garrett County through the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

So far this year the Garrett County Agricultural stabilization and Conservation Service has approved 16 requests for ACP cost-share assistance.

Michael R. Kozier, Garrett County Executive Director, says producers should report their completed practices as soon as possible for prompt payments. Producers who cannot complete the ACP practice by the expiration date should notify ASCS immediately.

The ACP provides technical and financial assistance to help farmers correct critical soil, water and pollution problems on their land.

For additional information on the ACP or other programs, those interested should contact the Garrett County ASCS Office at 334-1901.

Hog Inventory Up Three Percent

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on June 1, 1994, is estimated at 60.1 million head. This is a three percent increase from last year and two percent above June 1, 1992.

Breeding inventory, at 7.54 million head, is three percent above last year and slightly above two years ago. Market hog inventory at 52.6 million head, was three percent above a year ago and two percent above June 1, 1992.

The December 1993-May 1994 U.S. pig crop was 50.4 million head, three percent more than last year but slightly below the same period in 1992. Sows farrowing during the six-month period totaled 6.16 million, up three percent from last year but two percent below the same period in 1992. Pigs saved per litter were 8.18, a new record high for the period, compared with 8.13 last year and 8.06 two years ago. U.S. hog producers intend to have 6.25 million sows farrowed during the June-November period, five percent above the actual sows farrowed during the same period in 1993 and four percent above two years ago. Farrowings for both June-August and September-November are expected to be up five percent from last year.

Miss Graham, Mr. Cuppett Wed In February Ceremony

Heather Gale Graham and Daniel Clay Cuppett were united in marriage Feb. 26 at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland. The Rev. William Forrest Lee performed the double-ring ceremony.

Marcella Kerens was the organist. Prior to the ceremony the mothers of the bride and groom lit family candles which were used to light the unity candle.

Altar arrangements of red carnations, purple heather, and ivy were in memory of the bride's father.

The bride is the daughter of Vera Graham, Oakland, and the late Marvin Gale Graham. The groom is the son of James and Lois Cuppett, also of Oakland.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and her family, and was escorted to the altar by her grandfather, Herbert Gibson, and her uncle, Melvin Graham. Her gown was an Alfred Angelo original of white prima satin and chantilly lace. A scooped neckline highlighted with schiffili lace and sequined embroidery accented the fitted bodice. The drop asymmetrical waistline featured a satin rosette which held the graceful swirl of the skirt. A keyhole opening trimmed in schiffili lace adorned the back bodice. The gown was finished by an elegantly simple chapel-length train.

The bride's veil was attached to a crown of organza roses, lily of the valley, and pearls which had been worn by her mother. A single strand of pearls which belonged to her paternal grandmother, Zora Graham, completed her ensemble. The bridal arm bouquet was of fresh calla lilies, pink roses, purple heather, and ivy.

Dawn Friend, Accident, served as maid of honor. She was attired in an emerald green full-length gown with a cape face-framing collar. She carried an arm bouquet of fresh calla lilies, purple heather, and ivy.

The groomsmen were Amerigo Diehl, California, Pa., and Steve Seman, Arlington, Va. Ushers were Patrick and David Fink of Morgantown, cousins of the bride.

A buffet reception followed the ceremony at the Elks Lodge in Oakland. A three-tiered wedding cake on crystal columns was prepared by Mrs. Dean Sisler, and elegantly decorated with white doves, fresh heather, and ivy. The cake was served by Darlene Fink, aunt of the bride. The groom's cake, tira misu, was served by the groom's aunt, Ruth Peterson, and punch was served by Roselle Gow, special friend of the bride. Photographer was C.B. Bishoff and videographer was Ervin Fink, uncle of the bride.

The reception hall was decorated with red heart-shaped and multi-colored balloons, table decorations of candles and fresh flowers, and trees decorated with miniature white lights. An arch of balloons of amethyst, burgundy, indigo, and emerald was placed above the bridal table. Pictures of the wedding couple from kindergarten to the present were displayed.

Christina Quick, friend of the bride, Parkersburg, W.Va., was guest book attendant. Entertainment was provided by the Mirth Makers who performed mime and magic, and music was by Kierstead and DuBose.

The bride's uncle, Melvin Graham, provided the newlyweds with a luxury weekend at Nemacolin Woodlands, Uniontown, Pa.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Southern High School, attended Garrett Community College, and are juniors at West Virginia University.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Silver Tree Inn.

Special guests were the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gibson, Kingwood, W.Va., and Mrs. Rebecca May, Somerset, Pa., maternal grandmother of the groom.

It was adorned with re-embroidered Alencon lace, pearls and sequins on the bodice and hemline. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline and shirred cap long sleeves, satin to the elbows and lace from the elbows to points over the hands. The detachable chapel train, held under a large bow, was enhanced with cascading embroidered cut-outs, pearls and sequins.

The bride's near waist-length veil was held by a band of satin roses. Her only jewelry was diamond and pearl earrings. She carried a nosegay bouquet of white stargazer lilies, dendrobium orchids, bridal roses, heather, ivy, pihosporum and ming fern.

The six bridesmaids wore floor-length Biarchi sheaths in Caribbean Blue Bengal Moire, with matching shoes. The backs were enhanced with large bows, and each attendant carried a nosegay of stargazer lilies and nerines lilies. In each bouquet was also heather, jacaranda roses, ivy and ming fern.

The flower girl, Elizabeth Scott, niece of the groom, wore a floor-length dress of white moire taffeta, with a satin sash and rosebuds fashioned by hand. The dress featured puffed sleeves, and was made by the groom's mother. The flower girl also wore a circle headpiece of baby's breath and ribbons, white ballet slippers, and white gloves. She carried a basket of stargazer lilies, nerines, heather, jacaranda roses and ivy.

The best man wore a boutonniere of a white rose and pink boronia, with pittosporum. The groomsmen each wore a jacaranda rose and pink boronia, with pittosporum. The father of the bride and ushers wore white roses with pink boronia and pittosporum.

The mother of the bride, Dollie Baggett, wore a dress of pale pink lace and chiffon. The bodice and sleeves were encrusted with pearls. She wore matching shoes, and a wrist corsage of purple dendrobium orchids. The mother of the groom, Elizabeth H. Scott, wore a peach chiffon and brocade dress with matching shoes and a wrist corsage of white dendrobium orchids. Laura Mae Flanigan, 99-year-old grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of pale orchid and a corsage of white carnations and pink heather.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held aboard the riverboat Annabelle Lee, while it cruised the James River. A buffet luncheon was served. A three-tiered, white iced wedding cake was trimmed in Caribbean blue, and topped with a large glass bride and groom. The boat was decorated with baskets of pink and white roses and baby's breath, and Palm and fiscus trees.

A disc jockey played songs popular in the 1960s, '70s and '80s, and the couple danced their first dance to Only You.

Toasts to the bride and groom were given by their fathers, and by Chris Cornish.

All live flowers were provided by Vogue Florist, Richmond. The photography and videography were by Burroughs Studios, Richmond.

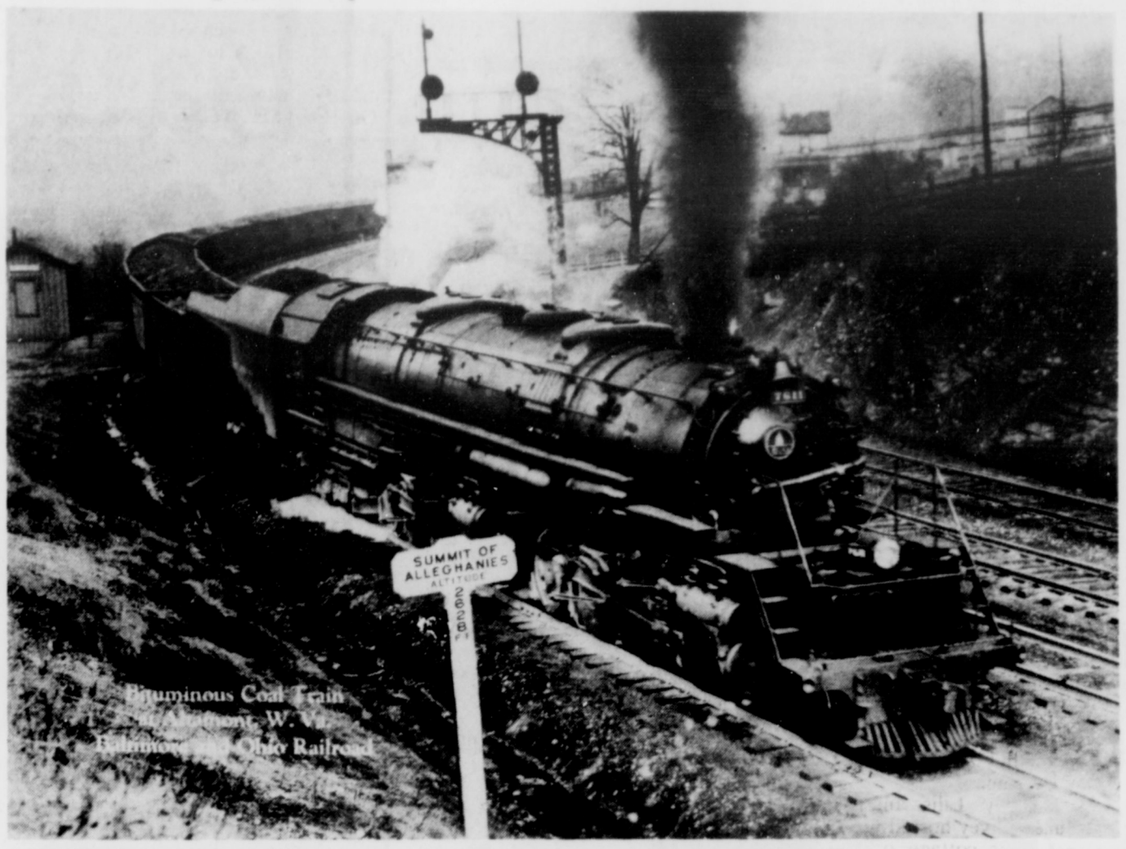
Glimpse Of The Past . . .



POWERFUL STEAM ENGINES, such as this Baltimore and Ohio coal train, were a common sight in Garrett County a number of years ago. This photo was taken at Altamont, just east of Deer Park, by a photographer who evidently thought he was in West Virginia at the time (note the address at lower left). This undated photo is from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society museum and is published courtesy of the Society and The Republican. Membership in the Society is $10 per year, which includes issues of its quarterly publication, the Glades Star. Wilson Speaks To Garrett Co. Forestry Board

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board met July 11 in the Department of Natural Resources Forest Service Office at Mt Nebo. John Wilson, DNR, Program Open Space, Wild and Scenic River Project was the evening's guest speaker. He gave the forestry board members an update on the Youghiogheny Wild and Scenic River draft management plan and regulations.

The regulations for the Youghiogheny River Corridor state that the forestry board will review all forest harvest plans within the corridor, according to Wilson. The Garrett board members had expressed concern that this would be another layer of bureaucracy that would inhibit management activities within the corridor. Wilson explained how the review process would work, and that the boundaries of the corridor have been reduced from approximately 11,000 acres originally, to about 4,000 acres.

Karin Miller, Grantsville, and Allan Arnson, Bittinger, represented the Garrett Forestry Board at a one-day seminar in Annapolis in May. The topic of the seminar was "An Ecosystem Approach to Forest Management."

The 1994 Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources Week, sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards, in cooperation with Maryland DNR Public Lands and Forest Service, will be July 25-30, at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center. The board members discussed the upcoming workshop and the board's involvement with the program.

The Garrett Forestry Board, in cooperation with the Garrett County Board of Education, sponsored a tour of the U.S. Forest Service Fernow Experimental Forest near Parsons, W.Va. This tour was deemed a success, and plans are underway for teachers to tour the forest industries in the fall.

For new business we discussed plans of having a float and booth at the fair.

We met July 18 at the Bittinger fire hall to work on the booth. The next regular meeting will be August 1 at 7 p.m.

Ninth Graders Re-Visit GCC McHenry Campus

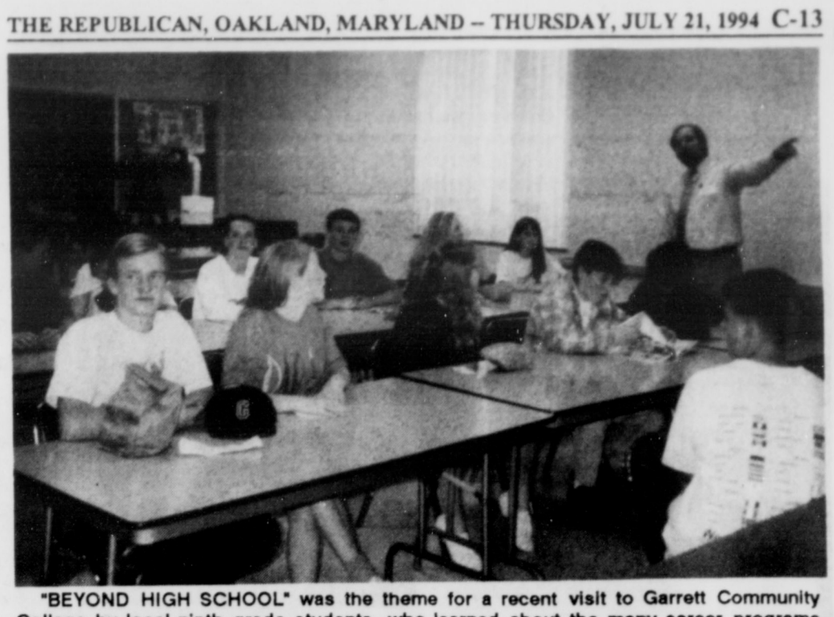
"Beyond High School" was the theme for the day at Garrett Community College recently when over 300 ninth graders from Northern and Southern high schools came to the campus to hear about various career programs offered at area colleges.

The students, who had been the first group of fifth graders to participate in the College & Me program during the 1989-90 school year, attended four seminars during the day presented by representatives of Garrett Community College, Allegany Community College, Hagerstown Junior College, Fairmont State University, and Frostburg State University.

GCC faculty who conducted seminars were Mike Logsdon, Adventure Sports; Tammy Manthos, Office Technology; Kevin Dodge, Natural Resources and Wildlife Technologies; Tammy White, Business Management; and Willie Lantz, Agricultural Management.

The College & Me Program, originally funded by the Maryland Higher Education Commission through the Regional Education Service Agency, is now funded jointly by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College. Designed to acquaint Garrett County students with college opportunities, the program provides for each fifth grade class to spend one week on the college campus during which the students have their regular subjects taught by their teachers and a series of special enrichment classes taught by college personnel.

According to Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, the College & Me program has been very successful and will be continued next year.



"BEYOND HIGH SCHOOL" was the theme for a recent visit to Garrett Community College by local ninth grade students, who learned about the many career programs offered at the McHenry Campus. This was a "re-visit" to GCC by these students, who were the first group of College and Me program youth who spent a week at the college several years ago as fifth graders. Above, GCC faculty member Mike Logsdon tells students about GCC's unique Adventure Sports program. See story.

DHCD To Hold Building Code Public Hearings

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) will conduct public hearings on adopting the BOCA National Building Code, with possible modifications, as the Maryland Building Performance Standards (MBPS). The purpose of these hearings is to establish consistent standards for all structures built in the state of Maryland. The hearings are open to the public and interested citizens are encouraged to attend.The meeting for western Maryland is scheduled for Monday, July 25, 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. in the Washington County Administration Building, 1st Floor Conference Room, 100 West Washington St., Hagerstown.

Earlier this year, Governor Schaefer signed into law Senate Bill 337, requiring DHCD to adopt, through regulation, the BOCA National Building Code as the code for the state. The MBPS will apply to all buildings and structures constructed in Maryland (with limited exceptions) on or after August 1, 1995. Local jurisdictions are authorized to adopt amendments to MBPS, to suit local conditions.

"DHCD has already prepared regulations to ratify the 1993 BOCA National Building Code as the blueprint version of MBPS," said Jacqueline H. Rogers, secretary for DHCD. We will evaluate the oral and written testimonies that result from the hearings, and determine the appropriate action to amend the National Code to formally become the Maryland Code."

DHCD, in conjunction with the Maryland Energy Administration (MEA), will also hold public hearings to determine whether or not it is necessary to update the Maryland Energy Conservation Building Standards Act (Article 78, Section 54J of the Energy Code). The Energy Policy Act of 1992 (EPACT), as passed by the U.S. Congress, was signed into law on October 24, 1992. This act requires each state to hold public hearings and, based on information received at the hearings, to determine if it is necessary for the state to update residential building codes to meet or exceed the 1992 CABO Model Energy Code. Currently, Maryland's Energy Conservation Standards require all new construction to comply with the latest edition of the BOCA Energy Code, or its equivalent.

"Upgrading a state-wide energy code provides significant benefits to the citizens of Maryland," said Dr. Gerald L. Thorpe, executive director of the Maryland Energy Administration. "By promoting sustainability of our economy through energy savings, Maryland shows its leadership in environmental and economic matters."

Individuals and representatives of organizations who wish to be heard at the public hearings are being asked to furnish, in writing or by telephone, their name, address, telephone number and organization affiliation (if appropriate) at least five days before the hearing date. This information should be sent to James Magliano, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, Codes Administration, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, MD. 21032-2023. Magliano can be reached at 410-514-7216 or TDD 410-514-7531.

Those individuals or members of organizations who have requested an opportunity to speak will be allotted a time limit of up to five minutes to present their views. Written statements relative to the subject matter being discussed may be presented in lieu of or in addition to oral statements at the hearing. Written statements may also be submitted for the record up to five days after the public hearing. Speakers should bring 15 copies of their testimony for distribution to officials at the hearings.

These public hearings are being conducted in locations that are accessible to people with disabilities. Any individual who requires special assistance should contact Jim Magliano at least five days prior to the public hearing to assure appropriate accommodations.

Copies of the 1993 BOCA National Building Code and the 1992 CABO Model Energy Code can be obtained from the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, the Maryland Energy Administration and public libraries throughout the state.

The Mtn. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Tuesday, August 16, 1994 at 5:30 p.m. in the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review an application on the following docketed case:

1) Docket 94-3-SE; an application made by Devlin Inc. for a Special Exception permit to allow the development of a

STATE OF MARYLAND
DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT
ADMINISTRATION TENTATIVE DETERMINATION TO ISSUE GENERAL PERMIT FOR SURFACE COAL MINES AND RELATED FACILITIES

The Department has made a tentative determination to issue a State/NPDES (National Pollution Discharge Elimination System) general permit for surface coal mines and related facilities in Maryland. These effluents have the potential to add significant, and sometimes toxic, pollutants to state waters. Since the discharges from most surface coal mines and related facilities have the same characteristics, this class of discharges is appropriate for coverage under a general permit. Such a permit would authorize the discharge of stormwater runoff and groundwater seepage from both active and inactive surface coal mines, including the access roads and the reclamation areas, provided that the terms and conditions of the general permit are met. The permit limitations for pH (6.0-9.0), total suspended solids (TSS) (45 mg/1), and total iron (6.0 mg/1) daily maximum and 3.0 mg/1 monthly average) are equal to or are more stringent than the best available technology (BAT) limitations recommended for alkaline mine drainage in federal regulations (40 CFR 434.42-.43). The more stringent limitations for TSS and total iron are consistent with the effluent limits imposed previously in individual Maryland surface coal mine permits. Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 20 year, 24-hour storm. Turbidity limitations (100 NTU daily maximum and 50 NTU month average) are established because turbidity can easily be tested in the field and the results are immediately available. 100 Nephelometer turbidity units (NTU) is approximately equivalent to 45 mg/1 TSS and assures compliance with the State's in-stream criteria for turbidity. If the wastewater is acid or ferruginous, effluent limits for manganese are also imposed.

Discharge monitoring will still be required after the mine reclamation has been completed. The parameters and the frequency, however, are different than those required for active mining operations. The limitations for pH (6.0-9.0) and settleable solids (0.5 mg/1) are equal to the BAT limits in federal regulations 40 CFR 434.52-.53. Special pH limits are imposed for precipitation events greater than a 20 year, 24-hour storm. A condition for groundwater protection is imposed to require that any pool of standing water within the mining permit area which remains for more than 48 hours after a precipitation event be maintained at a pH of 6.0 to 9.0. The requirement to test the effluent for 113 heavy metals, when one-half of the area which drains to any outfall has been disturbed, provides additional protection to surface waters. If metal levels are found to exceed acceptable water quality criteria, the permittee may be required to obtain an individual discharge permit. Additional permit conditions require implementation of an approved sediment and erosion control plan, maintenance of access roads to sediment control ponds, prohibit the use of phosphorus, nitrogen or chlorine for wastewater treatment without prior approval from the Department, and the establishment of monitoring and reporting requirements.

The Department will hold a public hearing concerning this tentative determination at 1 p.m. in Room 6, Continuing Education Building, Allegany Community College, Willowbrook Road, Cumberland, Maryland on August 9, 1994. The public hearing will also address revisions to COMAR 26.08.04.09 and 26.08.04.09-1 which describe discharges that can be covered under this permit and the application and permit fees to be collected. Written comments concerning this tentative determination will also be considered in the preparation of a final determination if received by the Department, at the above address, on or before August 23, 1994.

All information supporting this tentative determination, including the draft permit, may be reviewed by contacting Mark Jacobs at the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224 or by telephone at (410) 631-3395 to make an appointment during the hours from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The area to be annexed is located generally in the vicinity of Tenth Street, and includes properties owned by Oakley and Judy White and George A. Scheffel.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND THAT ALL THE LAND LYING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF THE HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED PARCEL SHALL BE ANNEXED TO AND BECOME PART OF THE TOWN OF OAKLAND.

All that lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Election District 16 of Garrett County, Maryland, adjoining the corporate limits of the Town of Oakland as of June 1, 1994, and composed of a part of Tenth Street; a part of the lands of the property owned now or formerly by the Fred E. Beachy Lumber Company (Liber 263 at folio 448) which is the lot remaining between the lands owned now or formerly by Howard R. Teagarden (Liber 277 at folio 565) and the lands of Frank E. Whitehair (Liber 310 at folio 359); and the property conveyed to George A. Scheffel, Sr., by deed made April 10, 1992, from the First United National Bank and Trust and recorded in Liber 581 at folio 440, all among the land records of Garrett County, Maryland, more particularly described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING at a 3/4 inch iron pipe found at the southwesterly corner of property owned now or formerly by Howard R. Teagarden, (Liber 277 at folio 565) and in the fourth line of Lot 7 of the subdivision of "John and Mary"; thence, with the southerly line of said Teagarden property, South 64 degrees 54 minutes East, 127.24 feet to a two inch iron pipe found in the westerly margin of Tenth Street; thence, crossing Tenth Street, South 68 degrees 38 minutes East, 50.39 feet to a point at the southwesterly corner of property owned now or formerly by George A. Scheffel, (Liber 494 at folio 181), and in the northwesterly corner of other property owned now or formerly by George A. Scheffel (Liber 581 at folio 440); thence, with the northerly line of said Scheffel property, South 65 degrees 23 minutes East, 126.00 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rebar and plastic cap numbered 126, hereinafter called an iron pin, set at the northwesterly corner of other lands of George A. Scheffel (Liber 533 at folio 897); thence, with the division line of the two last mentioned Scheffel properties, South 24 degrees 27 minutes West, 163.79 feet to a set iron pin in the northerly margin of a fifty foot street; thence, with said northerly margin, North 65 degrees 04 minutes West, 126.60 feet to a set iron pin in the easterly margin of Tenth Street; thence, crossing Tenth Street, North 62 degrees 28 minutes West, 50.62 feet to a two inch iron pipe found at the northeasterly corner of property owned now or formerly by Frank E. AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that from and after the effective date of this Resolution, all persons residing in the area to be annexed shall be and become citizens of the Town of Oakland, and subject to the provisions of the Charter of said Town, and any amendments thereto, and that all the real property so annexed and the personal property thereon shall be subject to the municipal property taxes of the Town of Oakland, and that all of the said property, real and personal, will be taxes as all other property within the Town of Oakland, at the tax rate legally established by the Mayor and Town Council thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Mayor and Town Council shall extend such services to the residents to be annexed hereby, as are extended to other residents of the Town of Oakland, Maryland as have been set forth in the Outline for Extension of Services and Public Facilities which is available for inspection at the Oakland Municipal Building.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that inasmuch as the area to be annexed is designated on the Garrett County Development Plan as Suburban-Residential (SR), and that there is no actual zoning within Garrett County which effects the area to be annexed, and consequently no specific land use definitions therefor, and inasmuch as the Zoning Ordinance for the Town of Oakland contains a land use category designated as Suburban-Residential, and inasmuch as the definitions of Suburban-Residential in the Garrett County Development Plan and the definition of Suburban-Residential in the Oakland general plan are substantially the same, the Mayor and Town Council have determined that the annexed area shall be zoned Suburban-Residential (SR), under the Zoning Ordinance of the Town of Oakland, and shall be designated as such on the official zoning map for the Town of Oakland, there being no substantial difference between the definitions and features of Suburban-Residential as it exists within the Town of Oakland, and as it is defined within the Town's Zoning Ordinance, and development plan, and Suburban-Residential as it is defined by the Garrett County Development Plan.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution shall become effective on the forty-sixth (46th) day following its final enactment.

HORSELESS CARRIAGES - Members of the local Amish community took time out from harvest chores recently to attend a summer wedding. After The Republican's photographer, on assignment to take pictures of busy farmers at work, failed to find any signs of activity in the empty fields, he came upon this scene in the "parking lot" of a local church. Even the horses were permitted a rare mid-day break as they were unhitched from the buggies which formed two neat rows on the church lawn.

Ferrell Free On $600,000 Bond; Awaits Hearing

Paul William Ferrell, convicted five years ago of the kidnapping and murder of a Garrett County woman, was released from prison Tuesday on $600,000 bond. The decision to release the defendant was made by the West Virginia Supreme Court after new genetic testing of blood samples found on a blanket in Ferrell's Ford Bronco reportedly proved that the blood was not that of the victim, Catherine Denise Ford, formerly of Gorman.

Ferrell, 38, has been in the Huttonsville Correctional Center, serving a life term. He would have been eligible for parole in 1999, according to reports. Defense attorneys have maintained his innocence throughout and have requested a new trial repeatedly. The Supreme Court has finally allowed a new hearing in the case in light of the recent DNA testing.

The original bond amount was set at $900,000, and the defendant's family attempted to reach that amount through property and other holdings. When the court determined that the family had not amassed enough to meet the $900,000, the defense requested that the amount be lowered. The court accepted the request and Ferrell was soon released on $600,000.

He was taken to his Gormania, W.Va., home where he was fitted with a home monitoring device. He apparently must remain at the home or in close proximity until the hearing commences.

GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONIES for the Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Center were conducted Monday in Oakland. Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Tressler Lutheran Services and the state of Maryland all have roles in bringing the much needed adult medical day care to Garrett County. Terri Rodeheaver, vice president of Region 3 Tressler Lutheran Services, spoke on behalf of the organization which will build the $210,000 day care center on property leased from GCMH. The 2,800 square-foot, one-story building is being constructed on Pythian Ave., directly behind the hospital, and is scheduled to open in October. Also speaking during the formal groundbreaking ceremonies were Benjamin Rosenthal, hospital president, and Jane Wessely, coordinator, Adult Day Care Services, Medical Care Policy Administration, state of Maryland. Some $58,000 in first-year funding will be used for equipment, with the state providing additional funding on a year-to-year basis, according to Wessely. The Mountain Glade facility will provide services to adults requiring medical supervision, and offers an alternative to a nursing care facility. An experienced staff of registered nurses and certified geriatric nursing assistants, as well as physical, occupational and speech therapy will be available at the center. Pictured above, from left to right, Rosenthal, Wessely and Rodeheaver used a three-handled shovel in the groundbreaking ceremonies to symbolize the trio of private and state officials instrumental in bringing the day care center to the county.

Broadway Bound Next In GLAF Season Line-Up

Hailed by Time Magazine as "Neil Simon's best comedy," Broadway Bound will take the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival stage on August 3-6 at 8 p.m. each evening in the Garrett Community College theatre. Performed by the Maryland Traveling Repertory Theatre, the comedy is suitable for the whole family, according to a spokesperson.

Broadway Bound is Simon's grand finale of a trilogy, which began with Brighton Beach Memoirs and was followed by Biloxi Blues. This show continues to track Simon's young alter-ego Eugene, as he and his older brother Stanley try to break into the world of professional comedy writing. At the same time, they have to cope with the impending break-up of their family.

"The brothers' efforts to come up with an idea for a comedy sketch are hilarious," said Bruce Dworkin, producing director. "Finally it comes: they base the sketch on the trials and tribulations of their family. Their family is not amused."

The play is "expectedly funny and unexpectedly moving," according to a review in the New York Times. "It contains some of the author's most accomplished writing to date," the review continued. The play is being presented through special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

The Maryland Repertory Theatre is based in Silver Spring and was formed in 1980. The group travels throughout the state from June through November, performing for clubs, civic groups, fraternal and religious organizations, retirement groups, and resorts.

Tickets for the play, which are $7.50 for adults and $2 for students 16 and under, are available at the following local pharmacies: Gregg's, Beachy's, Deep Creek, or Englander's. They may also be purchased at the GLAF box office on the days of the performances.

For more information, persons may call the GLAF office at 387-3082.

Swanton Man To Serve 18 Months For Rape Charge

A Swanton man will spend 18 months in jail after being convicted of second-degree rape. William L. Merrbach, 24, was sentenced in Allegany County Circuit Court this week to four years in prison for the charge, and Judge J. Frederick Sharer suspended two years, six months of the sentence.

Merrbach was also ordered to be on three years of supervised probation following his release.

The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge, which stemmed from an incident in January involving a 13-year-old female, according to reports.

Special Soccer Game Scheduled At SHS Stadium

For the first time ever there will be an "international" soccer match played at Southern High School, as a culminating event of the first North American Soccer Camp in Garrett County, slated for next week. The game will be played Saturday, Aug. 6, under the lights in the Southern High stadium.

The eight British instructors who will conduct the Garrett County camp will join with six more British trainers who are working in western Pennsylvania, and add the talents of Jamaican-born, Garrett County resident Selvyn Brown, an assistant coach at Southern. This team will face a select squad from West Virginia, which will feature all-stars from Davis and Elkins College, West Virginia Wesleyan, West Virginia University, and two residents who currently play for the University of Richmond.

FIFA rules that are featured in World Cup play will apply to the contest with the exception of the rule governing substitutions. "Our guys came over here in peak condition and have gone a bit heavy on the eating," stated NASC sales representative Martin Bane, "so we will have to sub-out American style." International rules allow only two substitutes during a game.

In contrast, the U.S./West Virginia team will come into the match in good shape, as all colleges are returning to campus within the next few weeks. "It should be a very entertaining contest," Bane said, "...our skills and experience

Plan. Commission Reviews School Project In Detail

Before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners approved the proposed new Southern Elementary School, the county Planning Commission reviewed the plan for the new school and concluded that the project does conform to the county Comprehensive Development Plan. The results of this review process were compiled in a document which was presented to the board moments prior to their two-to-one vote to approve the project.

The planning commission's report outlined five major "findings of fact:"

1 - The Red House and Loch Lynn Elementary Schools are being closed because the buildings are old and deteriorating. The two schools are being consolidated to offer "a wider range of formal educational opportunities" and to save money.

The site for the new school is appropriate because, among other reasons, it is visually attractive; is in a residential community; is not close to industrial, commercial, or high traffic areas; offers room for future building; and is accessible to roads and utilities.

2 - The site is in an area which is "planned for new or continued residential use." The site is also appropriate to the area's current and predicted population.

3 - The school will offer community activities for the surrounding neighborhoods. The need to bus some students to and from the new school is "inevitable due to consolidation." However, Southern Elementary "will

GCC Welcome Team To Greet New Students

A new approach to the admissions process at Garrett Community College has been implemented for the fall semester, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development.

"We want to build bridges," Crawford stated, "to make college education more accessible to the community we serve. In the past our well-structured developmental program has sometimes been perceived as a deterrent, but now we will minimize obstacles and present students more options without compromising our standards."

The new process begins with the establishment of a "welcome team" of admissions counselors, one of whom will be the first to meet each new student who comes to the campus. During this initial meeting the admissions counselors will determine the students' interests, explain the placement process, including sample test questions, discuss the students' options, and determine which placement tests the students will need. Students entering certificate programs that do not require math courses will not take the math placement test.

If a student chooses to review English or math before doing the placement, study guides will be provided and help will be available in the instructional labs. Non-credit review courses in math and English have also been scheduled. Criteria for exempting a student from taking placement tests based on high school grades in college preparatory courses and on ACT or SAT scores have also been established.

Another option in the new process will be the student's ability to challenge the placement by completing a challenge test in English or math scheduled through Jack DuBose, testing coordinator, Lonnie Brewster, coordinator of English, and/or Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics.

GCMH Nurse Is Nominated Maryland Nurse Of The Year

Curtis Duff, R.N., was nominated by Garrett County Memorial Hospital's department of nursing for this year's Maryland Nurse of the Year Award, sponsored by the Maryland Hospital Association.

Duff has worked as a nurse in Garrett Memorial's Coronary Intensive Care Unit (CICU) since 1987.

"Curtis is a compassionate, highly skilled, knowledgeable and professional nurse in his field," commented Linda Robinette, R.N., nurse manager of the CICU. "In addition to taking the extra time to reassure and teach his patients, he is also a supportive nurturer to his co-workers and is highly respected by physicians, co-workers and other health care team members. Curtis has been a valuable asset to our Intensive Care Unit and I'm proud to have him as a member of our health care team."

In addition to his regular nursing duties, Duff is a certified cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and advanced cardiac life support (ACLS) instructor. He also volunteers as a paramedic with the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

According to Garrett Memorial's director of nursing, Joyce Andrews, R.N., said "Curtis personifies excellence in patient care. Not only does he provide outstanding medical care to his patients, but he also incorporates concern for emotional, spiritual, educational and social needs into his everyday plan of care. His compassion, clinical excellence and professionalism are recognized daily by patients, colleagues, supervisors and physicians."

This year's Maryland Nurse of the Year nominees were honored at a reception held recently at the Governor's Mansion in Annapolis. Duff attended the event with Ms. Andrews and Donald Battista, GCMH's vice president of operations.

In acknowledgement and recognition of their accomplishments, each of the nurse nominees was awarded a silver Jefferson cup, engraved with the honor bestowed and his or her name. The awards were presented by Governor William Donald Schaefer.

"Having been employed in several other fields prior to entering nursing, I have found nursing to be the most fulfilling and personally satisfying," Duff said. "Words cannot describe the joy I feel when I see someone who has been gravely ill be able to return to an optimally productive lifestyle and knowing this, that I have played a part in the healing process."

Two Arrested For DWI Following Separate Mishaps

A Sterling, Va., man was arrested by Maryland State Police and charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) following a single-vehicle mishap, July 21, on Md. Rt. 495, near the Painters School Road, Swanton.

According to a report filed by MSP Barrack W, McHenry, David E. Adams, 23, was operating his 1986 Chevy S-10 pickup south on Rt. 495, when he drove the vehicle off the road and into a guardrail.

The investigating officer was Tfc. G.S. Becker. No injuries were reported.

TREATED & RELEASED

A Keyser, W.Va., man was also charged with DWI following a one-vehicle accident Sunday evening near Kitzmiller, according to a report filed by Tfc. P.R. Brown.

Ronald Lee Evans, 36, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he lost control of the 1980 Ford Courier he was operating when he failed to negotiate a turn. The vehicle reportedly traveled across the center line and struck an embankment on the opposite side of the road.

Elk District Ambulance transported Evans to the hospital.

DWI ARREST

One additional DWI arrest were made in the past week. James Lee Glover, 21, no address given, was arrested and charged with DWI on July 20, by Tfc. Becker.

ONE HOSPITALIZED

A Grantsville woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a two-vehicle accident on Md. Rt. 495, near Maple Grove Road, yesterday morning.

According to state police reports, Alice J. Brenneman, 60, was taken to the hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad where she is listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit.

The driver's side of Brenneman's vehicle was struck by a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Jason Holliday, 20, Grantsville, as the vehicle skidded out of control on the wet road.

Holliday's vehicle crossed the center line and struck Brenneman's 1989 Chevrolet. It then continued slide and collided with a guardrail.

Holliday was reportedly uninjured in the 11:15 a.m. mishap.

Arrests Noted By Sheriff's Office

Three arrest warrants and several bench warrants were served by officers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week. A breaking and entering on Lake Shore Drive is also being probed by office detectives.

A 20-year-old Mountain Lake Park man was arrested on the strength of a warrant this week. Bradley K. Lewis, the defendant, is accused of pushing and hitting Jerry Waybright on April 13, according to the report.

Jerry W. Gank, 20, Oakland, was arrested and charged with trespassing. He reportedly entered the property of Ronald Stewart against the owner's wishes.

An Oakland man was arrested after he reportedly violated an exparte order. Thomas F. Koton, 43, was charged with the offense last week.

Three bench warrants issued from Garrett County District Court were served this week, with all defendants accused of failing to make deferred payments.

Jeffrey S. Nutter, 26, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failing to make a $25 payment, according to the report. His original charge was theft.

Joseph Baker, 36, Oakland, was charged with failing to pay $150 to the court. His original charge was driving while intoxicated (DWI).

James M. Reckart, 40, Oakland, was arrested for failing to pay $250 into court, according to the report. He original charge was driving with a suspended license.

A Sterling, Va., man was arrested on a bench warrant issued a year ago. Scott H. Brigman, 34, apparently failed to appear in court on June 21, 1993, to face a DWI charge.

Benjamin N. Wilt, 40, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant. He is accused of probation violation.

B&E Probed

The sheriff's office was contacted last Wednesday morning by vacationers on Lake Shore Drive who reported a breaking and entering of a neighbor's house. Ken and Jill Rieth, Fairfax, Va., told officers that they heard a vehicle around the vacation residence of Rachel and Todd Van Houten on the evening of July 19.

Knowing that the Van Houtens were not at home, the Rieths said they were concerned by the suspicious vehicle and decided to check the home the following morning.

The Rieths found that a ladder had been put against an outside wall up to a window, which was open with the screen removed. A shed on the property had also been entered and the doors were ajar. An investigation revealed that a VCR had been stolen from the home.

An investigation is continuing in the case.

Thayer had at that time ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Corby was sentenced to five days in the Garrett County Jail, and Parker was sentenced to one year in the local facility with all but five days suspended. Parker was also ordered to be on two years of supervised probation.

Over 3 Generations Of Experience

In loving memory of Kermit Beitzel
who passed away nine years ago
July 28, 1985

My heart still aches within me with sadness
Secret tears still flow
What it meant to love you
No one else will ever know.
When days are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong
I seem to hear you whisper
"Cheer up and carry on".
Each time I see your picture
You seem to smile and say
"Don't cry, I'm only sleeping
We'll meet in heaven again some day".

Sadly missed by Mother, Alice and all who loved him.

Father Martin E. Feild Accepts New Appointment In Taneytown

by Lisa Bender

St. Peter's Parish and the larger community of Garrett County will bid farewell to a close friend this summer as Reverend Martin E. Feild, pastor of St. Peter's Parish in Oakland, takes a new appointment at the end of August. Father Feild has been granted a six-month sabbatical and plans to spend three of those months studying theology, scripture, and sermons at the Vatican in Rome, Italy.

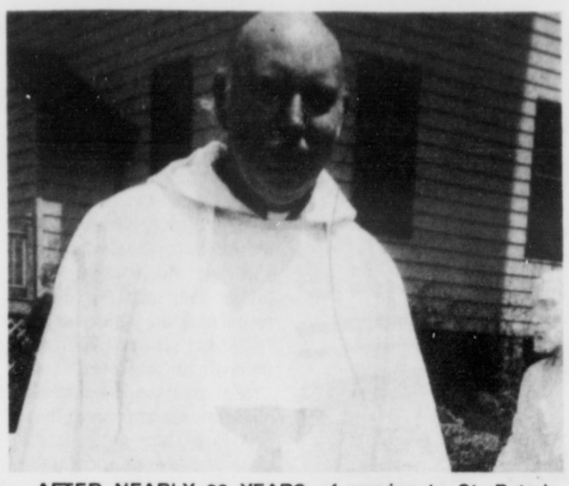
Father Feild, who arrived in Garrett County 19½ years ago from Lansdowne, fondly remembers his first impression of Western Maryland: "What will I do to keep busy here?" He explained that question lasted about one week! He soon realized there was plenty to see and do in this area that would indeed keep him busy.

Martin E. Feild grew up in the area known as West Baltimore. The son of Frank and Rosa Feild, Martin was the eighth of 10 children. He was a member of the 1951 graduation class at Loyola High. His desire to join the priesthood began as early as fourth grade. His mentors, he recalled, were Father Henry Hughes and the School Sisters of Notre Dame who taught him during his school age years. He recently celebrated 35 years in the priesthood. He was ordained May 23, 1959 after studying philosophy and theology at St. Mary's in Baltimore. Before being assigned as pastor to St. Peter's Parish in Oakland, he spent 10 years at St. Joseph's in Cockeysville and over five years at St. Clements in Landsdowne as assistant pastor.

A typical day for Father Feild may include a variety of meetings, and as always, direct contact with others. He offers mass daily for members of St. Peter's Parish, as well as his daily devotions as a priest. He visits friends, and church members who may be ill at their homes, hospitals, or any of the three nursing homes in the county. On any given day, he may conduct baptisms, weddings/or funerals, and he meets regularly with the parish council, Catholic Daughters, and Knights of Columbus organizations. On weekends, Father offers five masses either at his parish in Oakland, the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Kitzmiller, or a mass for vacationers at Deep Creek Lake.

Father Feild has also been active with many organizations in addition to his church duties. He has worked with the Mt. Top Ministerial Association, the Social Services Board of Directors, House of Hope, Garrett County Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse, Office of Children Youth and Families, Boy Scouts, Dream Come True, Golden Chain Club, Catholic Daughters, Hospice, Mental Health Advisory Board, Alliance for the Mentally Ill, and has served as a third and fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus Council 1771.

His commitment to his parish is unwavering, however, as he has been both a witness and catalyst of many changes to St. Peter's for almost two decades. He has seen constant growth during his tenure as pastor. Physical changes include the new St. Peter's Parish Center housing the church's office, the Sunday School, and social center. He has witnessed the start of the House of Hope and the purchase of a new rectory. But Father emphasizes the growth of his parishioners even more. He is very excited about the "Renew" program being introduced into all of the parishes of the Baltimore Archdiocese.



AFTER NEARLY 20 YEARS of service to St. Peter's Catholic Parish and to the Garrett County community, Father Martin E. Feild will be leaving the area next month for a six-month sabbatical in Rome and will then assume a new appointment in Taneytown. Besides leading the parish life of St. Peter's for nearly two decades, Father Feild has been an active member of numerous community service organizations and a participant in a variety of projects.

Father Feild sees his move as a positive change both for himself and the parish he leaves behind. He began thinking of retirement two years ago. The compulsory retirement age for a pastor is age 75. Feild, now 61 years of age, looks forward to another visit to the Vatican. He first toured the city in 1958 as a seminarian, and also made a stop there during a retreat in 1991.

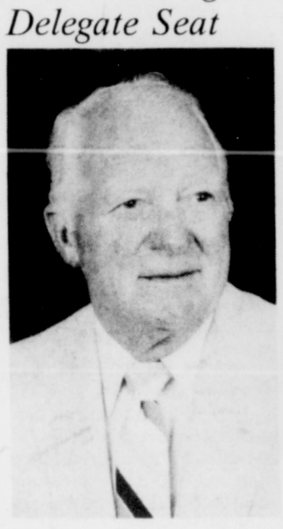
"Other priests have noted that this sabbatical is a relaxing, fulfilling experience. I'm listening to a few Italian tapes now - it may help a little and I'm looking forward to splurging on gelato Italian ice cream," he remarked.

After his six-month sabbatical, Father will join St. Joseph's parish in Taneytown, which is located not far from Gettysburg, Pa. It will be a very similar situation to the one he is leaving in Oakland. He notes that he'll miss the "wonderful people" of this Western-most outpost of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, as well as the people of Garrett County in general. He laughs when he realizes he may even miss some of the winter weather, too!

For Father Feild, Garrett County offered many opportunities to be an activist and open his heart to a community. He apparently found many ways to participate, not only in his parish of St. Peter's, but also in the Garrett County community. His familiar smile and gentle ways will be missed for years to come. He truly is a friend in deed.

An open house will be held at St. Peter's Parish Center on Wednesday, August 3, 7 to 9 p.m. This celebration will be open to the public.

DeCorsey Bolden Seeks To Regain Delegate Seat



Former Republican member of the Maryland House of Delegates from District 1-A, DeCorsey E. Bolden, Oakland, has announced his candidacy for that office.

The former delegate served as the ranking minority member of the House Appropriations Committee, as well as on numerous other subcommittees, both during the session and throughout the year.

A native of Garrett County, World War II veteran, businessman, and member of numerous community organizations, Bolden believes that after eight years of the Schaefer administration it is "time for fiscal responsibility in the Free State." He says that it is "imperative" that a member of the General Assembly from Garrett and Allegany counties take a firm state "against those special interests who seek to dominate the legislative and fiscal process in Maryland."

With a projected budgetary shortfall in excess of one billion dollars over the next four years, the former delegate believes that more stringent austerity measures must be taken, including the salaries of senior state officials, wasteful and unproductive programs, and unfunded mandates "burdening taxpayers from Oakland to Ocean City."

Bolden says he believes in representative government "in the true sense of the term" and strongly supports term limits to "eliminate the elected elite of professional politicians." He says elected officials should be allowed no more than three consecutive terms in office. He believes the key to economic growth in Western Maryland, as well as the entire state, lies in freeing business from "unnecessary and burdensome" government regulation.

Bolden says that his extensive knowledge of Garrett and Allegany counties, combined with his previous experience in Annapolis, would enable him to be a strong advocate for the people of District 1-A.

Bolden's treasurer is Louise Storey.

Thanks, Marty...

A special open house will be held next Wednesday evening at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish center, as members of that church and the public at large will gather to honor Father Martin E. Feild, who has been the pastor of St. Peter's for nearly 20 years.

Many pastors come and go, each of whom makes his or her mark on the community, but few have made a deeper and more significant, positive impact on Garrett County than Father Feild.

First and foremost, Father Feild is a Roman Catholic priest, dedicated to his faith and his flock. He has been unwavering in fulfilling his job description as the pastor of St. Peter's, as he offers daily mass to his parishioners and conducts five masses on the weekends, from Kitzmiller to Oakland to Deep Creek Lake. He has been a leader and active participant in his church council and various Catholic organizations.

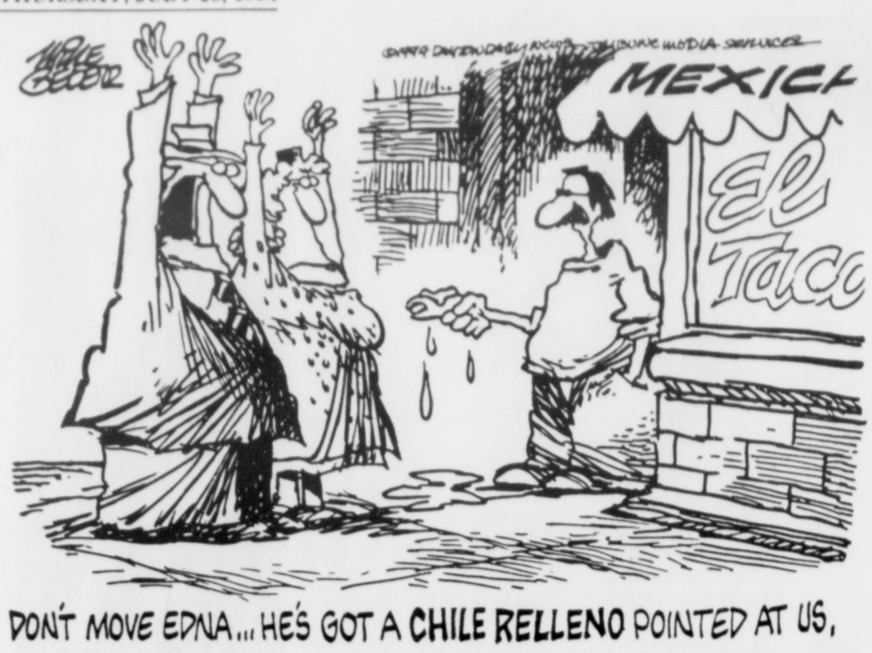
But he has also been extremely active outside the walls of his church building as a member of numerous community organizations, councils, and boards (see the long list in Lisa Bender's feature article on page A-3).

One of Father Feild's most significant contributions, in the opinion of this Lutheran writer, is his wonderful ecumenical attitude that, along with similar attitudes of several other local pastors, led to the founding of the Mountaintop Ministerial Association and the annual Oakland-area Vacation Bible School, currently underway. Denominational differences have not been allowed to get in the way of successful interdenominational fellowship, worship, and instruction.

Other attributes are his great sense of humor and humility. He always has a joke to tell that is usually hilarious because it is so incredibly corny. He was never "too good" to be a participant in a dunking booth to raise money for a worthy cause, or to don a goofy wig and do a stand-up comic routine in front of an Oktoberfest crowd of hundreds. It is perfectly all right with him if he is addressed as "Marty" rather than Father or Father Feild.

If all of the people who have been directly or indirectly touched by Father Martin Feild during the past 20 years show up at next Wednesday's open house, the crowd will surely pour out into the streets.

We will miss you, Marty. Good luck and vaya con Dios.



DON'T MOVE EDNA... HE'S GOT A CHILE RELLENO POINTED AT US.

NOTE

Letters pertaining to any candidate in this year's election will be printed only in the August 25 and September 1 issues of The Republican. The postal deadline for any such letter will be August 12. The letters will be printed only as space allows, with selection based on the order of arrival. Several letters have already been received, and will be held until the printing of the two noted issues. Writers are reminded that all letters must be legitimately signed, and that this office, as always, reserves the right to accept or reject any submitted material.

To the Editor:

I have been following the Constitutional debate of the past weeks in these letters. Both are missing the biggest and most important issue. The issue is not a choice between whether or not public schools should allow or disallow any particular religion or philosophy, but whether schools should be public. Should education be compulsory and tax-supported?

To quote Nathaniel Branden from Capitalism: The Unknown Ideal--"The answer to this question becomes evident if one makes the question more concrete and specific, as follows: Should the government be permitted to remove children forcibly from their homes, with or without the parents' consent, and subject the children to educational training and procedures of which the parents may or may not approve? Should citizens have their wealth expropriated to support an educational system which they may or may not sanction, and to pay for the education of children who are not their own?"

The tax-supported educational system has been upheld by the theory that education is some sort of natural right--a gift given by nature, inherently, to each individual. The fallacies in this become apparent when one points out that if there were no teachers, there would be no education. Do I, as an individual, have the "right" to the effort of another's mind? Is it the right of the government to dictate the direction of a teacher's mind? This is slavery of the worst kind - not of the body, since teachers do receive some wages, but of the mind, in that their efforts can be dictated by anyone able to spout the generalities needed to get him elected to public office. Should the education of our children be left to the whim of any number of bureaucrats? This is the theory of Nazi Germany--that the mind and effort of each individual belongs to the state. Whose freedom is it that is sacrificed to pay for this natural right, this gift of nature: education?

Since education is compulsory, and the law states that each child must attend school from the ages of 6-16. Hence, we have "general" classes and mixed classrooms where teachers and accelerated students are held back by any stray juvenile delinquent who brings a gun or his unwillingness to learn to the classroom because he has a "right" to be there. This only means that some have the right to stagnate or prohibit the learning process of others, No such right should exist or should be allowed by any government that calls itself the protector of individual rights.

If education were moved into the market-place, it would necessarily become more efficient and more effective. If schools had to compete for the value that is attached to the diplomas they offer, they would have to improve. To become a reputable competitor, they would have to offer better teachers, better classes, better services, and better cafeteria food. Each student would have to live up to the school of lesser standing and of lesser value. This would eliminate the mixing of students who wish to prohibit learning -- either their own, or others.The idea that this can be accomplished by government (such as is proposed by the voucher system) is ludicrous -- as if one could correct what was caused by government controls with more government controls. The only solution is for government to return control of this most important commodity to the individual.

Some would call this view impossible or idealistic. Others would call it unfair. It is only unfair in a world where one desires the unearned. It is only impossible in a world that would rather have pity than justice.

Again, I quote Branden: "As a result of the fact that education has been tax-supported for such a long time, most people find it difficult to project an alternative. Yet there is nothing unique about education that distinguishes it from many other human needs which are filled by private enterprise. If, for many years, the government had undertaken to provide all citizens with shoes (on the grounds that shoes are an urgent necessity), and if someone were subsequently to propose that this field should be turned over to private enterprise, he would doubtless be told indignantly: "What! Do you want everyone except the rich to walk around barefoot?" But the shoe industry is doing its job with immeasurably greater competence that public education is doing its job."

As a recent graduate of the public educational system, and as a member of the college prep/honors program, I must say that my education was only just adequate. There were few classes in which I was encouraged to go beyond the government-approved minimums or to read and refer to sources outside the government-approved curriculum and textbooks. The education system of present is in crisis. (May I mention here, slightly out of context, that it is sickening that colleges deem activities one participated in, such as sports, student service alliance, or cheerleading, just as important, if not more so, that one's academic standing?)

The essential question is not whether the Constitution allows or disallows any particular religion or philosophy, but whether it allows the government, not the other way around. Individual rights are the only rights that are possible. The government has no rights. One might ask oneself to what extent the government controls him, and to what extent he controls the government.

To the Editor:

There are a few moments in life that send shivers up and down the spine. The unveiling of the check symbolizing all the hard work, effort, and community support at the sixth annual Charity Golf Tournament was one of those times.

To say the library staff is grateful would be an understatement. We are ecstatic, at the prospect of bringing quality children's books to the families using the five branches of The Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

We wish to thank each and every supporter of the event. You are vital to our future. All of us are engaged in a common cause; to enrich the lives and stimulate the minds of children in the hope that they will grown into maturity with self-assurance, self-respect, and a hunger for the best in life, not only for themselves, but for all. We look forward to the rewarding task of choosing the children's books for our branches.

A special thank you to Michael Baylor, vice president and regional community banking administrator for American Trust Bank; Sull A. McCartney, tournament chairman for The Friends of The Ruth Enlow Library and board of trustee member and treasurer for The Ruth Enlow Library; Wheeler Stuart, golf professional at the Oakland Country Club; and Jack Caruthers, president of The Friends of The Ruth Enlow Library.

Sincerely,
Emily Ferren,

To the Editor:

Thank you for your lucid editorial of July 14, in which you applauded the decision of the Maryland legislature to ban smoking in all Maryland workplaces.

In the movie Gettysburg, Colonel Joshua Lawrence Chamberlain discusses the approach taken before the Civil War to the then-incendiary issue of slavery. "At first," he says, "we would just politely avoid the subject when in the company of our southern friends. But after a while, as the issue became more and more heated, it was no longer possible to avoid the subject."

I believe that nowadays, the issue of smoking is the same way. It takes courage to take a stand on this question, as you did in your editorial. But as time goes on, and more and more laws are passed or rejected on the subject, it will be impossible for anyone to avoid taking a stand on one side or the other.

We are heading toward another sort of civil war in this country, and unfortunately and quite coincidentally, the people that will be hardest hit and eventually vanquished in the conflict are from the same region as the ones in the 19th century: the tobacco producers, primarily in the southeastern states. One major difference in their favor, however, is that this time the "institution" they are fighting to protect is enjoyed and endured all over the country (and all over the world), not just in their own region.

Still, even the purchasers of their product are not necessarily supporters of their cause. Almost everyone in the world, smokers and non-smokers alike, know that smoking is a harmful practice for both groups. Most smokers will tell you that they know they should quit, that they have tried to quit, etc., and they are appalled and chagrinned when their children or grandchildren take it up. But how can they protest: the child is simply following his parents' example.

This is a political issue, and it is very widespread, and it is very much debated in homes and bars and offices. But it is not an issue that will carry much weight in elections, because virtually everyone knows which side is right and which is wrong. A politician may say that he is for equal rights, or that he sympathizes with the tobacco growers, but anyone saying that he is "pro-smoking" would be laughed out of the election.

In the pre-Civil War south, people would tell you that it was not so much the right to hold slaves that was the point: it was the right to make choices about how to live their own lives. And they were quite right. But with slavery they were making a choice that by definition made others' lives miserable. And that is precisely the problem with smoking. If it were just a matter of smokers endangering their own lives, one could say "let them do it--it's self destructive, but it's their right." But it is not their right to endanger the lives and health of those around them.

Just like slavery, this is a practice that must and will end. It will not end as violently as slavery did, or as abruptly, but there will be a time when it is virtually abolished altogether. As the older generations of smokers die off, and health education becomes more widespread, and tobacco growers lose their government funding (and tobacco products' prices continue to rise), and smoking is banned virtually everywhere, it will become socially unacceptable. Then people will say "I can't believe people used to do that to themselves and each other. Imagine taking smoke into your lungs intentionally!" Just as we say about slavery today.

Sincerely,
John R. McEwen

To the Editor:

As mayor of the town of Grantsville, I would like to take this opportunity to comment on another successful "Grantsville Days."

First of all, I would like to thank God for the periods of good weather we experienced over the weekend. And recognize, once again, due to the periods of bad weather, that He is, indeed, still in charge. The coverage by The Republican was superior. Craig Speicher's reporting and interesting pictures were excellent by any standard.

The coordination, volunteer time, cooperation, and general neighborliness of such an event of this magnitude is unreal. The Grantsville Lions Club and Fire Department members deserve special recognition for their unfailing time and cooperation in getting this weekend on its feet, literally. Those in charge of the tennis and basketball tournaments, the horse and tractor pulls, children's games, horseshoe pitching contests, musical programs, puppet show, etc., are too numerous to mention singly. But, all of those involved have my heartfelt thanks.

The Friday night parade has grown to become one of the special highlights of a Garrett County summer. All of the businesses and corporations which advertise "Grantsville Days" deserve a special thank you also. This celebration has grown from just a neighborhood get-together to a real homecoming/picnic extravaganza enjoyed by people of all ages and locations.

I want to say thank you to everyone who participated in, attended, and was in anyway involved with this weekend. "Grantsville Days" is unique in that it is a community wide effort, benefiting not-for-profit

RECYCLING ALERT: MISSION DROP BOXES AT FOODLAND GONE

by Donna Aspinall

The Union Rescue Mission boxes that had been located in the Browning's Foodland parking lot off U.S. Route 135 are no longer there. Browning's manager, Rick DiSimone, said the mission had not kept up with donations and the spillover often littered up the parking lot. (Whose fault was that really?) Too bad . . . What will we do with all that stuff?

For starters, don't throw the items in the white recycling bin just because it's there. A quick check last Monday revealed that some items left outside the recycling bin over the weekend finally found their way into the bin. Guess what that equals: Trash! It's better to toss out these items than to mix them with the recyclables, which have enough trouble being clean on their own, anyway. Often -- in fact, quite often -- bags, boxes, and twine are tossed in with the recyclables, and the newsprint bin often contains other, inappropriate paper as well. The final straw was seeing sweaters and handbags in the metal can section! When this kind of contamination happens, it can cause the entire load to be rejected; then it has to be hauled to the landfill at taxpayers' expense.

There are several other options available. Why not try some of these ideas?

1. If you act fast (by July 29), you can donate better items to the Southern Rescue Squad for their yard sale on August 5-6.

2. Donate good items to thrift shops like the Nearly New in the Episcopal Church in Oakland.

3. Sell good clothing in consignment shops such as Second Time Around in Oakland, Laura's in Friendsville, etc.

4. Donate reusable items to Lou Stouffer (Santa) via St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, or call him at (304) 789-6743.

5. Donate items worthy of raffle or auction to Bausch & Lomb for their fundraisers. Contact Mary Rush at 334-9933.

6. Donate items to any church or charitable group that is planning to hold a tag sale.

7. Check the want ads regularly for requests for antiques, yard sale goods, and giveaways.

8. Check with elementary schools and daycare centers to see if they can use books, toys, and arts and crafts items.

9. Throw out the junk. No one wants moldy handbags and stained T-shirts.

To the Editor:

When I turn in off 219 to Nestlick Acres the first thing I see is a big hole that the State Road salt put there. They put a shovel or two of cold mix in a year and a half ago, but Larry Wagner had trucks so I guess we'll blame it on him. As I go on back the road I see Larry's trucks are gone because someone forced him to move.

Traveling on back the road I comb my hair and smile because I believe I'm on Candid Camera.

Making it through that, I see a big white church on the right, but I believe that Larry sold the land or donated it, so I guess it will have to go.

Next to the church is Julie's Greenhouse, which I think is her hobby; but let's see, Julie is Larry's daughter, so I guess it will be next.

On down the road I find where Larry moved, but he can't seem to get a permit for his road.

It seems like it has to be a business drive. I think all farms are businesses, but where are all the curbs? I don't see any in Garrett County except one.

The county commissioners told me that the road department could not hold up permits, but I guess they were wrong.

Let's just put Larry Wagner out of business and the 30 or 35 people he employs. Then they can go on welfare and everyone will be happy.

This is supposed to be a free country. But would you like this to happen to you? Keep on trucking, Larry, and I thank everyone for their attention.

Sincerely yours,
Harold Bland

4 - The existing Red House and Loch Lynn Elementaries are "deteriorating and substandard in terms of providing an adequate variety of educational opportunities." The new Southern Elementary will fill this need.

In light of these findings, the planning commission voted five-to-one to recommend to the board of commissioners that the proposed new elementary be approved. Elwood Groves, who holds seats on both the planning commission and the board, cast the one dissenting vote in each body. Groves has stated that he opposes the plan for a consolidated Southern Elementary because the county development plan calls for community education.

THE NEW GARRETT COUNTY PUBLIC SAFETY CENTER, a 12,540 square-foot complex, pictured above, and an adjacent 5,323 square-foot garage located to the rear of the main building, house the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, the Department of Natural Resources Police, and the local State Fire Marshal's office. The center officially opened its doors in June.

Public Safety Center Officially Opens Its Doors To Serve Garrett County

The Garrett County Public Safety Center, located at the intersection of U.S. Rt. 219 and Md. Rt. 42, McHenry, officially opened its doors on June 22.

The need for such a center was recognized in the mid-1980s, and much of the legislative groundwork and funding was accomplished through the efforts of Garrett County Delegate George C. Edwards. Under the supervision of John Body of the Maryland Department of General Services, the center was built by local contractor Edward D. Wilburn, General Contractor, Inc., McHenry, at a cost of just under $3 million.

The 12,540 square-foot complex and adjacent 5,323 square-foot garage house the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, the Department of Natural Resources Police, and the local State Fire Marshal's office. The main building houses office space for the three agencies, a squad room, conference room, seven furnished bedrooms for on-duty troopers, a kitchen, weight room, two holding cells, and a state-of-the art communications center. The garage and maintenance building, located behind the main building, offers complete vehicle servicing facilities, including electronic equipment maintenance and storage for the Natural Resources Police boats. A 200-foot radio tower is also on site.

According to Lt. Charles H. Hinnant, commander of MSP Barrack W, the new facility employs 32 sworn personnel, including 16 patrol troopers, and is the only state police barrack in the state that shares office resources with allied agencies. When completely staffed, it will also employ 11 support personnel (civilians) and four Volunteers in Police Support (VIPS).

Sgt. John Williams heads the NRP section of the safety center. He noted that prior to moving to the new facility, his officers occupied office space at Deep Creek Lake State Park, and although they have officially moved to the McHenry office, the patrol boats and some office space at the park are still being utilized by the NRP. Williams has five officers under his command, and will occasionally add three NRP officers from Allegany County to his staff.

Both Hinnant and Williams agree the benefits of having the three law enforcement agencies in the same facility are great. "We've always had an excellent working relationship," said Hinnant, "and now that we're in one building it can only improve and enhance the police services we already provide to Garrett County residents."

At times two or more of the agencies may be involved in the same case. The facilities allow for interrogation, fingerprinting, and temporary incarceration of suspects, and for the agencies involved to have immediate contact with each other, and access to pertinent information.

A central communications center allows incoming calls to be relayed immediately to any of the three agencies. The Police Communications Officer (PCO) on duty transfers calls to the requested agency. "In the past, people sometimes had to talk to an answering machine when they needed an NRP officer," said Williams. "All of that is eliminated now. Calls can be relayed to us faster, and we can be there when we're needed."

The following is a list of phone numbers the public may use to contact any or all of the three agencies housed in the Garrett County Public Safety Center:

» Maryland State Police, Lt. Charles H. Hinnant, 387-1101 or 895-1101.

» Natural Resources Police, Sgt. John Williams, 387-0454 or 895-5397.

» State Fire Marshal, Deputy FM Steven Wendling, 387-0437 or 895-3131.

All of the above listed phone numbers are local calls from anywhere in Garrett County.

Steaming brings out the sweetness in fresh pineapple. Cut the fruit into eighths, then core and cut the flesh from the skin. Slice crosswise and steam on the skin for two minutes.

Another option: grill pineapple rings over not-so-hot coals for the grownups before the kids toast marshmallows.

Sliced peaches and berries are great together--and even better when flavored with a syrup of 1 cup red wine, 3 Tbs. sugar and ¼ tsp. almond extract. (Let syrup flavors blend an hour or so.)

Flavorful additions make olive oil even more delicious for cooking chicken or fish, and for salad dressings too. To 2 cups oil, add six large basil leaves and two or three dried chiles. Cover and refrigerate at least ten days. It keeps up to a month.

More and more happy eaters have discovered fennel, also known as anise. It's crunchy in salads and delicious cooked, with a distinctive licorice flavor. Try it with shrimp or sausage and pasta.

The Homemakers Corner

by Joan Schultz
Public Relations Chairperson

The first part of this column will focus on an important issue concerning all homemaker members. On Monday, August 1, at 12:30 p.m., a County Council Board meeting will be held at Garrett Community College in the Continuing Education Center. A portion of this meeting will pertain to the future of the Homemakers Organization. All interested members are urged to attend. Your views will play an important part in any decisions to be made. Each club is asked to have a representative present.

The Fair is fast approaching and help is needed for clean up day, which is Tuesday, August 9. If you can give a helping hand, it would be greatly appreciated. Call Irmgard at the Extension office 334-1990. All clubs should be preparing their exhibit to be displayed on our new homemakers' booth which Irmgard Koscielniak so graciously offered to build for us.

Mark your calendars for Day of Learning, to be held this year on August 31, from 9 to 5 at Garrett Community College. The registration fee is $2. The classes will range from topics on health and medicines, bread making, handling and preparation of seafood, household cleaners, a variety of crafts, and much more. A detailed list will be available as soon as all plans are finalized.

Three clubs have reported on completing their Nursing Home Sewing project. The Cove Homemakers made eight bibs and delivered them to the Extension Office, from which they will be distributed to various nursing homes. Meadow Glade Homemakers made 14 bibs which were donated to residents of The Goodwill Mennonite Home, Inc. They received a letter of appreciation from the nursing home for their thoughtfulness. Sunnyside Homemakers reported making 40 items. The club members went to Denny's for lunch before delivering their goods to the residents of Dennett Rd. Manor and Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Homes. Grace White informed me that the recipients were thrilled with the capes and walker bags they made for them, but more are needed. Has your club completed its Nursing Home Sewing project yet? If so please call me at 387-9870 and let me know.

THE MAIN ATTRACTION at the summer festivities held recently at Penn Alps, Grantsville, featured former reporter for The Republican, Kathleen (Railey) Gotzmer. She is now living in southern Maryland with her husband Carl and 2-year-old daughter, Sarah, all pictured above. After learning the craft from Carl, Kathleen has built a reputation for high quality dulcimers, having manufactured over 100 before devoting most of her time to her family and writing career. She also belongs to an 18-year-old "old time band" named Mill Run which is now working on its seventh recording. Pictured at right, Ursina, Pa., resident George D. Bowser, dressed as a tinsmith from an earlier century, puts the finishing touch on one of dozens of his custom cookie cutters during the Summerfest. Pictured below, Oakland's own watercolorist, Jim McNeil, wearing hat, chats with a customer after a successful sale of one of his art pieces. At left, a Dutch hanger is placed on display by blacksmith Dale Miller. The ironwork piece, when suspended from a ceiling, is used to hold pots and pans. This particular hanger sells for $95. MSP To Step Up Enforcement Against Speeders

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel Larry W. Tolliver announced this week that public concern over escalating highway speeds has led to increased state police enforcement of Maryland's speed laws.

Recent figures show that more than 15 percent of all motorists on Maryland's interstate system are travelling at speeds greater than 65 miles per hour. This potentially fatal trend has forced state police to re-evaluate its efforts in keeping Maryland roads safe.

"This is not an effort to see how many tickets we can write," Colonel Tolliver said. "I am greatly concerned with the degree to which speeds are climbing. The number of vehicles travelling at well over 70 miles per hour is dangerous and needs to be addressed immediately."

Barrack commanders have developed programs distinctive to their area of coverage, making the enforcement effort unique to each part of the state. All regions will use radar or laser stopping teams, VASCAR, covert vehicles and even aerial enforcement of speed.

Motorists are encouraged to report unsafe drivers to state and local police.

Bookout Pottery On Display At B&L Art Gallery

During the month of August ELEE Bookout will display some of her porcelain and stoneware wheel-thrown pottery in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. A reception for the artist, to which the public is invited, will be given Friday, August 5, from 7-10 p.m. and the show will continue through August 31.

ELEE Bookout is a professional potter who has worked in clay for 44 years. She received her bachelor's of art degree in art education at the University of Maryland in 1954 and her master of fine arts degree in Ceramics from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan in 1957. Her career as an artist and teacher is extensive and includes work at the University of Maryland, Prince George's County Board of Education, Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and the Torpedo Factory in Alexandria, Va. For many years she taught privately in her own studio in College Park.

Her exhibition experience includes the Smithsonian International, the Chicago Art Institute, the Detroit Museum, and many galleries in the Washington, D.C., area. Her awards and honors are numerous.

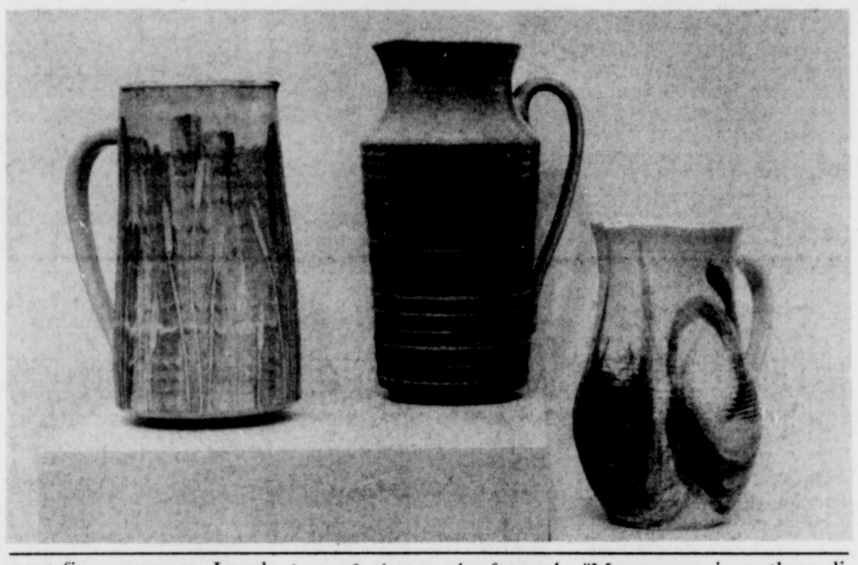
The artist and her husband Jack have resided near Accident since their retirement five years ago. Locally, Mrs. Bookout is active in the Thursday Night Art Group at GCC, is a member of the newly formed Summit Studios -- a group of six local artists who have opened their studios to the public -- has contributed to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and has shown her work in the Accident Fourth of July Art Show. She displays her pottery at The Art Garrett, Oakland and The Windrush Gallery, Friendsville. Bear Creek Pottery, ELEE's pottery studio, is open to the public with a phone call at 746-8896.

Her current exhibit at the college contains a variety of functional container forms from simple bowls to casseroles and tea sets. The ideas for her designs are derived from forms, colors, and textures found in nature and inspired by her love for Garrett County, she said. Over the years she has developed her own porcelain throwing body, colored clay slips for decorating, and a variety of original glazes.

"I like to paint," she said. "My canvas is a three-dimensional piece of clay spinning in space and time. When I decorate the piece, I try to recapture through my brush designs the feeling of continual motion that existed during the throwing process. A good piece of pottery is one in which all facets of the work are in perfect harmony with each other, thus achieving total unity."

Gallery hours are 9-5, Monday through Friday, and during special events on evenings and weekends.

ELEE BOOKOUT POTTERY ON DISPLAY - Porcelain and stoneware pottery by ELEE Bookout will be on display throughout the month of August in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College. The gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and evenings and weekends during special events. See story. For more information about the display, persons may contact the art department of GCC at 387-3024.



Lung Association Offers Assistance On Smoking Regs

The American Lung Association of Maryland is offering assistance to Maryland businesses which must develop smoke-free workplaces as a result of Maryland Occupational Safety and Health (MOSH) regulations which are due to go into effect August 1.

To help businesses effectively make the transition to a smoke-free environment, ALAM offers Freedom from Smoking clinics and self-help materials which will assist smokers with quitting. Guidelines for establishing and implementing workplace policies are also available from the ALAM, as are signs to inform customers and employees of smoke-free work areas.

ALAM president Lewis Rubin, M.D. said, "We consistently hear from smokers who want to quit that smoke-free policies actually help their effort. The Lung Association strives to assist these individuals and will continue to do so as the new policies are instituted.

"The ALAM applauds the Commissioner of Labor and Industry Henry Koellein Jr. for this bold step to protect workers from the health hazards of second-hand smoke, which have been documented in more than 300 scientific studies. We are proud of Maryland's leadership by being the first state to regulate workplace smoking."

For more information on workplace smoking policies, persons may contact Sharon Kohlenstein at the ALAM by calling (410) 560-2120 or (800) 492-7527.

Senator Hafer Honorary Chair Of 5-For-Kids

Senator John Hafer has agreed to be the honorary chairperson of this year's 5-For-Kids project which is co-sponsored by the Maryland Salem Children's Trust and the Maryland Association of Resources and Families for Youth.

During this five-day event, 10 volunteers will ride bicycles across the state, from Garrett County to the Eastern Shore, to dramatize the plight of the 12,000 Maryland children who cannot live at home because they have been abandoned, neglected, or abused. The event will also seek to raise funds for the Salem Trust and other programs serving children in need.

According to a spokesperson for Salem, the Maryland 1993 Kids Count Factbook reported that in 1992 alone, almost 11,000 child abuse and neglect investigations were indicated. Of these, 245 occurred in Allegany County and 39 were in Garrett. "Child abuse is a community problem," the spokesperson stated, "it reflects society's failure to care, nurture, and protect children."

HAFER HONORARY CHAIR - Sen. John Hafer, pictured above center, will serve as honorary chairperson of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust 5-For-Kids fundraiser, in which 10 bicyclists will ride across the state to raise funds and awareness for young victims of abuse and neglect. The Salem Trust, located in Frostburg, serves as home for almost 40 children in need. Sen. Hafer is pictured with two of Salem's residents.

Salem is a small, community-based program intended to help these children in need. The trust provides care, housing, therapy, and educational services for 36 abused and neglected children. The Salem program is based on Christian principles, is family oriented, and encourages the children to be involved in community activities. Salem seeks family restoration for these children when possible, and offers itself as a permanent home base for children who have no families.

Although the state pays a part of the cost for care of the children at Salem, the rate paid by the state has not increased in three years. Salem needs to raise at least $100,000 annually to operate its children's programs. Last year, the 5-For-Kids program raised approximately $7,000 for Salem. This year's goal is $10,000. All funds raised will be used to cover the costs of providing housing, food, clothing, and a therapeutic environment for the children at Salem. Both individual and corporate donations will be accepted.

For only the second time in the history of the league, the 11- and 12-year-old All-Stars from the Oakland Little League captured the Maryland District One title with a big 24-0 win over Halfway Sunday afternoon in Oakland.

Josh Bosley hurled a one-hitter in the championship game, while aiding his own cause with two hits including one home run and three RBI. Jordan Uphold went five-for-five in the contest, with two homers and eight RBI, and Jason Hinebaugh and Toby Upton contributed two hits apiece with one homer for each.

Altogether the Oakland team pounded out 17 hits in the winning efforts. The lone halfway hit came in the third when Brett Crowell singled down the third base line.

The win was the fifth consecutive for the Oakland players as they swept through the winners' bracket of the double elimination tournament. Halfway claimed the losers' bracket by defeating American Saturday night.

The victory vaults Oakland into competition for the state title. Eight teams will vie for the honor of representing Maryland in regional play. The state playoff begins this weekend in Cambridge with a double-elimination format again being utilized.

Maryland District One represents all the sanctioned Little League programs from Hagerstown west. The district encompasses 18 Little League programs.

The 11- and 12-year-old team joins their 14- and 15-year-old counterparts as district champions, as the Senior League All-Stars have already captured both Maryland District One and the sectional title with a two game sweep over District Two in a best of three series last week.

The Oakland Junior League team, comprised of 13-year-odds, finished the tournament season as District One runners-up.

Oakland Junior League Team Finishes Second In District Tournament

Defending Maryland District One Junior League Champions Oakland failed to hold onto that title because of a heartbreaking 12-7 loss to Maugansville this past weekend in Maugansville. The two teams clashed after Maugansville swept the winners' bracket and Oakland captured the losers' bracket in the double-elimination tourney.

The rain-soaked championship game was decided in the sixth inning when K. Kaplin's bases-loaded single drove in three runs to break open a 6-6 tie. Losing pitcher Chris Ewing began the inning by loading the bases on two walks and a single, then rebounded by striking out the numbers three and four hitters with the infield pulled in. The infield was moved back for the final out when Kaplin smoked a single just inches past the diving glove of second baseman John Andrews.

Ewing retired the next batter with a groundout to second, but the three run lead was all Maugansville would need to hold on to the victory. Maugansville added three more in the seventh and Oakland put one more run on the board in the final inning.

Ewing was two-for-four with two runs scored in the contest, while Andrews reached base in all five trips to the plate. Eric Rexrode, Derek Everd, Nathan DiSimone, and Steve Shiflett each contributed hits to the effort, and Jason Bowers, Boo Jonson and Andrews stood out defensively.

"We had a great team," Oakland Manager Jeffrey Cooley said. "Each player added something unique to the mix, and each contributed in some way toward getting us here in the first place. I don't think anyone would deny that today we were just outgunned. But we played our hearts out clear through the tournaments and got farther than most people thought we would. We had to come from behind in every game but one, and we just ran out of gas. We were also on the road for five of our six games, and we were tired coming in.

"That's not to take anything away from this Maugansville team. They'll beat us five or six out of 10 games, they're that good. Today, they were just better than we were."

Oakland arrived at the championship game by sweeping through the losers' bracket. The locals won the first game over Clear Spring, 7-6, then dropped their next contest at South County, 16-12. Once in the losers' brackets, Oakland had to come back from a 6-2 deficit in the seventh inning to defeat Halfway 7-6 in eight innings. Clear Spring then came to Oakland with hopes of avenging their earlier defeats but Oakland prevailed 5-4, again coming from behind in the late innings.

The Oakland Juniors then had a little revenge of their own on their mind as they returned to South County Saturday afternoon. Oakland eliminated the South County team with a 6-3 effort, the only game Oakland led all the way through. Oakland then travelled to Maugansville for the Sunday championship game.

Derek Everd led the Oakland pitching crew with three wins. Chris Ewing added a victory to the total. Jesse Coddington, Nathan DiSimone, and Jason Bernard also pitched for Oakland, with Bernard preserving the win over Halfway for Everd.

"Overall, I couldn't be prouder of the results this team provided," Cooley added. "When their backs were to the wall, they came back time and time again. It was an honor to have worked with this bunch of kids."

The Junior League team was coached by Joe Healey, assisted by Steve Weaver.

Oakland 14-15 Team Continues Winning Streak

Word was received this morning that the Oakland Little League 14- and 15-year-old All-Stars captured the Maryland State North Division title last night by defeating Elkton in a best-of-three series. Oakland won the first game Tuesday, 8-3, and the second one last night, 11-2. No other details of those contests were received.

Oakland advances to the Mid-Atlantic Tournament in Harmon this Saturday against the Delaware, New Jersey, and Maryland South champions.

Local businesses and individuals who wish to make donations to help the team cover its expenses are asked to make checks payable to the Oakland Little League and send them to Kayla Cathell, Rt. 5, Box 2070, Oakland, MD 21550.

Oakland Breaks .500 With Two Pen-Mar Wins

The Oakland Oaks of the Pen-Mar Baseball League turned a losing record into a winning one Sunday afternoon by rolling over visiting Beach House in both ends of a doubleheader, 10-0 and 15-4. The victories upped Oakland's record to 13-11, a mark they will take to Keyser on Saturday and against First Federal on Sunday.

Kent Taylor was the winning pitcher in both games against Beach House, as he fired a two-hitter and went the distance in the opener, and then pitched the first three innings of the second contest. He struck out a dozen batters in game one and five more in the second game, retiring all five out of a possible six hitters over two innings.

Chad Sines and Brett Rice paced the Oakland offense, as each recorded six hits in seven at-bats.

Beach House pitchers allowed a total of 32 Oakland hits, 16 in each game.

Garrett County Legion Team To Go After State Title August 5

The Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team, coached by Ed Wildesen, will continue its quest for a Maryland state title next Friday, Aug. 5, when it begins play in the Department of Maryland Tournament at Hagerstown Municipal Stadium. The local team will open with the winner of the Frank Riley League at 10 a.m.

Garrett County will go into the tournament with the most wins ever (29 to date), with 24 being the previous mark set in 1993. The county was represented in the state tourney twice before, as Accident Post qualified in 1986 and the Garrett County team with Wildesen as coach was there in 1989 and placed third. This is the first all-Garrett County team to go to the tourney, as previous teams had some players from out of the county.

Garrett County, which is sponsored jointly by Grantsville Post 214 and Proctor Kildow Post 71, Oakland, earned a spot in the tournament by winning in the Mountain District championship. The district includes Farrady Post of Frostburg and Fort Cumberland, teams which can draw from a much larger population than Garrett County.

Offensive leaders on the Garrett County team include Southern High School standout Josh Woods, who is batting .382 with 110 at-bats, leads the team in hits (42), and is second in RBI with 32. Alan Sebold of Northern High School has a .361 average with 30 hits and 29 RBI, while Ryan Folk and Bobby Fritz, both of Northern, are batting .358 and .351, respectively. Folk is second in hits with 39 and has 36 RBI, while Fritz is fourth in hits with 33 and has 25 RBI. Paul Warnick is batting .350 with 36 hits, third best on the team, and has 24 RBI.

Mark Elliott, Jeremy Fitzwater, Matt Newcomb, and Seth Tressler are all batting over .300 and the team is averaging .328.

The leading pitchers on the squad are Jeff Martin, with an 8-1 mark, and Elliott with a 7-1 record. Fitzwater is undefeated at 4-0 and Doug Copeland is 3-1, as the team has an average ERA of 2.56.

Among the highlights of the season was winning their division in the 20-team Elkins Tournament in June, where the championship game was rained out.

Weather permitting, the Garrett County team will host Petersburg this evening, travel to Steubenville on Friday, and play at Bridgeport on Monday, primarily for practice, although the games will be counted in the team's win-loss record.

"I believe our success this year proves that Southern's 17-0 record and Northern's best record ever was no fluke," Wildesen said. "Our team reminds me of Petersburg last year, as Petersburg High School won the area championship, but was upset by Frankfort in the sectionals. However, they then turned around and won the West Virginia Legion state championship."

This will be Wildesen's last year as head coach of the Garrett County Legion team, as his duties as coach of the Garrett Community College team consume most of his time. He has been the coach of the Legion team since 1988.

"The Legion program really helped me make a smooth transition into my position at GCC," he said.

Assistant coach for the Legion team is Lew Marks.

If Garrett County wins its game next Friday against the Frank Riley District champion, the next encounter will be at 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 6, against the winner of the Northern Central/Western Maryland contest.

The top teams in the tournament will be Anne Arundel County, Potomac Post 202, and the Western Maryland champion.

PLAYING FOR A STATE TITLE next week will be the Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team, which recently won the Mountain District title and a spot in the state tournament that will begin Friday, Aug. 5, in Hagerstown. Under Coach Ed Wildesen, the team has recorded 29 wins to date, the most ever by a Garrett County Legion team. Pictured left to right, kneeling, are: Bobby Fritz, Josh Woods, Tim Sines, Alan Sebold, Jason Sweitzer, Ryan Folk, Jeremy Fitzwater, Matt Newcomb, and Brian Reams. In the back row, same order, are: Coach Wildesen, Paul Edwards, Mark Elliott, Doug Copeland, Jeff Martin, Steve Eyler, Mark Dawson, Rich Warnick, and Dan Butler. See story.

Dabney, Cutter Win Allegany County Titles

Southern High School's Meghan Dabney and Northern High School graduate Gene Cutter captured top honors in the Pepsi Cola-Allegany County Tennis Open Sunday afternoon by winning the women's and men's singles titles respectively. Cutter also teamed with Kathi Leasure to win the mixed doubles event.

Dabney, who won area and regional honors for Coach Debbie Goralski's Rams as a freshman this past season, upset top-seeded Jennifer Cole, 6-3, 6-3, to win the women's championship, while Cutter, a 1987 graduate of Northern, defeated Tom Bean of Cresaptown in the finals, 6-1, 6-1. It was the fourth area tournament title won by Cutter this summer and his 10th win over the past two seasons.

Dabney, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park and daughter of Tom and Dayle Dabney, was the number one singles player for Southern. She won the Bi-County title and then finished third in the West Region Tournament.

Dabney got off to a rather slow start earlier in the day, as she had to come back from a 7-6 loss in the first set of her match with Joy Reckley. She began to get her first serve in during the second set, however, and then easily won the next two sets, 6-1, 6-0.

Cutter, a resident of Frostburg and currently the pro at the Cumberland Country Club, and Ms. Leasure defeated the team of Joe Dalonges and Cole, 6-4, 6-1, to take the mixed doubles title.

Fred Pratt, Deer Park resident and coach of the Southern High boys' team, made it into the semi-finals of the men's 35 and over division, but was defeated by eventual champion Fred Yost, 6-4, 6-4.

Ringer Slingers Hold Tournament

The Mt. Top Ringer Slingers horseshoe pitching club held a singles tournament Sunday afternoon at the Accident courts.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

Rain caused the cancellation of races Friday night at the Somerset County Speedway. Races will resume this Friday, July 29, with gates opening at 5:30 p.m. and races starting at 7:30 p.m.

Cumberland Raceway

There were 35 Semi-lates and 38 Pure Stocks in the pits for the first Annual Allegany County Fair Championship Race. Jim Deneen, of Hyndman, Pa., won the 50 lap championship race for Semi-lates. Jim set the fast time of 24.03 and received $1,000 for the win, plus $100 from the Final Lap Racing Association of Everett, Pa., for being the leader at the half-way mark.

Johnny Harr, of Claysburg, Pa., won the 50 lap championship race for Pure Stocks worth $500, but Darras Deneen got the $100 half-way leader money from the Final Lap Racing Association.

The fastest 18 cars in the Semi-late time trials were locked into the Semi-late Feature. Heat races completed the 24 car field.

In the Semi-late Feature, Jack Pencil led for six laps before Jim Deneen took over the lead and beat Pencil by inches at the flagstand, in one of the closest finishes ever at Cumberland. Pencil, who finished second, received $150 bonus from Hamilton-Dodge. Dave Burleson came from 13th to nail down third spot, followed by Bob Elbin, Dion LaSalle, Greg Fuller, Eric Zembower, Allen Buckley, Buddy VanMeter and Rick Singleton. Heat winners were Rick Singleton and Kenny Molovich.

In the 50 lap Pure Stock Feature, Darras Deneen led John Reyan, Johnny Harr, J.R. Isner, and Rodney Sweitzer under a blanket for 39 laps. On lap 40, Deneen and Reyan got together on the backstretch and Johnny Harr got under both cars. The race was checkered flagged on lap 42 when the one hour time limit expired, giving the win to Harr. Rodney Sweitzer, who finished second, received $150 bonus from Hamilton Dodge. Jim Snyder finished third followed by J.R. Isner, Wally Mowery, Brian Duffy, Brad Brown, Jeff Nicholson, Donnie Kinnie, and Ralph King. Heat winners were Don Nicholson, Darras Deneen, J.R. Isner, and Denny Sponaugle. Consy winners were David Riley and Brad Brown.

J.R. Sports Shop, of Frostburg, gave a trophy to the top three finishers in both classes.

This week, July 30, racing returns to Saturday night at the Cumberland Raceway, with Late Models, Semi-lates and Pure Stocks. A special guest at the raceway will be former Winston Cup driver Benny Parsons.

DRIVER OF THE WEEK-BOB HERSHMAN--Bob Hershman of Swanton has been driving stock cars since 1968, and the experience shows. With two wins under his belt this season, he is currently fifth in points at Bedford, and third or fourth in points at Cumberland Raceway, and was the 1991 track champion at that track. Besides Bedford and Cumberland, Bob also races occasionally at Pittsburgh in the Late Model Class. His #25 Camaro body has a Rocket chassis and a 430 c.i. engine built by Gaerte Engines of Rochester, Indiana. The 42-year-old driver/owner is a self-employed trucker, and feels lucky to have his son, Justin, involved in racing and working on his pit crew. Other pit crew members are: Mike and Jeff Green, Mike Wileman, Herb McCrobie, Hobe Griffith, Bill Murray and Pat Green. His sponsors include Pro Com, Inc., Razzberry's, Fox's Pizza Den in McHenry, and Valvoline Motor Oil. "Just to do the best we can with what we're working with," is the goal of this successful driver.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Heavy afternoon rains kept Interstate 79 Speedway dark on Friday evening, July 22. It was the third straight year that Oldtimers Night has been canceled due to rain.

Regular Friday night racing continues this week with a Gold Rush for the children during intermission.

The points in all five divisions are close as drivers go for the 1994 I-79 Championship title. Chuck Harper leads Frank Wilson and Tim Hitt in the late models. The closest race is in the Semi-lates where Scott Miles runs 40 points ahead of Rick Strickler and Jerry Haseleu. After six feature wins, Mike Wilson tops the UMPs with Bernie Petanowick and Clifton Cochran giving chase. Jim Byers, Jim Shaffer, and Mark Bell lead the Pure Stock Division while Jim Hunt is at the top of the 4-Cylinder Stockers followed by Don Cutlip and Terry Monroe.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Under cloudy Saturday evening skies, Frank Wilson of Pennsboro, W.Va., charged further toward the 1994 track championship by taking his fourth Late Model victory in a row at Elkins Motor Speedway.

Going into the race, Wilson was 21 points behind leader, Denny Chamberlain, last season's track champ. Wilson took the pole; Chamberlain started second. Chamberlain got into early trouble and fell back to fifth position on lap two but was back in the second spot by lap seven. Cautions on laps nine and 18 brought Chamberlain closer to Wilson than anyone had been all night but the Pennsboro driver was dialed in and unbeatable.

Nolan Dalton (Jr. Racer, Samantha Layton's driver of the week) manned a late assault on Chamberlain and was bumper-to-bumper on the final lap, but he ran out of time and distance and took third in front of Gary Dalton and Sonny Stutler.

With a brand new red Rocket chassis, Terry Conrad pulled into the pits a rejuvenated driver. Last year he tore up the field in the Four-cylinder Mod Class but was forced into unknown territory as a Semi-late driver this year when the 4-C Mods were dropped. His blue #57 raced moderately well through the first half of the 1994 season but it was time for a change. Saturday night started what might become a fine finish to a staggered start as Conrad kicked in the heats and started the pole.

For nine laps, Conrad blistered the track and maintained a comfortable lead over Tim Harsh and Scott Miles. Then up through the pack came three-time winner, Jerry Haseleu. After starting 10th, Haseleu moved into second on lap five and was on Conrad's tail by lap nine. On the 10th lap, Haseleu passed Conrad low in turn three, caught the front edge of the Rocket, the cars tangled, and both stopped in the infield undamaged.

Tim Harsh took the lead and comfortably held it until the last lap when Haseleu recaptured the second spot and zeroed in on Harsh. A slight swerve by Harsh in turn two had the crowd gasping, wondering if Hasseleu would do the impossible, come from 10 spots back twice in one race, but Harsh maintained control and took his first checkered flag of the year. Behind Haseleu were Kevin Hamrick, Shawn Davis and Conrad.

Former Late Model racer, Dave Groves, returned to the track Saturday and drove to his first ever UMP Modified win in front of Roy Gibson Jr., Steve Cook, Kevin Jones and Phil Jeffries.

Mark "Meatball" Spicer returned to the winner's circle in the Pure Stock Class. He'd been silent since the first race of the season back in May but showed renewed power as he gained nine spots on the first lap and held on the win ahead of Danny Bismark and points leader, John Smith Jr.

Thomas Simpson outmaneuvered Rich Teter and Mike Simpson for the Four-Cylinder Stock victory and tightened further the battle for points in that class with five races left in the season.

Sailboat Racers Enjoy Steady Westerly Winds

by Harry Filemyr

The sailors of the Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association enjoyed steady westerly winds for the third weekend of the July-August series. The "as steady as it gets" wind produced consistent results for the faster sailing boats. In each class the same boat scored three firsts, while six others would finish no worse than fourth.

Weekend race Commander Dave Mahan set each course to round a mark (#4) in the notoriously fickle winds under the power lines near Pawn Run. Navigating this maze of shifting winds and getting away from it on the downwind run let the technically skillful, and the lucky, make big gains in position. Come-from-behind wins were the rule.

On Saturday, on the spinnaker run from mark #4, the Willeys edged by the Peters, just before the last mark. In the upwind tacking duel that followed, the Willeys stayed seconds ahead to the finish.

In the A fleet start, Al and Baron Riebel came off the unfavored end of the starting line to a big early lead. "Clear air is what it's all about," said Al. Chip and Meredith Dodd steadily closed the gap but fouled the Riebels' boat while attempting to cross ahead. Riebels pulled ahead again while Dodd did his penalty turns. At the finish, Dodd was still second, but had been passed by his fast sailing brother-in-law, John Meredith.

Clarification Noted In Sale Of Rams Tickets

The sale of season tickets for this year's Southern Rams home football games will begin on August 1, as was noted in an article in last week's issue of The Republican. Persons interested in purchasing a season ticket should come to Southern High School and meet with Betty Liller in the main office during working hours on weekdays.

Telephone calls to previous season ticket holders will not be made this year, as has been the tradition in past years. All persons who wish to buy a season ticket must do so at the school, beginning August 1.

In the article last week, it was indicated that the proceeds from the ticket sales will benefit the Athletic Association. It should be noted that the benefactor is in fact the school's athletic department, which serves all sports offered at Southern.

The season tickets will be sold on a first come, first served basis. Ticket-holders will be admitted to the five home games, have reserved seating, and reserved parking behind Dennett Road School. The cost of the ticket is $15.

GCC Foundation Sets Golf Tourney, Family Fun Day

A golf tournament and "day of family fun" has been planned by the Garrett Community College Foundation for August 21 at Alpine Lake Resort, Terra Alta, W.Va. According to Barbara Briggs, chairperson of the special events committee, the day will include many prizes for the golfers and a variety of activities for family members.

The day will begin with a putting contest at 11:30 a.m., followed by tee-off for the tournament at 1 p.m. During the tournament, a number of prizes will be awarded for novelty competitions. For children and other family members who are not golfers, there will be swimming in the indoor pool, miniature golf, hiking along the trails, picnicking, games, and other activities all included in the registration fee. The event will conclude with a buffet dinner in the Alpine Lake dining room.

The fee for each golfer, which includes green fees, golf cart and dinner, will be $75. The fee for a family of four with one golfer will be $100 and the cost for a family of four with two golfers will be $150. For larger families, each additional child from 6-12 years of age will be $6, and each child over 12 will be $11.

Registration forms may be obtained by calling 387-3056. Deadline for registration is August 11.

Big Soccer Week To Begin Monday; Special Game Set

One of the most concentrated weeks of soccer activity to ever hit the area will take place next week, when the Mountaintop Soccer Association will sponsor the first-ever soccer camp in Garrett County. Enrollment for the camp, which will be instructed by eight coaches from Great Britain, is now at 112, which exceeds the total number of players in the first season of the MSA youth league in 1990, according to Carole Ann Lovett, MSA president.

The day camp will be held Monday through Saturday at Southern High School and will culminate with a special international soccer game under the lights in the SHS athletic stadium Saturday evening, Aug. 6 (see separate story).

Campers should report to the Southern practice fields on Monday, Aug. 1, at 8:30 a.m. for distribution of balls and shirts, and assignment to groups. Players are reminded that shin guards are mandatory and each should bring his or her own water.

Instruction will be led each day, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon by licensed British coaches with Full Badge status and specialized training in youth development. Campers enrolled in the Nippers' Program (ages 4, 5, and 6) will participate from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

A free coaches' and parents' "empathy clinic" will be held Thursday, Aug. 4, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Saturday's events will include an awards ceremony and demonstration from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and the international soccer match at 7:35 p.m.

The coaches for the camp will be hosted by several local families, including those of Bill and Carole Ann Lovett, Tom and Sue Peterson, Albert and Gail Getty, Don and Suzie Sincell, Dave and Karen Spirk, and Les McDaniel. They may be picked up by the host families Sunday, July 31, between 8 and 8:30 p.m. at the Spirk residence along Paradise Point Road.

A number of camp scholarships were donated by the Oakland Elks Lodge, Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, Bausch & Lomb, and the Bausch & Lomb Management Team. All youth requesting a scholarship were accommodated.

The scholarships do not include shin guards.

Area Pharmacies To Participate In Harvest For Health

The following pharmacies -- Friendsville, Beachy's, Deep Creek, Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's -- all members of the Epic Pharmacies, announced their participation in the second annual "Harvest for Health" campaign during the week of July 25-30.

In cooperation with the nationally recognized "Harvest for the Hungry" campaign, this community project collects personal care products such as tooth brushes, tooth paste, shampoo, and bath soap which are then donated to the House of Hope.

In the past, millions of pounds of food products have been distributed to the less fortunate, a spokesperson said, but this is one of the first campaigns of its kind in the nation to distribute personal care products to those who are in need.

All local residents are encouraged to bring personal care products to any of the pharmacies listed during the week of Monday, July 25, through Saturday, July 30, to be placed in the collection boxes prominently displayed at each pharmacy.

Timberline To Host Downhill Jazz Festival

Timberline Four Seasons Resort, Tucker County, and the Tucker County Arts Council have announced plans to hold a jazz music festival at the resort on Saturday, August 20. The festival site is located at the base of Timberline's ski area, in Canaan Valley near Davis.

The event is being called the Downhill Jazz Fest at Timberline. It is sponsored by the organizer, the Tucker County Arts Council, the host, Timberline Four Seasons Resort, and the West Virginia Department of Culture and History. The festival will take place outdoors from 1 to 6 p.m. and will feature performances by several prominent jazz musicians.

The Neil Stalnaker Trio, the first act of the day, will feature light jazz sounds. Stalnaker is a former trumpet soloist with the U.S. Navy Band's Jazz ensemble, "The Commodores." He is currently Director of Jazz Studies at Davis & Elkins College in Elkins.

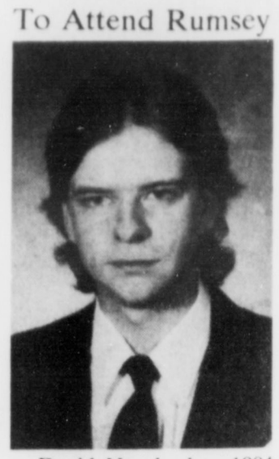
The Bob Thompson Trio, featuring jazz pianist Bob Thompson, will play for the afternoon's second session. His music combines traditional jazz influences and contemporary techniques in what he describes as "live, real intimate music." Thompson is well known amongst jazz followers for his recording successes and for regular appearances on American Public Radio's Mountain Stage. All four of his albums have achieved top-10 status on Billboard's Contemporary Jazz Chart.

The final performance of the day will be provided by Brazilian jazz vocalist, Kenia. Now based in Pittsburgh, Kenia combines the musical elements of her native country of Brazil with American pop and jazz sounds.

Tickets for the Downhill Jazz Fest are $8 in advance and $10 at the gate. Proceeds from the event go to the Tucker County Arts Council, a non-profit organization for the promotion of the arts in the Tucker County community. Tickets are available from Arts Council committee members; Timberline Resort Realty and Canaan Valley stores in Canaan Valley; The Art Company and Sirianni's Restaurant in Davis; or by calling (304) 866-4710.

Food and beverages will be available for purchase on site. No outside food, beverages or coolers will be permitted. Scenic chair lift rides will also be operating at the resort on festival day from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. For further information, persons may contact the Timberline Four Seasons Resort Marketing Department at (304) 866-4801, the Tucker County Arts Council at (304) 866-4710, or the Tourist Information Office in Davis, at (800) 782-2775.

To Attend Rumsey



David Nazelrod, a 1994 graduate of Hampshire High School, Romney, W.Va., has been accepted at the James Rumsey Technical Institute in Martinsburg, W.Va., where he will receive training in the electronics field.

Nazelrod is the son of Evelyn (Baker) Nazelrod, Kirby, W.Va., and the late R. Dale Nazelrod. He is a grandson of Olive E. Hartman, Oakland, and the late John and Ellen Nazelrod, who were residents of Deer Park.

Publisher Looking For West Virginia UFO Eyewitnesses

A former journalist who now publishes books is seeking stories from state residents who have seen UFOs.

Bob Teets, president of Headline Books, Inc., Terra Alta, says his company has compiled dozens of such stories from residents in every geographical section of the state, and intends to publish a book about them this fall.

"Before we print the book, we want to be sure to have the best stories available," Teets says, "so we are hoping to let folks know that we're interested and sincere."

The publisher acknowledges that many people are reluctant to report their sightings, either because they fear public ridicule or, in some instances, they fear the sighting itself. "Even the best authorities don't know for sure what UFOs are," Teets adds, "so many people see the phenomenon as rooted in evil or containing an element of malevolence. Rather than fear it, however, these people would find great relief in sharing their stories with someone who's heard it all. They'll find out they are in some pretty good company, like former President Jimmy Carter, who reported a sighting just prior to his election. Also, Evangelist Billy Graham, while not reporting a UFO sighting, has some interesting insights into the phenomenon."

The former editor/publisher of the weekly Preston County News seeks to assure UFO witnesses that he won't publish their names without their permission. "We will guarantee anonymity," he says

Teets has been a paid research consultant and managing editor for a Falls Church, Va., non-profit scientific and educational organization for the past two years and has researched the subject extensively. He crisscrossed the U.S. last year on behalf of the Human Potential Foundation, Inc., attending conferences and interviewing hundreds of people who claimed to have spotted UFOs. Dozens of these people, he says, reported direct contact with occupants of exotic craft.

"The number of reported sightings and contacts is rapidly increasing into the millions worldwide," the publisher says. "more and more television shows like X-Files and Encounters are zeroing in on some aspects of the phenomenon. Some scientists are now viewing UFOs as worthy of study and analysis. In total, there is definitely something going on. And it's happening in West Virginia, too. I think it will be an excellent and instructive book on West Virginians' various experiences with these phenomena."

Eyewitnesses may contact Teets at Headline Books, Inc., P.O. Box 52, Terra Alta, WV 26764, or call 1-800-570-5951.

LIFE BEFORE COMPUTERS

Offices looked very different in the 1870s. There was no need to position computer screens, find room for the phone and fax or even have space for a typewriter. Only a flat writing surface and a place to store paper were necessary.

Most office furniture, including filing cabinets and chairs, was made of oak. Only the wealthy used mahogany. The most famous desk design of the period was created by William S. Wooton, who began making school, office and church furniture in 1870. By 1874, he had patented a "cabinet office secretary." It was a desk that opened up to show pigeonholes and drawers, but it could be closed and locked for security.

In 1876, Wooton made a less elaborate model, known as the rotary desk, that looked similar to desks used today. Each of the side pedestals held a group of cubbyholes and file drawers that could swing open. It took up less space than a conventional desk and file cabinets. Twelve styles were made by Wooton, and many other makers soon copied the idea. Unusual desks like these sell today for thousands of dollars to collectors, who rarely use them in an office.

Q. I have some 1¼- by 2½-inch cards advertising Admiral, Sweet Caporal and other various brands of cigarettes. Each card features a comely lady in a special pose and attire. They may have been the pinups of the time. I would like to date the cards. Some of the women are identified by name. One is labeled "Mrs. Cleveland." Could that be President Cleveland's wife? Would a president's wife have been allowed to appear on a tobacco card?

A. Early tobacco cards pictured actresses, bridges, coins, flags, bathing beauties, generals, athletes, boats and others. The brands on your cards date from the 1890s. One set was called "Presidents and Other Celebrities." Mrs. Cleveland was card No. 1 in that set. Others included in the group were President Garfield, Gen. Grant, President Lincoln and a few less familiar names like Zeffle Tilbury, Louise Paullin and Annie Pixley. Common cards like yours can be found for sale at some antiques shows for about $2 each. A rare person or subject can be worth up to $25.

Your Health

Q. Sometimes without any reason, a skin rash appears on my hands, chest and legs. It lasts for about two hours and then disappears. Can you give me some help in identifying why this happens?

A. To give you some idea of how difficult it is to track down the cause of such a recurring rash, I'll name just a few:

1. Allergic reaction to detergents, soaps and other household cleaning products.
2. Allergic responses to foods or drugs.
3. Contact with certain leaves or plants such as poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac.
4. Emotional stresses and anxiety.
5. Infectious diseases.
6. Contact with certain clothing fabrics such as wool, synthetics and even silk.
7. Contact with cosmetic products and perfume.

With diligent examination the cause of these transient skin rashes can usually be determined. Sometimes allergic testing is necessary to find the offender.

Commission On Women's Health Now Permanent

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced the signing of an executive order establishing a permanent Commission on Women's Health. The new commission has been set up in response to recommendations made by the Governor's Commission on Women's Health.

"Helping women make a difference in their health is the goal of the commission," said Governor Schaefer. "Women need reliable and accessible information on health issues to help them take charge of their health."

The commission is chaired by Catherine DeAngelis, M.D., vice dean for academic affairs and faculty, Johns Hopkins School of Medicine. Nancy Grasmick, Ph.D., state school superintendent, is the vice-chair. In addition to the chairpersons, the commission has 31 members including five students from middle and high school.

"The commission is committed to improving women's health through education and outreach," said Dr. DeAngelis. "We will sponsor activities and distribute informational material throughout the state as part of a campaign to make a difference in the health of women. "

The commission has already begun its work. Efforts are underway to distribute an informational brochure on women's health and available resources, and to survey the availability of mental health services for women throughout the state.

Several key components to a healthy life have been targeted for promotion. Examples of the types of programs sponsored by the commission will include:

*"Kick Butts" -- an effort to focus on reversing the increase in smoking among adolescent girls. The commission will promote smoking-cessation clinics to students.

*"Fit For Life -- Just Do It" -- a promotion of events and activities to encourage regular exercise among all women.

*Heart Disease, Breast Cancer, Osteoporosis, Major Depression, Domestic Violence: health statistics show that women are more adversely affected by these health issues. The commission will work in concert with other organizations to expand education and outreach on these issues and other health issues.

Rt. 42 Segment Being Resurfaced

The State Highway Administration (SHA) is resurfacing a segment of Maryland Rt. 42 in Garrett County.

The project covers approximately 4.5 miles along Rt. 42 from U.S. 219 to Kisner Road. Work also includes drainage improvements and installing guardrails, flexible delineators (plastic markers) and pavement markings. The work is necessary to replace deteriorated road surface and enhance motorist safety.

Single lane closures will occur between sunrise and sunset. Flagpersons, arrow boards, traffic cones and drums will be used to guide motorists through the construction area.

Keystone Lime Co., Inc., of Springs, Pa., has been awarded the $598,000 contract. The project is expected to be complete this fall.

SHA reminds motorists to "stay alert and drive safely."

"It Might Rain..."

"Remember to take your umbrella. It might rain."

"But Mom, the sun is shining!"

"Take it just the same, dear...we never know."

Almost invariably, it rained. No, Mom didn't have ESP. It was WISDOM. That umbrella was there when you needed it. Mom knew what was ahead.

Our Heavenly Father knows what is ahead. He has warned us in Matthew 5:45 that it "rains on the just and the unjust." This is part of life. Yet, God's Word also assures us in Proverbs 30:5, "He is a shield to those that put their trust in Him."

Worship this Sabbath in the shelter of God's sanctuary. There may be rain in your life; that we don't know...but the promise of His protection will shield you. That we know.

HOW LONG CAN A MEDICINE LAST?

Each one has its own problem. Some must be taken soon after compounding for they lose potency daily. Certain drugs deteriorate quickly when exposed to light, -- others to heat. Some medicines absorb moisture from the air, -- others can give up less stable ingredients and decompose.

Pharmacists have been taught how to protect the potency of all drugs. That is why a pharmacist must attend college for many years to gain this knowledge. When you get your medicines from your pharmacy, potency is positive.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHO NEEDS THE TENT?
July 31, 1994

Background Scripture:
Exodus 25:1-9; 29:38-46; 40:16-38
Devotional Reading:
Exodus 33:12-36

Up until this point in the Book of Exodus, God is represented as dwelling in divine isolation on the top of Mount Sinai. But God offers them a covenant in which they will be His people and He will be their God. He also promises to bring them into the land of Canaan, which they will possess as their heritage. So, if He is to be their God and they are to go on into Canaan, then He must leave the solitary peaks of Sinai and go with them.

Presumably, God could have told them to go on to Canaan and "know that I go with you." That would be the kind of advice we might expect today. For the God revealed in Jesus Christ was and is not limited to a mountaintop, a temple or any other holy place, including a church. Who was it defined God as "a circle whose center is everywhere and circumference is nowhere"? But in Moses' day the people were not spiritually ready for that kind of God and so He had to present Himself to them in terms they could understand and believe. That, I believe, is why He said to Moses: "And make me a sanctuary, that I may dwell in their midst" (25:8).

SOMETHING VISIBLE

I do not believe that God needed a tent in order to go with the people of Israel, but that He knew they needed a tent to be aware of His presence. All the specific instructions—as to the financing of the tabernacle (25:1-9), as to the offerings (29:38-42), as to the construction and furnishing of it (40:16-33)—do not represent what it takes to please God, but what it took to reach the hearts and minds of the Israelites. I don't think God needed that tent, but they did. They needed something visible to maintain their belief in God's promise: "and I will dwell among the people of Israel, and be their God" (29:45).

Another visible symbol of God's presence with them was "the cloud" that covered the tent of meeting. "Throughout all their journeys, whenever the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the people of Israel would go onward; but if the cloud was not taken up, then they did no go onward until the day that it was taken up" (40:36, 37). Now, I don't think God needed that cloud, but they did. Without it, I'm sure that they would have "broken loose" once again.

The writer of Exodus ends both chapter 40 and the book with these words: "For throughout all their journeys the cloud of the Lord was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was in it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel" (40:38). They needed something "in their sight" to assure them that God was with them. From our contemporary perspective, the tabernacle and the cloud seem rather primitive means of signifying God's presence. But many of us also lean sometimes upon symbols and visual representations—our churches, shrines, religious art, rituals and liturgy.

The purest and highest understanding of God is the one which we get without signs and symbols, but that doesn't mean we should or can get along completely without them. The problem is not with the tents or whatever represents God to us and makes Him real, but when we let those representations become the sole basis for our understanding. The people of Israel got very bogged down in the details of the tabernacle, just as sometimes we get equally hooked on the physical appointments of our places of worship.

Who needs the tent? Not God, but sometimes we do, so that we may remember that God is daily in our midst. Yet we must never mistake the tent in our backyard for the length and breadth of God's domain.

NBC special informs, helps victims of abuse

BY SARA BENNETT

Dr. Susan Forward

Perhaps something good has come from the O.J. Simpson murder case. It has drawn increased attention to the problem of abuse in relationships.

At a time when national awareness is on the rise, NBC airs "Best-Sellers: Men Who Hate Women and the Women Who Love Them" Friday, Aug. 5.

The two-hour prime-time special is based on information in the 1986 book of the same title by Dr. Susan Forward (who, coincidentally, briefly counseled Nicole Simpson, O.J.'s ex-wife, prior to her death).

Lindsay Wagner is host, and guests Finola Hughes ("General Hospital") and Mary Catherine Crosby ("Dallas") appear in a drama segment embodying the plight of many abused women. In the vignette, one of Forward's theories is supported.

"Even a professional, successful woman can be vulnerable to (abuse)," Forward says. "We see many paradoxical situations in which a woman can leave all of her dignity and self-worth and power outside the front door after she comes home from work. It is amazing how many effective women are in relationships like this, because it's only in intimate relationships that our true fears and our true conflicts emerge."

Forward comments on many aspects of abuse in the program and even administers a checklist of questions that viewers can address at home.

"I'm kind of the psychological heart of the piece, in the sense of letting the audience know, in very accessible terms, what they're seeing," she says, adding that the checklist serves to help women determine whether or not they're constantly "being ground down, belittled, having to give up people and activities important to you."

Forward also cites an abuser's "Jekyll and Hyde behavior, where he switches from charm to rage at a moment's notice" and "relentless criticism" as signs for women to look out for. "This is not just minor league stuff."

"People who have come from chaotic or abusive families are prime targets for relationships like this," she adds. "And we always gravitate to the familiar, so if it's familiar to a woman to have to constantly try and figure out ... how to be perfect so he'll be nice to her all the time, obviously women like that are prime targets."

The special will combine clips from TV movies, newsmagazines and talk shows that have dealt with abuse. Viewers will also look in on Forward's therapy clinic in Los Angeles, where real-life couples deal with problems.

Because of the O.J. Simpson case, Forward's best-seller "is having an explosion of sales again," she says. "At least I have the satisfaction of knowing that the information that women need to wake them up to abuse – and the fact that psychological abuse is every bit as damaging, if not more so, than physical abuse – is in the book."

For better or worse, Forward is happy to see that "the focus now on spousal abuse, which is so long overdue, is finally happening."

Martin Sheen

Q: If Charlie Sheen and Emilio Estevez are brothers, why do they have different last names? I once heard a rumor that Judy Garland is Liza Minnelli's daughter. If so, why do they have different last names? One time in a magazine, I read something about Cybill Shepherd's mother. I think her name is Debbie Reynolds. If that is true, why do they have different last names? –Betty Kelly, ex-member of the Motown group Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, St. Joseph, Mo.

A: Whoa. It is not unusual for singers and actors to take a stage name in the place of their real one. Taking your questions in order: Actor Martin Sheen (real name: Ramon Estevez) is the father of Charlie and Emilio. Charlie opted to use his father's professional surname, while Emilio kept his birth name. Judy Garland (real name: Frances Gumm), who died 25 years ago, was the mother of Liza Minnelli, whose father was director Vincente Minnelli. Shepherd is not related in any way to Reynolds, who is the mother of actress-writer Carrie Fisher. Singer Eddie Fisher is Carrie's father.

Q: Please send me the address of "Grace Under Fire" in the enclosed self-addressed, stamped envelope. –A reader.

A: It's "Grace Under Fire," C/O ABC Television Network, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90027. I am deleting your name, address and the reason you wanted this address. While I have made the odd exception in the past, I no longer am able to give personal responses under any circumstances. Please do not send stamped envelopes. Sorry.

Q: Why is "Vicki" being canceled? Where can I write to her? Where can I write to a cast member of "Days of Our Lives"? –K.R., Joplin, Mo.

A: Vicki Lawrence and her producers had a stormy relationship (she walked off the show last year at one point), but the cancellation was based largely on low ratings. Write to her, and "Days" cast members, C/O NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: I remember a blond actress named Marilyn Maxwell. No one else does. Whatever happened to her? –Helen Lovelace, Green Bay, Wis.

A: Born Marvel Maxwell in 1921, the radio singer and actress started out as a child dancer. Although most of her work was in B movies and television, she is prominently featured in the Bob Hope-Lucille Ball comedy "Critic's Choice," which is scheduled to air Saturday, Aug. 6, on TNT. She died in 1972.

A&E delivers Buffett, Billy, Browne and more

BY JOHN HARMON

A&E has fun wastin' away in Margaritaville Cafe on "A&E in Concert" Thursday, Aug. 4.

Elliott Forrest serves as host for this two-hour tribute honoring some of America's best singer-songwriters, in a show inspired by a Jimmy Buffett interview from his favorite city of New Orleans.

Along with Mardi Gras performance clips of Buffett in his Margaritaville Cafe, the show includes concert footage of Billy Joel, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Bruce Hornsby and Jackson Browne.

The program opens with rousing renditions of Joel's ever-popular "Only the Good Die Young" and "Piano Man." As usual, when watching a live performance of Joel, one gets the feeling that if he ever lost his voice the crowd could quite easily take over.

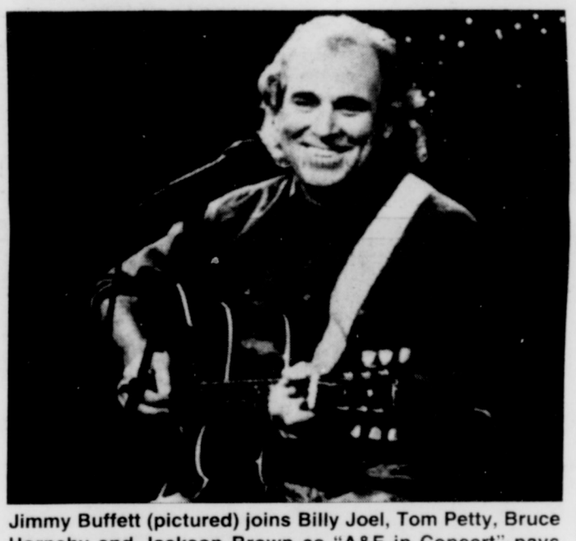
Footage from Tom Petty's 1992 Great Wide Open Tour features favorites such as "Refugee," "Free Fallin' " and "Here Comes My Girl."

Two-time Grammy Award winner Bruce Hornsby performs "Long Valley Road," "Harbor Lights" and others.

Jackson Browne discusses his latest effort, "I'm Alive," and offers his thoughts on songwriting. Tour rehearsal footage includes older Browne tunes like "Running on Empty," "In the Shape of a Heart" and "Doctor My Eyes."

The highlight of the program, however, is the interview with Buffett followed by fun-filled performances of "Margaritaville," "Changes in Latitudes, Changes in Attitudes" and other tunes.

Buffett complements his performance with a sightseeing tour of New Orleans, and those interested can even find out where he lost his virginity.



Jimmy Buffett (pictured) joins Billy Joel, Tom Petty, Bruce Hornsby and Jackson Brown as "A&E in Concert" pays tribute to American singer-songwriters, Thursday.

Finola Hughes (left) and Mary Catherine Crosby star in one segment of NBC's "Best-Sellers: Men Who Hate Women and the Women Who Love Them" Friday.

IN FOCUS

There's no turning back for Bridget Fonda in "Point of No Return" on Cinemax Sunday, July 31.

Fonda portrays a condemned drug addict who is given a chance to mend her criminal ways by working for the government as a hit woman.

Gabriel Byrne co-stars as the cool-headed intelligence officer who develops a sincere soft spot for his new recruit.

The film is a remake of "La Femme Nikita," an acclaimed French thriller from 1990.

IN FOCUS

Jake Busey hits the road in "Motorcycle Gang," a premiere movie airing as part of Showtime's Rebel Highway series on Friday, Aug. 5.

Busey, son of actor Gary Busey, plays the leader of a motorcycle gang that terrorizes a dysfunctional family on their way to California in search of a better life.

When the parents' teen-age daughter is kidnapped by the ruthless gang, the family is forced to join together in an attempt to rescue her.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Families will enjoy 'The Whipping Boy'

Truan Munro

Parents and children alike will find much to enjoy in "The Whipping Boy," a Disney Channel film bowing Sunday, July 31.

Boasting a flavorful guest appearance by George C. Scott, the TV movie is based on Sid Fleischman's 1986 novella, which won the Newbery Award for outstanding contribution to children's literature. Its colorful costumes and 18th-century setting harken back to such acclaimed Disney projects as "The Prince and the Pauper" and "Treasure Island."

In the small European kingdom of Brattenburg, young orphan Jemmy (Truan Munro) supports his little sister, Annyrose (Karen Salt), by catching rats in the city sewers and selling them to Blind George (Scott), who runs a sporting club of dubious repute.

After a chance encounter on the city streets, Jemmy is seized by the spoiled Prince Horace (Nic Knight) and made to serve as the new palace whipping boy, the stand-in who is punished whenever the arrogant little heir misbehaves – which is often.

While in the palace, Jemmy learns that Annyrose has been thrown into prison and he vows to escape and save her. Horace joins him in his flight after the prince's pranks land Brattenburg on the brink of war with its neighboring kingdom.

The two boys are captured by two vicious highwaymen, fragrant Hold-Your-Nose-Billy (Kevin Conway) and Cutwater (Vincent Schiavelli), but escape via an act of "grizzly ex machina" when a gypsy's pet bear frightens the scoundrels. How the duo make their way back to the castle, and into a friendship, leads to the resolution of the yarn.

Both Munro, whose mother is British actress Susan Penhaligan, and little Salt are absolutely charming and natural, although Knight is a trifle too stilted as the prince. Scott fans should be advised that, while his performance is something to savor, his role is a glorified cameo consisting of just over eight minutes of screen time.

Elsewhere this week, Kyle MacLachlan ("Twin Peaks"), Kim Greist and Dwight Yoakam star in "Roswell," a Showtime original movie based on an alleged UFO crash in Roswell, N.M. It premieres Sunday.

"Indochine," the elegant 1992 Academy Award winner as best foreign film, also garnered a best actress nomination for star Catherine Deneuve. The French drama premieres on Cinemax Wednesday, Aug. 3.

TIME OUT

Roberts enjoys time spent with LPGA folks

BY SARA BENNETT

Robin Roberts

"It's tough when you've been in this industry so long to find new challenges," says ESPN's Robin Roberts, lead commentator of the McCall's LPGA Classic at Stratton Mountain, Vt.

ESPN airs the third round live on Saturday, Aug. 6 (the final round airs Sunday, Aug. 7).

Roberts, a "SportsCenter" and "Sunday SportsDay" host, found the role of golf commentator a new challenge at the LPGA Standard Register Ping in Phoenix earlier this year.

"I was just ecstatic and can't wait to get up there and give it another shot (at Stratton)," she says.

And according to Roberts, she's not the only one excited.

"It's an event that everybody looks toward," she says. "A lot of the key players will be there. It's toward the end of the season, they're trying to get their additional points in, so it will be a good field. It's one stop on the Tour that ... the fans look forward to (as well)."

Assessing the golfers, "Laura Davies has been terrific on the Tour this year, and I would expect that she would do well there as well," Roberts says.

Davies is a "fun player to watch, can hit the snot out of the ball, is very funny and charismatic," she adds. "The players, they don't really mind losing to her. Everybody wants to win, but if you lose to Laurie, it's like, 'Oh, boy. So be it.' "

"Tammie Green has been on fire lately," Roberts says, adding that it's tough to predict the top finishers because "on the LPGA Tour they have so many different winners."

Roberts has never been to the course at Stratton Mountain, so she'll get there a couple of days early "to play the course and walk the course and just get an idea of what the players will be seeing," she says. "So when I describe a hole ... I visually know what the pitfalls are, and the strengths and weaknesses of that hole."

A former standout basketball player at Southeastern Louisiana University, Roberts has picked up golf in the last few years and has always been a fan of the LPGA. So she was honored last year when the league asked her to serve as host of their awards luncheon in New York.

"I went to the event and was just so impressed with (commissioner) Charlie Mechem, with everybody involved in the LPGA," she says. "The LPGA is, to me, the only professional sports league left that has yet to experience its explosion. And if there's anything that I can do to help that, I'm all for it."

CABLE OVERVIEW

Tough films take center stage on Lifetime, HBO

Cathy Lee Crosby

More than 50 gangs roam the streets in this city, and the murder rate per capita is the highest in the country.

But it isn't New York or Los Angeles, it's Little Rock, Ark., where gunfire can be heard near the governor's mansion at night. Gangs have come to this small city in America's heartland from Chicago and L.A.

"Gang War: Bangin' in Little Rock," an HBO "America Undercover" special debuting Tuesday, Aug. 2, gives viewers a close look at gang culture as it spreads to the city's white middle class. The program's crude title is a hint of things to come: branding of members, brutal initiation rites and, for many, death at an early age.

At the root, says county coroner Steve Nawojczyk, are broken homes and childhood traumas of abuse, neglect and shattered lives.

"Gang War" follows Nawojczyk on a crusade to reduce the death toll by taking to the streets, asking members to put down their guns. Producers Mark Levin and Daphne Pinkerson were with Nawojczyk as a drive-by shooting occurred.

"In their minds," says Levin, "it's like a war, an endless cycle like the Palestinians and the Israelis. Every one of them has been touched by this violence."

Cathy Lee Crosby ("That's Incredible!") stars in "Untamed Love," debuting Wednesday, Aug. 3, on Lifetime. Crosby plays a dedicated special education teacher who faces some of her own shortcomings while struggling to help an abused and emotionally disturbed child (Ashlee Lauren). John Getz ("Blood Simple") and Gary Frank ("Family") co-star.

Pitcher Steve Carlton and shortstop Phil Rizzuto are among those being inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame this year. ESPN carries the induction ceremony Sunday, July 31.

David Frost's exhaustive 1977 interviews with Richard Nixon will be repeated this month in their entirety for the first time since they originally aired. "The Nixon Interviews With David Frost" begins Tuesday on The Disney Channel. The series airs weekly through Aug. 30.

Kyle MacLachlan, Martin Sheen and Dwight Yoakam star in "Roswell" Sunday on Showtime. The film re-creates a military investigation into a supposed UFO landing in 1947 New Mexico.

Katharine Hepburn grants a rare interview to "Reflections on the Silver Screen," which airs Wednesday on American Movie Classics.

SOAP TALK

Fans upset over Erica and Jack on 'AMC'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Kelly Ripa

Dear Candace: I love "All My Children," but I am not very happy with all this stuff going on between Erica (Susan Lucci) and Jack (Walt Willey). They do not belong together as a couple.

My favorite characters are Mimi (Shari Headley), Derek (William Christian), Hayley (Kelly Ripa) and Dixie (Cady McClain). Could you please tell me how I could write to them? –La Rue, Laurinburg, N.C.

Dear Reader: You are not the only fan who is upset about Erica's affair with Jack. It all happened to further the story line, but it has created an uncomfortable situation for all the characters involved and the viewers.

Why would Jack, a man who put his career and life in jeopardy to help Laurel, do anything that would ruin his relationship with her? This fine, upstanding man (one of the few on daytime) is suddenly so infatuated with an ex-lover that he has thrown the rest of his life away. It makes no sense, and the writers have done both Erica and Jack an injustice.

You can write to the cast of the show C/O All My Children, ABC-TV 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y. 10023.

Dear Candace: I was wondering, how long are we going to have to put up with cry baby Cassie (Laura Bonarrigo) on "One Life to Live"? I mean, she cries about anything and everything. I wish they would take her off the show.

I would also like to see Max (James De Paiva) and Luna (Susan Batten) get back together, and I want them to take Blair (Kassie Wesley) off the show. I do love to watch Asa (Philip Carey) and Alex (Tonja Walker). They are so comical and fun.

I think it is time the writers found Marty (Susan Haskell) a new boyfriend. Maybe they should fix her up with Todd (Roger Howarth) and then she could stop crying about how he raped her.

On "AMC," I wish that Erica and Dimitri (Michael Nader) would get back together. I'm sick of Kendall (Sarah Michelle Gellar). She has got to go. –D. S. Baldwin, Aberdeen, Wash.

Dear Reader: Stranger things have happened, but if the writers on "OLTL" ever put Todd and Marty together as a couple, there would most certainly be a mass exodus of viewers from the show.

GAO To Audit White House On Helicopter Use

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (MD-6) reported Wednesday that he has received word from the Government Accounting Office (GAO) that they have agreed to honor his request for an audit of the White House travel office regarding White House staff use of the taxpayer-funded Maxine helicopters intended for presidential and vice-presidential official business.

Bartlett recently was informed by phone that the GAO is in the process of compiling a team of staff to work on the audit, and that the issue has been assigned to the National Security and International Affairs Division of the GAO. "I am encouraged by this new development, and hope it will result in the American people and Congress getting the answers we deserve on this matters," said Bartlett "I have been particularly Illustrated with the Whitewater-esque runaround we've been getting from the White House when we inquire about the staff helicopter use."

The GAO audit is being conducted as a result of a congressional request headed by Congressman Bartlett, a member of the House Armed Services Committees after his earlier requests to the White House for the lolls and manifests for the Marine helicopters assigned to the White House were ignored. The request came in the wake of discovery that white House aides had used a presidential Marine helicopter to take a golf outing in Congressman Bartlett's congressional district in Maryland. One of the White House aides on the golf trip, David Watkins, was forced to resign over the incident.

Entertainment Spending Is Up

Marylanders spent almost $475 million on taxable entertainment during fiscal year 1994, 8.3% more than during the previous fiscal year, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. Fiscal year 1994 ended June 30, 1994.

"Entertainment spending is an indicator of how people are spending their disposable income, and spending definitely rose throughout the year," Goldstein said. "Marylanders spent more on movie tickets, golfing activities, wintertime sports such as skiing and skating, and other activities. Almost all taxable entertainment categories showed increases in spending which generates the admissions and amusement tax revenue our office collects for Maryland's counties, cities, and towns," he said.

The comptroller noted that local governments received a total of $33,143,509 as their share of the admissions and amusement tax receipts for fiscal year 1994, almost 10% more than the $30.1 million they received the previous year. Garrett County received $264,418, compared to $236,861 last year.

Marylanders spent more than $85.5 million on movie tickets in fiscal year 1994, a 16.2% increase over fiscal year 1993, reflecting the success of holiday and other blockbuster movies. Spending for shows and exhibits in fiscal year 1994 increased by about 30%, to nearly $23 million. Spending for live theatre and concerts increased by 28.6%, to $17.5 million.

Statewide spending for athletic events in fiscal year 1994 increased by about 3.3% over the same period of the previous year, to more than $69.6 million. Marylanders spent more than $16 million on amusement rides, an increase of about 25% over fiscal year 1993. "Last year's mild weather in November and December also contributed to increased entertainment spending," Goldstein said. "For example, golf greens fees and cart rentals were responsible for consumer spending of more than $46.4 million, up 10.5% from fiscal year 1993."

Spending at driving ranges and miniature golf courses also increased by 8.6%, to $9.2 million.

As expected, winter sports enthusiasts took advantage of the exceptional cold and snow, spending about $3.4 million for skiing and ski rentals, up 5.2% from fiscal year 1993. Spending for skating and skate shoe rentals also increased by about 2.6% to $3.5 million in fiscal year 1994.

The only major entertainment category that registered a decline in spending was coin-operated amusement devices. Spending for this category decreased by about one-half of one per cent, to $41.5 million.

During fiscal year 1994, the Maryland Stadium Authority received $3,406,704 as its share of admissions and amusement tax receipts.

The State Comptroller's Office collects the admissions and amusement tax at rates set by local officials and returns the money to local governments each quarter.

All-American Produce

AN ADVENTURE IN FINE FOODS

What's the latest good-for-you food trend for the nineties?

People who cook at home and chefs alike are turning to fruits and vegetables grown right here in the United States for exceptional quality and extraordinary variety. Coast to coast, kitchens are being stocked with the bounty of American fields, orchards and groves while top restaurants highlight American produce on their menus.

Virtually every state has a crop or two to call its pride and joy. There's nothing finer than a fluffy baked potato from Idaho or a plate of sliced juicy red tomatoes from Florida. Of course, nothing can beat California's sunshine and year-round warmth to produce naturally sweet dates and the best fresh carrots.

A PRODUCE PRIMER

U.S.A. Produce Facts & Figures

✔ One of the first Americans to grow tomatoes was Thomas Jefferson, who had a crop in 1781.

✔ Virtually all tomatoes grown in the United States between October and June are grown in Florida. Overall, the Sunshine State accounts for 45 percent of tomatoes consumed in the United States.

✔ Dates may be the world's oldest cultivated food, dating back to Egypt in the fifth century. They were brought to America by Spanish missionaries. The Coachella Valley in California, with its abundant sunshine and perfect weather conditions, is ideal for growing the fresh, naturally dehydrated fruit. California produces the best quality dates in the world.

✔ Dates are often called "nature's candy" because they have a sweet, caramel-like flavor that melts in your mouth. Dates have only 23 calories each and contain no fat, sodium or cholesterol.

✔ California produces the majority of the nation's carrot supply— about 75 percent. The increasingly popular baby-cut carrot now accounts for 20 percent of California's carrot output.

✔ Carrots are an excellent source of beta-carotene, an important natural element that may reduce the risk of heart disease and some forms of cancer.

✔ The Russet Burbank potato originated from a seed ball accidentally discovered 100 years ago in New England by Luther Burbank. Scientists experimented with it in California and Colorado, but Idaho perfected it and made it famous.

✔ Idaho grows roughly one-third of the U.S. fall potato crop. Idaho's unique climate and growing conditions—warm days and cool nights, rich volcanic soil and fresh mountain water—produce a potato that is fluffy in texture and pleasing in taste.

PRODUCE POINTERS

Buying, Storing and Caring for Famous State Fruits and Vegetables

✔ To ripen Florida tomatoes, place in a brown paper bag or in a fruit ripening bowl. Tomatoes should not be refrigerated below 55 degrees until fully ripe—refrigeration kills flavor in fresh tomatoes.

✔ You'll find California dates year-round in the produce department or baking aisle. Look for good quality, plump, moist California dates. Dates can be stored in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to one year. If they dry out, simply steam them in a little water or fruit juice to restore the moisture.

✔ Genuine Idaho Potatoes have a rounded, elongated shape, few and shallow eyes, net-textured skin and a deep brown color. The "Grown in Idaho" seal ensures Idaho quality. Don't buy potatoes that are soft or have excessive cuts, cracks or bruises.

✔ Look for carrots that are smooth, firm and well-shaped, bright orange to orange-red in color. To store, remove any leafy tops and place in a plastic bag before refrigerating. If baby-cut carrots appear dry, refresh them with a cold-water bath to restore their bright orange color.

Florida Tomato and Idaho Potato Pesto Salad

3 Idaho russet potatoes, peeled and sliced ¼-inch thick
2 cups loosely packed fresh basil leaves
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup walnut pieces
2 large cloves garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 fully ripened fresh Florida tomatoes, cut in half and sliced

In a large pot, bring 2 inches water to a boil. Add potatoes; cover and cook over medium heat until tender. Drain and set aside to cool. Meanwhile, in food processor combine basil, cheese, nuts, garlic and salt; process until very finely chopped. With processor running, slowly pour in oil. Pour pesto over warm potatoes; cover and chill. Just before serving, add tomatoes; toss gently. Makes 4 servings.

Variation: A store-bought pesto, available fresh or frozen, may be used. For a lower-fat version, replace the olive oil with ½ cup nonfat ricotta cheese.

California Date and Carrot Salad with Orange Vinaigrette

Orange Vinaigrette:

3 tablespoons fresh orange juice
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 teaspoon grated orange zest
1 small clove garlic
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup extra virgin olive oil

Salad:

¾ cup California dates, pitted and coarsely chopped
¼ red onion, thinly sliced
1½ pounds California carrots, peeled (about 7 medium carrots)
⅓ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
8 large mint leaves, chopped
Freshly ground black pepper

In a small jar, combine orange juice, vinegar, zest, garlic and salt; stir. Add oil; seal tightly and shake well. In small bowl, spoon ¼ cup dressing over dates and onion; set aside. Into a large bowl, use a vegetable peeler to make long, thin strips of the carrots (nibble on carrot cores that can't be made into strips or use them diced in a soup, salad or a vegetable medley.) Just before serving, toss together carrots, walnuts, mint and date mixture. Add dressing and pepper to taste. Save leftover dressing for green salads. Makes 4 servings.

DILLED HONEY-MUSTARD FRESH CARROTS

1 pound baby-cut California carrots
½ cup water
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon chopped fresh dill or ¼ teaspoon dried dill

Combine carrots and water. Simmer, covered, until carrots are just tender, about 10 minutes. Meanwhile, whisk together the remaining ingredients, reserve. When carrots are just tender, remove cover. Cook over high heat until almost all water evaporates. Stir in reserved honey mixture. Heat over medium heat, stirring constantly until carrots are hot and well-coated with sauce. Makes 4 servings.

OVEN-DRIED TOMATOES

Cut fresh, ripe Florida tomatoes in half. Gently squeeze each half to extract seeds and juice, open them up and place on baking sheet. Season to taste. Bake in slow oven—225° F—for ½ hour. Reduce temperature to 200° F for approximately 2½ hours, depending on desired texture.

OVEN-WEDGE FRIES

2 Idaho russet potatoes, cut into wedges
1 teaspoon olive oil
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
Chopped Italian seasonings

Lay potato wedges on greased cookie sheet, one side down. Bake for 7 minutes in a 400° F oven or until bottom and edges start browning. Flip wedges over to their other side and sprinkle garlic and Italian seasonings over the top. Bake for another 7 minutes or until the wedges are nicely brown and cooked throughout. Makes 2 servings.

LOW-FAT DATE YOGURT SHAKE

½ cup pitted California dates
½ medium banana
½ cup orange juice
½ cup plain nonfat yogurt
½ cup crushed ice

Combine dates, banana and orange juice in blender and purée until dates are finely chopped. Add yogurt and ice; blend until just combined. Makes 2 servings.

A PAINT CREW working at the Southern High School athletic stadium, composed of youth in the JTPA 1994 Summer Program, has been busy painting bleachers, the Lions Club concession stand, the softball and baseball dugouts, and other SHS field buildings. The program provides an opportunity for students to earn wages while gaining on-the-job experience, as well as learn the importance of punctuality, good communication and interpersonal skills, and responsibility. The crew is supervised by John McBride. In addition, the program provides classroom instruction and training geared toward successful career exploration, as well as success on the Maryland functional reading and math tests. Below, students work in the Southern Middle School computer lab, using Skills Bank III to reinforce skills learned in the classroom and on the job. See story.

Local Youth Receiving Training, Work Experience Through JTPA

The Summer Youth Employment and Training Program (SYETP) began on June 27 under the leadership of M. Sue Shockey, supervisor of the Garrett County Western Maryland Consortium office. "The Training Place," with the support of the Garrett County Board of Education, has employed 191 youth in Garrett County who are involved in various components of the program and are working throughout the county.

According to Elmer Redinger, SYETP coordinator for the consortium, one of the new components of the program developed by Johns Hopkins University is the Learning Rich Work Experience. Fifty-five percent of all participants (105 enrollees) will receive on-the-job training to provide skills that could be applied in other employment opportunities. This would also provide a career connection to give these enrollees the opportunity to have work-related experiences that combine work and classroom learning.

Among the work skills evaluated for each participant are: (1) uses available resources to complete task, (2) shows knowledge in using information, (3) makes effective use of communication skills, (4) is knowledgeable in using equipment, (5) adopts to worksite, (6) uses basic functional skills, (7) uses critical 'thinking' skills and (8) develops personal qualities.

Under the direction of Doug Oxford, SYETP training coordinator, another segment offered to participants is remediation in the areas of math, reading, citizenship, and writing. Enrollees who have not successfully passed one or all of these functional tests needed for high school graduation are required to attend remediation classes once a week. They then are given the opportunity to take and, it is hoped, pass the test during the summer, Oxford explained.

The Learning Alertness Program (L.A.P.) began on July 5. This part of the program is for 14- year-old youth who are required to attend classes in the morning and obtain Learning Rich Work experience in the afternoon. This group of 45 enrollees uses Game Syms tasks which helps better prepare them for the world of work and the use of computers to improve their math and reading skills. One of the high-lights of the L.A.P. Program is the trip to the Carnegie Science Center in Pittsburgh on the last day of the program.

"We also formed five work crews with supervisors hired by the Consortium to provide a learning rich work experience," Ms. Shockey said. These crews, usually made up of 10 enrollees each, are working for the State Roads Department, Southern High School. Complex, Herrington Manor State Park and the Friendsville Lions Club Park/Town of Friendsville.

"It is hoped that through the various components of the SYETP, the youth of Garrett County will not only improve their skills in the classroom, but also receive a learning rich work experience so that upon graduating from high school, they will go on for further training or have the skills to find immediate employment," Shockey said. While obtaining skills, the youth are earning $4.25/hour during the summer work program.

Maryland English Journal Offices Housed At FSU

Lois T. Stover, assistant professor of education at Towson State University and president of the Maryland Council of Teachers of English Language Arts, announces the availability of Volume 28, Number 1 of the Maryland English Journal, the first issue produced with editorial offices housed at the Frostburg State University Department of English.

Five Western Marylanders played key roles in producing the volume on the FSU campus. Judith J. Pula, assistant professor of English at Frostburg State, serves as the journal editor. Before joining the Department of English at FSU, Pula taught for 10 years in the Garrett County School System. Widely recognized for her many contributions to education and to the community at large, Dr. Pula was awarded the 1992 FSU Alumni Achievement Award, noted Stover.

Michael S. Pula, computer teacher at Northern Middle School, functions as production editor for the journal, contributing his skills in desktop publishing to the process. Victoria Ross Everett, a junior majoring in sociology and English, and minoring in writing, is the Maryland English Journal editorial intern. Linda L. House, a junior in the Department of Educational Professions at the university and a Grantsville native, serves as editorial assistant.

Dr. Jack Shreve, professor of English at Allegany Community College, is an associate editor for the journal, one of seven throughout the state and the only one from Western Maryland.

Volume 28, Number 1 of the Maryland English Journal features four studies of workplace writing. Two of the writers conducted research at local magazine headquarters where they observed the goings on, interviewed staff, and examined artifacts--written elements in the paper trails required to produce Baltimore Magazine and Equus Magazine. The other two writers worked at sites and with individuals they do not specifically name in order to respect privacy; one explores what goes into a Federal review process, and the other studies a government research laboratory public affairs branch, reported Stover.

The journal also includes a "Maryland Showcase for Young Writers" section, for which teachers of grades one through eight may submit their students' writing. This section received especially favorable comments from a variety of readers, including Frostburg State's President Catherine Gira. At a recent meeting of the Alpha Alpha Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, a professional honorary organization for women educators, the members passed around Volume 28, Number 1 and later the presenter started her talk by reading the poem "Girls" to the all-female audience. A 12-year-old from Aberdeen, Michelle Adam, zeroed in on the same poem as her favorite, reciting, "Girls can be anything they choose!" from that work when asked if she had enjoyed reading the volume.

Copies of Volume 28, Number 1 of the Maryland English Journal are available for $5 apiece at each of the five branches of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, at K's Korner in Grantsville, and at the Frostburg State University Bookstore.

For more information about any aspect of the Maryland English Journal process, including how to make submissions, Stover suggests that interested individuals contact Dr. Pula, Department of English, Frostburg State University.

New Church To Be Built At Little Meadows

The Salisbury Baptist Mission broke ground recently for a new church building. The new church will be located off U.S. Route 40 on Chestnut Ridge Road near Little Meadows Lake. Church members are currently meeting in the Salisbury Municipal Building in Salisbury, Pa.

The land for the new church was donated by John Davies, founder and executive director of Little Meadows Lake, Campground, and Charitable Trust.

In attendance at the groundbreaking were the mission's twenty charter members, Rev. Charles Ringler, Director of Missions Oscar Ohler, Executive Secretary of Southern Baptist Missions for Maryland and Delaware Rev. Charles Barnes, and other friends of the church.

The mission will officially become Little Meadows Baptist Church in a ceremony to be held August 14 at Grace Baptist Church, Cumberland.

Until the new church is completed, services will continue at the municipal building. Interested persons may call Rev. Ringler at 722-1434.

IMPROVEMENTS AT DEEP CREEK WILL REQUIRE TEMPORARY LOWERING OF LAKE'S WATER LEVEL

Penelec, owner of Deep Creek Lake and the Deep Creek Hydroelectric Station, will begin making improvements this month at the lake and power station.

This work will require the lake to be drawn down to lower-than-normal levels in September and October.

Work to repair the lake's primary spillway, a structure that helps control the flow of excess water from the lake, began in mid-July and will continue through November.

In addition, Penelec plans to build two water-control structures, a flow bypass and a tailrace weir, near the station — measures designed to enhance the fishery in the Youghiogheny River. The flow bypass will help maintain water flow in the Youghiogheny during low-water times.

The tailrace weir will improve the oxygen content of water discharged from the plant by aerating the water as it splashes through the W-shaped concrete structure.

Work on the flow bypass and tailrace weir is set to begin in October and is expected to extend into November.

Work on all three projects will require the lake's water level to be lowered. The water level will be lowered by four feet, from an elevation of 2,458 feet on Labor Day to an elevation of 2,454 feet on Oct. 3. At or near the lower elevation, boaters may experience some inconveniences.

Boat owners are advised to take the necessary docking precautions before the water level is reduced. Unattended boats could become stranded. After Oct. 3, the lake's water level will be uncontrolled as a result of a temporary shut-down of the power plant. The water level could rise rapidly in the event of heavy rainfall.

The relatively rapid drawdown will provide frequent white-water boating conditions on the Youghiogheny River from Sept. 5 through Oct. 3 as water from the lake is released into the river. There will be no release of water to the river from Oct. 3 through November because the hydroelectric plant will be shut down.

(Questions regarding Penelec's projects at Deep Creek should be directed to David Clossin, (814) 533-8738.)

Keystone Reports Quarterly Results

Keystone Financial, Inc., the seventh largest bank holding company in Pennsylvania, has reported results for the second quarter and six months ended June 30, 1994.

Second quarter net income increased to $12,407,000, or 65 cents per share, compared to $11,495,000, or 60 cents per share for the same period in 1993. For the first half of the year net income reached $24,467,000, or $1.28 per share from $22,953,000, or $1.19 per share for the first six months of 1993, a gain in earnings per share of 8 percent. At mid-year, return on average assets was 1.33% and return on average equity was 14.04%.

Assets at mid-year were $3,717,118,000, versus $3,711,521,000 at June 30, 1993. Deposits were $3,025,382,000, compared to $3,035,558,000 at the end of the first six months in 1993, and loans increased to $2,576,627,000 from $2,476,629,000 during the same period.

"Economic conditions in our market are improving, resulting in asset growth, stable net interest margins, and stronger asset quality," Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer, said.

"We recognize that our continued progress will also depend on further improvements in the efficiency of our operations, including the effective integration of acquired banks. We believe that we have strategies and programs in place to achieve this objective," he added.

"During the quarter we also realized benefit from the previously announced sale of our corporate trust business, which dealt primarily with the management of municipal bond issues. This is evidence of our focus on the core elements of our trust business, including investment management," personal trust and employee benefit management, Campbell concluded.

Keystone Financial has six member banks, including American Trust Bank. Pending transactions with Frankford Corporation and American Savings Bank are expected to be consummated in the third quarter.

Friendsville Mayor Enters Guilty Plea In District Court

Friendsville Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle, 30, pleaded guilty to one count of indecent exposure in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week. Three additional counts of indecent exposure and one count of negligent driving were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Presiding Judge Timothy Finan, Allegany District Court, set sentencing for September.

According to court records, Schlosnagle was charged with the offense on two separate occasions on I-68. On Aug. 2, 1993, he exposed himself to another motorist as the two vehicles traveled along I-68 near the Amish Road, and on Nov. 11, 1993, he reportedly drove alongside a tractor-trailer and exposed himself to the operator as the vehicles ascended a hill on I-68 near Keysers Ridge.

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to one count of battery in last week's district court proceedings.

Joseph Alvarez, 46, was granted probation before judgment by sitting Judge Timothy Finan from Allegany County District Court, who fined him $300 and placed him on three years of unsupervised probation. Three additional counts of battery, one count of reckless endangerment and one count of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office, and one count of assault with intent to murder was not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence.

Those charges against Alvarez were brought by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on June 4 after they were called to the defendant's home in the Cedar Brook Development. According to court records, Alvarez was involved in an altercation earlier in the evening with four juveniles at Red Run Inn, where he reportedly grabbed one of the youth by the arm and twisted it.

As the teens arrived home, the defendant approached their vehicle and knocked on the window. As the driver got out of his car, Alvarez reportedly knocked him into the vehicle several times. He also repeatedly struck one of the other juveniles and ripped his shirt. The report further noted that Alvarez then went to his truck and retrieved a handgun. After he loaded the weapon, he approached two of the teens and threatened them with it.

Alvarez was arrested by the deputies as he attempted to leave the scene.

In other district court news, Carl E. Schmidt, 23, Friendsville, was granted probation before judgment on one count of possession of CDS (controlled dangerous substance) paraphernalia. Judge Finan fined him $100 and placed him one three years of unsupervised probation for the offense. An additional charge of CDS possession was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney.

Schmidt had been charged with the crime on May 6 by Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a tip from an anonymous caller indicated the defendant had marijuana plants growing in plain view in his house. According to court documents, the officers obtained permission to search the house where they also found an ashtray containing marijuana seeds and rolling papers. A pipe containing suspected marijuana residue was also found in a pickup truck on the property.

A felony theft charge against Gerald E. Friend Jr., 21, Oakland, was amended to a misdemeanor because he offered testimony against a co-conspirator in the case. In a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office, one count of conspiracy against Friend was not prosecuted.

Friend had been charged with those offenses by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after Cpl. Randy Sines and his K-9 unit Deek responded to a warehouse at the Mettiki Mine to investigate a report by an employee there who saw two male subjects at the rear of the building who escaped into the woods carrying a red object.

Court records indicate a car and truck were parked near the gate to the warehouse, neither of which were authorized to be in the area. Friend reportedly returned several hours later to the scene and told the officer the car belonged to one of his relatives and that he was in the area searching for a lost dog.

In the meantime, the dog picked up a scent at the warehouse that he followed all the way back to the car.

A Baltimore woman had a request for a general waiver and release of her sentence denied by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett. Leslie A. Robinson, 30, had petitioned the court for an expungement of her records stemming from her Aug. 30, 1993 arrest and subsequent conviction for CDS possession.

A motion for a sentence revision was granted to Scott Patton, 19, involving an earlier charge of battery. Judge Burnett granted a request for Patton to undergo a psychiatric evaluation at the Massie Unit and then attend treatment sessions. Patton had been sentenced to six months in jail for the offense in June court proceedings.

Kenneth G. Dawson Jr., 41, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to violation of a protection order. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence for the offense and fined $50. He was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation and was instructed to comply with the promises of the protective order. Dawson was convicted of the charge stemming from an incident at a tennis court in Mtn. Lake Park involving Carolyn R. Dawson.

Robert A. Boogher, 44, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on one count of battery because the complainant, Lora L. Riggleman, failed to appear. Riggleman had filed the charges against Boogher after an altercation at Shorty's Bar and Grill, Gortner, on Dec. 3, 1993.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases were heard in recent weeks' district court proceedings.

Havard McKinley Fazenbaker, 47, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI in Judge Finan's court. He was fined $400, handed a 90-day suspended sentence and placed on two years of supervised probation. He had been arrested for the offense on March 24 by Maryland State Police.

Tammy Lynn Fogel, 33, Md., was handed a 30-day suspended sentence for her DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol) charge. She was also fined $300, which was also suspended, and placed one 18 months of supervised probation by Judge Finan.

Judge Burnett fined Charles Lee Headley, 55, W.Va., $350 and handed him a six-month suspended sentence on his DWI conviction. He also placed Headley on 12 months of supervised probation. He had been arrested for the offense on Feb. 19 by MSP.

Mary Ellen Duckworth, 59, Md., was granted probation before judgment on a charge of DWI. In a sentence revision hearing, the judge terminated her probation. She had been arrested for DWI by state police on Feb. 11.

Grantsville Class Of 1944 Convenes

Grantsville High School class of 1944 observed its 50th anniversary at Holiday Inn July 2 with 28 classmembers and 28 guests attending.

A social hour was held prior to dinner. The dining room was decorated with class colors of red and white and touches of gold. An enlarged class picture was placed on an easel. Darrell Stahl provided music of the 1940s.

Toastmaster David Patton welcomed everyone and James Edwards gave the invocation, after which a sit-down dinner was served.

A memorial service was conducted by Hazel Klotz and Ruth Newman. A candle was lit, Mrs. Klotz gave a reading and as each name was called, Mrs. Newman sounded a bell. The following were demoralized: Principal Frank J. Getty; teachers Miss Emma Caulk; Mrs. Kathryn (Speicher) Smith; Classmates, Galen Beachy Jr.; Rae Houck; Robert Swauger; Wade Hetrick; Viola (Crowe) Davis; Willard (Buzz) Layman, and Donald Kamp.

A group picture was taken. Entertainment was provided by "The Never Too Late Girls," a dancing ensemble of professional entertainers from Lepley Dance Studio of Cumberland.

James Edwards introduced guests and remarks were made by teacher William Grimm. Individual introductions and a brief accounting of 50 years since graduation were given by classmembers. Thanks was also extended to the reunion committee.

David Patton read letters from members unable to attend: Margaret (Beachy) Peck, Virginia (Stark) Kamp, Maxine (Martin) Hart, Lillian (Minick) Konetzka, and Oliver Pope.

Fifty-cent pieces dated 1944 were given as a remembrance. Booklets were compiled of information, items of interest, synopsis of past reunions, a list of classmates and addresses, and a

The one-week program is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forestry Boards in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Public Lands and Forestry. The program is designed to give high school students, grades 9-12, some insights into the careers available, and the training needed to qualify for these careers. Two students from each county are selected by the local Forestry Board, based on their applications, to attend the F.C.N.R.W. Attendance at the F.C.N.R.W. costs the student nothing. The costs are covered by funds donated by local businesses and civic groups. Student Named To Who's Who Jackie DeWitt, a student at Northern High School, has been named to "Who's Who Among American High School Students" in recognition of her academic achievements.

Miss DeWitt received the United States Achievement Award for science, and has been the recipient of Student of the Month awards at Northern during her past two years there.

The student was nominated to be a national delegate representing Maryland at the National Youth Leaders' Conference in Washington, D.C. She has also served as the class treasurer for both the freshman and sophomore classes.

Miss DeWitt is currently employed by Schoolhouse Earth, and is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church. She is the daughter of Jack and Ellie DeWitt, McHenry.

Malloy Enters Senate Race

Edward A. "Ted" Malloy Jr. has announced his candidacy for John Hafer's seat on the Maryland State Senate.

Although Malloy missed the July 5 filing deadline, he will not have to run as a write-in candidate. According to state law, when an incumbent is unopposed at the filing deadline, the opposing party's central committee is permitted additional time to present a challenger. Malloy, a native a Allegany County, was nominated by the Democratic central committees of Allegany and Garrett counties to vie for state senator.

Malloy, born and raised in Allegany County, was a member of the first graduating class at Bishop Walsh High School. He received degrees from Frostburg State University and University of Baltimore School of Law, and recently returned to private legal practice after 11 years service as deputy state's attorney at the Allegany County State's Attorney's Office.

He teaches several courses at Allegany Community College and has taught at F.S.U. Malloy will also be teaching a course at Frostburg this fall. He is currently serving as president of the board of directors of Archway Station and is a former federal law enforcement officer in New York State.

"My main reason in running for this office," Malloy stated, "is that Western Maryland deserves to have an effective voice in the State Senate."

As a Democrat, Malloy contends, he will be better able to accomplish his objectives in the Democratically controlled Senate. Hafer is a Republican.

Malloy stated that because his campaign will address the needs of "the average voter," he will not accept contributions from special interest groups or political action committees, and will limit individual contributions to $100.

The son of Edward A. and Joy Malloy, the candidate lives on the west side of Cumberland with his wife, Patricia John Malloy, and stepson, Justin Nave, a student at Virginia Tech.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bureau Issues Final Report On 94 Legislature

There were many issues affecting agriculture this year in the Maryland legislature and Farm Bureau was quite busy working with legislators and state agencies discussing issues that could have created problems for the rural areas and agriculture. Listed here are some of the bills and resolutions that were introduced and what happened to them.

SJR 4/HJR 6--Federal Constitutional Amendment-Desecration of American Flag

These resolutions petition the Congress of the United States to propose a federal constitutional amendment which would authorize the Congress and the states to prohibit the physical desecration of the American flag. Maryland Farm Bureau supported. Resolutions passed both houses.

SB 35-Chesapeake Bay Critical Area Protection Program-Nontidal Tributary Planning Area

The purpose of this bill was to greatly expand the areas of land and water in the state to be included in the Chesapeake Bay Critical Area Protection Program, by adding all land and water areas within 1,000 feet beyond the landward boundaries of shorelines of nontidal flowing surface waters of the state draining into the Chesapeake Bay. The present Critical Area Program only pertains to tidal water, tidal wetlands, and the 1,000 feet surrounding them.

Maryland Farm Bureau opposed this bill as they did the original Critical Area Bill, due to the economic impact on the landowner. The bill passed the Senate, but failed in House committee.

SB 296-Public Education-Year Round School Operations

This bill authorizes the local boards of education in Allegany, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Howard, and Montgomery Counties and the Board of School Commissioners of Baltimore City to operate schools on a year-round basis, provided that the schools are operated under a year-round education incentive grant awarded by the Maryland State Department of Education and the 180 days and 1,080-hour requirements are met.

It also establishes certain reporting requirements for the local boards that implement year-round education. Maryland Farm Bureau opposes year-round and/or staggered school years. SB 296 passed both houses.

SB 414-Agriculture-Best Management Systems-Water Quality

This bill would have required farms to have in place and be implementing nutrient management plans by certain dates. It also stated that land that did not meet the nutrient management requirements could not qualify for farmland assessment. In addition, the bill required farms (after January 1, 1995) to have a "Best Management System" in place before the owner can receive cost share funds or sell an easement to the Ag Land Preservation Foundation.

"Best Management System" was defined as a combination of conservation practices or management measures that will achieve reduced transport of sediments, nutrients, and chemicals into surface water and groundwater. "Best Management System" included a nutrient management plan and a soil conservation and water quality plan.

Due to the fact that the current voluntary approach is working, Farm Bureau does not feel mandatory requirements are necessary and could do more harm than good. Maryland Farm Bureau Opposed. The bill passed the Senate, but failed in House committee.

HB 134-Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance-Classification of Rates-Geographic Terms

This bill would have prohibited any insurer who offers a private passenger motor vehicle liability insurance policy from expressing any underlying risk consideration in geographic terms, or from using any rating territory smaller than the entire state of Maryland when determining the classification of any rate.

Because the passage of this bill would increase insurance rates in the rural areas, Maryland Farm Bureau opposed. The bill failed in House committee.

HB 222-Department of Agriculture-Cost Sharing for Water Pollution Control

This bill repeals the prohibition of use of the state's general funds for the Department of Agriculture's cost sharing program for water pollution.

This legislation was introduced because of the concern of using bond money for short term projects, such as the cost share projects (i.e. cover crops). Maryland Farm Bureau supported, and the bill passed both houses.

HB 392-Noxious Weed-Kudzu Vine

This bill would have designated Kudzu vine as a noxious weed, thereby making it subject to control and eradication under the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Maryland Farm Bureau has concerns regarding expansion of the list of noxious weeds without proper evaluation. The bill was withdrawn.

HB 414-Non-Tidal Wetlands-State Assumption of the Federal Permit Program

This bill would have directed the Department of Natural Resources to pursue assumption of the Federal Nontidal Wetlands Permit Program under the Clean Water Act, Section 404. Should the state's nontidal wetland program be determined to be equivalent to the federal program by the U.S. EPA, the state would have been responsible for permitting and enforcement, and federal permits would no longer have been required.

Maryland Farm Bureau worked with the administration on this issue and supported the bill with amendments. House bill 414 passed the House, but failed in Senate Committee.

HB 466-Motor Carrier Tax-Rate Based on Type of Motor Fuel Used

This bill eliminates the diesel surcharge on gasoline or clean-burning fuel, by changing the rate on which the tax is based, to the rate for the type of motor fuel used by a motor carrier instead of the motor fuel tax rate for special fuel other than clean-burning fuel or turbine fuel.

In other words, gasoline powered trucks subject to the motor carrier tax will pay the gasoline fuel tax, while diesel powered trucks subject to the motor carrier tax will pay the diesel fuel tax. This should simplify the reporting requirements. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, and the bill passed both houses.

HB 699-Pesticides-Organochlorine and Organophosphates Prohibited

This bill would have prohibited the Secretary of Agriculture from registering pesticides containing organochlorine or organophosphate compounds after December 31, 1994, unless there were no commercially or known available alternatives to the pesticide, or the substitution of any other pesticide would have created a significant hardship for the user. The Department of Agriculture and Department of the Environment would have determined the alternatives and hardships following an annual joint investigation.

Maryland Farm Bureau opposed because this could limit the availability of some pesticides. The bill was withdrawn.

HB 700-Pesticide Incident Reporting System

This bill would have established a "Pesticide Incident Reporting System" in the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of compiling and maintaining a comprehensive data base of pesticide incidents that occur in the state, for facilitating appropriate responses to pesticide incidents, and for increasing the availability of information on types of pesticides incidents in order to improve the regulation of pesticide application.

The bill would have allowed a customer or any other person to report to the system an incident involving a potential threat to human, animal, or plant life or health resulting from a suspected misapplication of a pesticide or a suspected reaction to other than the result intended in the application of the pesticide, whether or not the pesticide was properly applied.

Maryland Farm Bureau felt this could have been an administrative nightmare and therefore opposed the bill. The bill was withdrawn.

HB 867-Vehicle Laws-All Terrain Vehicles

This bill would have required all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) to be registered with the Motor Vehicle Administration. All-terrain vehicles were defined as a self-propelled vehicle that was less than 50 inches wide, dry weight less than 600 lbs., and travels on at least three low pressure tires. Also, mini-bikes and off-road motorcycles would have been included. A registered decal would have been issued and required to be displayed. Operators would have been required to wear protective head gear and an eye protective device.

The registration fee for ATVs would have been determined by the Motor Vehicle Administration. It further stated that before operating an ATV on private property, the operator must obtain the written permission of the landowner. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, but the bill failed in committee.

HB 948-Uniform Regulation of Pesticides

This bill stated that the Department of Agriculture was vested with the general authority over the regulations of pesticides. However, with the approval of a review board, a local jurisdiction could have provided for regulations in a manner more stringent than the state regulations.

The review board would have been a five-member panel consisting of the Secretaries of Agriculture, the Environment, Economic and Employment Development, Health and Mental Hygiene, and Natural Resources. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, but the bill failed on House floor.

HB 951-Declaration of Rights-The Right to Keep and Bear Arms

This bill was one of a number of bills dealing with gun control. H.B. 951, if passed and approved by the voters of the state, would have established a constitutional guarantee that a citizen has the right to keep and bear arms for the defense of self, family, home and state, and for hunting and recreational use. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, but the bill failed in committee.

HB 1064-Forest Conservation-Exemption

This bill would have created an exemption to the Forest Conservation Program requirements, for a county that has and maintains 40% or more of its land area in forest cover, and 60% or more of its land area subject to land use and development restriction as: 1-forest cover, 2-nontidal or tidal wetlands, 3-area included in the Chesapeake Bay critical area, 4-certain other protected sensitive areas, and 5-acreage included in an agricultural land preservation district. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, but the bill failed in committee.

HB 1072-Vehicle Laws-Vehicle Inspections

Basically this bill would have required an owner of any vehicle registered or to be registered in the state, to submit the vehicle to an annual inspection of its equipment and mechanisms by a licensed inspection station. Farm Bureau opposes any legislation requiring an annual safety inspection of motor vehicles. The bill was withdrawn.

HB 1141-Forest Conservation-Mitigation Banking

This was one of two bills dealing with the establishment of forest mitigation banks. It would have required the Department of Natural Resources to develop and adopt standards and regulations on the establishment, maintenance, and use of forest mitigation banks. It also would have allowed the expenditure of funds for the establishment, maintenance, and purchase of credits in forest mitigation banks.

Passage of this bill would have provided more flexibility in the Forest Conservation law and allowed for the possible use of marginal land for development of mitigation banks. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, but both bills failed.

HB 1230-Program Open Space and Agricultural Land Preservation Easements-Local Bonds

This bill would have authorized local governing bodies to issue bonds to finance the purchase of Program Open Space acquisition projects and development rights on agricultural land.

Maryland Farm Bureau felt this might have been a way for counties to accelerate the purchase of development rights on agricultural land. The bill passed the House, but failed in the Senate.

HB 1411-Maryland Milk Commission

The purpose of this bill was to establish a Maryland Milk Commission. The Commission would have consisted of the following members appointed by the governor: 1-two milk producers; 2-one milk distributor who processes milk, and 3-three consumer members without any financial or business interest in the production or distribution of milk or milk products.

It also stated that after conducting a public informational hearing, the commission: 1-shall establish the minimum prices to be paid producers or associations of producers in the state; and 2-shall establish minimum wholesale prices to be charged for milk in the state.

Maryland Farm Bureau supported the milk producers in this effort. The bill was withdrawn, however, it will be studied and reviewed by the Environmental Matters Committee for possible introduction next year.

HB 1421-Forest Conservation and Management Program

This bill authorizes an owner of 50 or more contiguous acres of woodland subject to a forest conservation and management program agreement with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to transfer a building lot (up to one acre or the minimum lot size required by local law) to each of the owner's children. Transferred property must be used to construct a dwelling unit, and is exempt from liability for prior taxable years. Under current law, any transferred property is reassessed and the difference between the original assessment (under the agreement) holder at the applicable tax rate.

No more than one building lot for every 10 acres of woodland subject to the agreement may be transferred. The owner must request a modification of the agreement from DNR and must have any modification recorded with the county at the owner's expense. An approved modification is not subject to current law penalty provisions. The transferred property must be reassessed and established as a separate account in county assessment records. Maryland Farm Bureau supported, and the bill passed both houses.

Eglon Farm Service To Hold Annual Meeting

"Seventy-one years ago, farmers organized Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," says Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Cultivating Innovation," repeated as the theme of this year's local annual membership meetings, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improving farm inputs and services." adds Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Eglon Farm Service, Inc.

Board nominees are Terry Hauser, Robert Strawser and Bruce Teets.

The FHAC slate consists of Mrs. Grace Bachtel, Mrs. Dortha Forman, Mrs. Lois Strawser and Mrs. LaDeana Teets.

A taped report from Gene A. James, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, will discuss the co-op's supply and marketing operations for the last fiscal year.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed. Local FHAC and board members completing terms will be recognized.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, August 11, 1994, Farmers Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run, WV.

Southern States Cooperative, headquartered in Richmond, Va., operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in West Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The cooperative's membership totaled more than 200,000 and the annual volume reached about $933 million last year.

1994 Marks The 500 Year Anniversary Of Cattle In U.S.

The following are some interesting facts about the cattle industry:

* In 1494 Christopher Columbus brought the first cattle to America on his second voyage to the New World. Actually, Columbus probably had cattle with him on his first voyage in 1492, but they were meant as food for sailors, not provisions for colonists...so the 1494 animals were the "seed" that started the cattle industry in the U.S.

* Beginning in 1498, small cattle ranches, or royal villas, were established to increase the supply of breeding stock.

* In 1611 cows were imported to Jamestown, Va.

* In 1624, cows were brought to the Plymouth Colony.

* The cattle industry is an industry that today is still dominated by families and operates in all 50 states.

* The cattle industry has $40 billion in direct sales, generates about a quarter of a trillion dollars of U.S. business activity annually and employs more than two million people directly.

* In "American Cattle Trails, 1540-1900", Garnet and Herbert Brayer wrote: "Until the founding of America...there were few places in the world where the common folk could afford the luxury of a regular diet which included beef."

* A cow's normal temperature is 101.5 degrees Fahrenheit.

* In 1992 the U.S. produced 22% of the world's beef supply with just less than 10% of the world's cattle inventory.

* Cows are, by nature, social animals and are not fond of being alone. In fact, if there are no calves or cows nearby, cows will make friends with people, horses or dogs.

* Cattle supply more than meat. Hides are one of the most important by-products of the production of cattle. Wilson Sporting Goods Co. says that approximately 144 baseballs can be made from one cow. A hide will yield 20 footballs, 18 volleyballs, 18 soccer balls, 12 baseball gloves, or 12 basketballs.

Brassica Lab: Protection Against Cancer-Causing Chemicals

A new Brassica Chemo-production Laboratory has opened at The Johns Hopkins University, School of Medicine. This laboratory was conceived by Paul Talalay, M.D., a molecular pharmacologist whose group recently identified and isolated sulforaphane. Sulforaphane is a potent secondary product found in broccoli, that may protect human cells against a wide variety of cancer-causing chemicals. The mode of this protection appears to be by the induction of a class of enzymes that protect cells by detoxifying carcinogens and promoting their elimination from the body. The laboratory has enlisted the assistance of a number of organic growers in Maryland as well as in other states. Organic produce is required for these studies because pesticides interfere with the enzyme assays and thus must be avoided.

"Grill" The USDA Hotline Experts About Safe Summer Cooking

The lazy, hazy days between Memorial Day and Labor Day mark the time to break out the backyard barbecue grill.

This is also a good time to "grill" the specialists from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline about tips on cooking and handling foods safely to avoid food poisoning.

"Safe food handling is always important," said Susan Conley, director of the nationwide toll-free hotline, "but during the warm summer months, peak grilling season, there is an increased need for awareness of safe food handling practices."

Cases of food-borne illness do rise during the summer. The hotline offers advice to consumers with questions about safe handling and preparation of meat and poultry products.

Here are some of the most common topics when callers have "grilled" the hotline experts:

Marinating. The hotline advised to marinate raw meat, fish and poultry in a glass dish in the refrigerator, not on the counter. "If you plan to use some of the marinade as a dip or basting sauce later, set aside a portion before adding raw meat or poultry to it," said Marilyn Johnston, one of the specialists on the hotline. "Don't reuse the marinade from raw meat unless you boil it for several minutes to destroy any bacteria from the raw meat."

Pre-cooking. Many hotline callers asked about whether it's safe to save time on the grill by partially cooking meat or poultry ahead of time to finish up on the grill. "Yes, it is safe, but only if the food goes immediately from the microwave or range to the grill," said Bessie Berry, senior home economist on the hotline. "Think of it as all one cooking process, and cook the meat thoroughly all at once." Interrupted cooking is risky business. If you must cook ahead, cook the meat completely and then cool it fast for reheating on the grill later.

Cooking thoroughly. For safety and quality, the coals should be very hot before cooking food. It can take 30 minutes or longer before the coals are ready. They should show a light coating of ash for optimal heat.

"Meat and poultry should be thoroughly cooked," said Conley, "and it's best to use a meat thermometer to check for safety and doneness." Large cuts of beef like roasts may be cooked to an internal temperature of 145°F for medium rare and 160°F for medium. Whole poultry should reach 180°F.

"Don't eat raw or undercooked hamburgers made from meat or ground poultry since harmful bacteria could be present," she added. To be sure bacteria are destroyed, cook meat patties to 160°F; ground poultry to 165°F.

"It's always a good idea to take an 'exploratory' cut into any patties, poultry, meat or fish to check doneness," Conley said, "because on the grill, often the outside looks done, but the inside is not. Juices should be clear and meat should not be pink."

Grilling and Cancer Concerns. "Worries about overcooking or charring foods brought more concerned callers," said Diane Van, another hotline food safety specialist. "We got a lot of calls from people who are afraid to grill because they have heard consuming grilled foods could be linked to cancer. As long as you're not cooking every breakfast, lunch and dinner on the grill, there shouldn't be a problem. The answer: moderation."

The American Cancer Society suggests trimming visible fat that could make the fire flame up and char the food. Pre-cooking in the microwave and conventional oven also lessens grilling time and reduces risks. The Society also suggest raising the cooking level of the grill so food is farther from the heat, avoid eating charred or burned portions of food and clean the grill thoroughly after cooking.

Serving Grilled Food. Serve hot, grilled foods immediately. Put cooked foods on clean plates that weren't used to hold the raw meat or poultry. Perishable foods should be consumed within two hours, one hour if the outside temperature is above 90°F.

Cleaning Up. Clean the grill after each use. "Also, refrigerate any leftovers promptly," Conley advised. "Divide larger quantities into small, shallow containers."

Taking Leftovers Home. A number of hotline callers asked about the safety of taking home perishable foods from picnic. Barbara O'Brien, a registered dietitian on "the line" suggested, "If you are returning home from an outing within four to five hours, and your perishables were on ice except when cooked and served, you should be able to save the leftovers. Be sure the foods are refrigerator cold to the touch and ice or a cold source remains when you arrive home."

Cost-Share '94 Deadline Reminder Issued

Maryland Department of Agriculture Secretary Lewis R. Riley today issued a reminder to farmers that the deadline for filing for cost-share assistance for the planting of cover crops is August 5. Cover crops are an agricultural best management practice (bmp) used by farmers to tie-up residual nitrogen in the soil and to protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

"Cover crops are one of our important tools in our effort to reduce nitrogen in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. We urge farmers who will be harvesting their corn in September to get their applications in right away," said Secretary Riley.

Rye, rye/legume, barley and wheat planted during the fall of 1994 are eligible to receive costshare funding for $10.00 per acre, through the Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share Program (MACS). Assistance is limited to acres where corn or soybean is the immediate preceding crop.

The planting deadline for the 1994 growing season is October 1 or 15, depending on location. Grant payments will be awarded in the spring of 1995, after the cover crop has been destroyed. Cover crops being produced for commodity purposes are not eligible for funding.

Last year 450 farmers participated in the cover crop program. Anyone interested in applying for funding should submit a cost-share application to MDA through their local soil conservation district by the August 5 deadline. Both tenants and landowners may apply for assistance.

For more information on Maryland's Agricultural Cost-Share Program, farmers should contact their local soil conservation district or call MDA at (410) 841-5864.

Thoroughbred Coordinator Named By MDA

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has named Dr. Malcolm Commer, Jr., an agricultural economist at the University of Maryland, to be the coordinator for the global marketing of U.S. Thoroughbreds. Maryland, along with other southern states, is working to interest foreign buyers in its Thoroughbreds through a U.S. Department of Agriculture Market Promotion Program grant. The grant is administered through the Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA) which promotes agricultural products in 15 southern states, from Maryland to Texas and includes Puerto Rico, in the international marketplace.

"We are pleased to have someone with Dr. Commer's credentials to head the effort to increase the exports of U.S. Thoroughbreds. This project will benefit our state's well developed thoroughbred industry. I know Dr. Commer will do an outstanding job of targeting foreign markets," Riley said.

An expert in livestock marketing, Dr. Commer has his Ph.D. in agricultural economics from Mississippi State University. In addition, he and his wife have their own horse breeding operation based in Howard County, MD.

"I am gratified that the University of Maryland and the Maryland Department of Agriculture will be working on this project together. Our initial marketing effort will be directed toward Japan. As a matter of fact, we are planning a trade mission there in November. Beyond that we intend to target other countries in all parts of the world which have the highest potential for expanded U.S. exports of Thoroughbreds," said Dr. Commer.

"Our primary objective is to increase the value of U.S. Thoroughbreds in the world market. Our initial activities will focus on working with U.S. breeders to increase their understanding of international market factors and working with both domestic and foreign governments on free trade and balance of payments issues," Dr. Commer said.

The SUSTA region produces one third of all U.S. agricultural exports including three fourths of all poultry and livestock, and substantially more than 75 percent of Thoroughbreds.

Opportunities Exist In St. Lucia For Md. Poultry

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the small Caribbean island nation of St. Lucia is looking to develop its poultry industry and become less dependent on bananas.

"It is my understanding that the people in St. Lucia are looking for a buyer for a white meat surplus that they forecast will be about 4.4 million pounds per year. At the same time they want to purchase dark meat on a quid pro quo basis from the purchaser of their breast meat. The islanders prefer the darker poultry meat," Riley said.

"I think there is a strong potential here for a cooperative effort with a Maryland company that would generate an enormous amount of economic activity for Maryland's economy," said Riley.

St. Lucia is looking to sign a ten year contract for the dark meat - white meat exchange. In addition, St. Lucia will purchase hatching eggs, animal medicines, supplies, feed supplements, grains and equipment to get their poultry industry off the ground.

For more information on the St. Lucia poultry projects, those interested should contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, Telephone (410) 841-5770.

Rain Relieves Those Farms It Reaches

During the week ending July 24, many farms received much needed rain, as many areas had more than a half inch of rain and some considerably more. Many areas of the state received excellent rainfall last week. However conditions were still mostly dry in parts of the southern Eastern Shore as moisture levels were minimal. Maryland small grain farmers are nearly finished with their harvesting of small grain. Soybeans and tobacco were blooming. Sorghum heading was underway. Field corn silking was progressing. Green pea harvest was complete. This year potato harvest is several days ahead of last year. Cantaloupe, cucumber, sweet corn and snap bean harvest were well underway. Second cutting alfalfa was almost complete with some stands being cut the third time. Second cutting of other hay was 63 percent complete. Pasture feed provided good grazing conditions and hay was adequate in most areas. The peach harvest was still ahead of the same week a year earlier because of a very short crop this year. Leafhoppers, European corn borer and grasshoppers showed light to moderate activity on crops.

Topsoil moisture was short in 29 percent of Maryland and 66 percent of the topsoil had adequate moisture. Five percent was surplus. Subsoil moisture was short in 57 percent of the state and 43 percent had adequate supplies of moisture. Even with hot and wet days an average of 5.2 days were suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Maryland's progress for the week ending July 17 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Planting progress: Corn, silked, 63, 53, 54. Soybeans, planted, 99, 99, 97; blooming, 29, 18, 26. Small Grains: Wheat, harvested, 99, 100, 94; Barley, harvested, 100, 99, 99; Oats, harvested, 81, 92, 85. Sweet corn, harvested, 40, 28, 35. Alfalfa hay, 2nd cutting, 95, 93, 84. Other hay, 2nd cutting, 63, 66, 46. Peaches, harvested, 24, 14, 20.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending July 22, had normal temperatures and precipitation which ranged from light to moderate. Temperatures averaged 79.0 degrees for the July 15 through July 22 period. Minimum temperatures were as low as 57 degrees at Oakland, but generally in the 60's. Maximum temperature was 98 degrees in Hagerstown, and generally in the 90's for all stations. Precipitation averaged 01.15 inches, 0.27 inches below the normal of 0.88 inches. Precipitation ranged from 0.30 at Bel Air to 2.97 inches at Westminster. Regional rainfall averages were: Western, 1.27; North Central, 1.71; Southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.94 and Eastern Shore, 0.62 inches.

MDA Works To Increase Fresh Cut Flowers

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced an initiative to increase the amount of fresh cut flowers grown in the state.

"We intend to work with producers and wholesalers in the Baltimore-Washington metropolitan area to increase the availability of top quality cut flowers to consumers," Riley said.

During the initial phase of the project, cut flower producers and wholesalers will be contacted to determine exactly what is available and what is needed within the industry to reduce the number of flowers that have to be imported from other states. For some varieties such as snapdragons, lilies, larkspur and delphinium, long distance shipping is expensive and detrimental to the quality of the product.

"Our goal is that through increased local production, wholesalers will be able to provide their customers with improved flowers and better profitability. This is a win-win opportunity for all concerned. Particularly in Southern Maryland, where we are working with the agricultural community to expand non-tobacco production, cut flowers are an important and potentially very profitable alternative crop," said Riley.

The initiative to increase the volume of cut flower production in Maryland is a collaborative effort of local, state and federal agencies combined with private sector leaders in the horticulture industry. Developed under the Federal-State Marketing Improvement Program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the project includes support from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, the Tri-County Council of Southern Maryland, the Southern Maryland Regional Farmers' Market and the Charles and St. Mary's County governments.

For more information on the project to increase cut flower production in Maryland, interested persons should contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Md. 21401, Telephone (410) 841-5770.

Senate Ethanol Program May Be In Jeopardy

Implementation of the Environmental Protection Agency's reformulated gasoline program will be in jeopardy if an amendment--similar to one offered earlier in a Senate committee--is approved on the Senate floor.

An anti-ethanol amendment offered by Sen. J. Bennett Johnston (D-La.) and backed by the petroleum industry was offered to the Senate appropriations bill for EPA. Johnston's amendment called for a severing of EPA funding for the RFG, but was removed before the committee reported the bill to the full Senate.

A similar amendment, or a series of anti-ethanol amendments, is expected to be offered when the funding package is considered by the full body. The appropriations bill is expected to see Senate floor action sometime this week.

Johnston was one of 48 senators who, prior to EPA's decision on the RFG program, wrote EPA Administrator Carol Browner urging her not to give ethanol strong billing in the RFG rules.

Ethanol's role in the RFG is currently under a two-front attack. Combined with a recent lawsuit filed against the EPA and the RFG proposal by the American Petroleum Industry and the probable Senate assault, ethanol supporters and American corn producers could be in for a bumpy ride on a washboard road in the months leading up to the Jan. 1, 1995, RFG implementation date.

"Defeating anti-ethanol amendments to the EPA appropriations bill is extremely critical to the future of ethanol in the reformulated fuels program," said John Keeling, a director of governmental relations for the American Farm Bureau Federation. "I cannot stress how real a threat is posed to the RFG. The loss of ethanol's prominent role in the RFG would be a setback to American agriculture and to the nation's energy security as a whole."

Agriculture interest including Farm Bureau fought a tough battle to ensure ethanol's prominent role in the RFG program and the organization's representatives will continue to fight on behalf of American farmers and ethanol.

"We fully expect anti-ethanol amendments to be introduced with the backing of the petroleum industry, which is unable to accept the use of renewable products such as ethanol to replace oil-based additives," said Richard Newpher, executive director of AFBF's Washington, office. "The rule adopted by EPA is good for both farmers and the environment. Expanded ethanol production and usage means more jobs and greater energy security and our country."

Dabney Files To Become County State's Attorney

Thomas B. Dabney Jr. has announced his candidacy for the office of Garrett County state's attorney. A Democrat, he is unopposed in the primary.

Dabney has been engaged in the general practice of law since he moved to Garrett County in 1972. He is admitted to practice before the Maryland Court of Appeals and is a member of the American Bar Association, Maryland State Bar Association, the Maryland Trial Lawyers' Association and the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. He is a current member of the Garrett County Bar association and a past president.

Dabney has been a member and president of the Oakland Rotary Club, a member of the Deep Creek Lions Club, the Knights of Columbus, the Democratic State Central Committee, and the first Garrett County Salary Review Commission. He has also been a member and president of the Dennett Road School PTA, a member of the St. Peter's Catholic Church Parish Council, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center. In addition, he teaches Sunday School at St Peter's Catholic Church.

Dabney says he is running for state's attorney on a "three-point program." He said he will address the issues of child abuse, violence to women, and the drug problem in Garrett County. He says these areas have not been "adequately dealt with" by the State's Attorney office. He added that he has had first-hand experience dealing with the first two issues during the past six years as attorney for the Department of Social Services prosecuting Children in Need of Assistance cases and in his domestic law practice.

He said he would implement a program similar to the County Combined Crime Investigation Unit successfully used in Allegany County for the past several years. This program would provide a means of bringing together the many police agencies in Garrett County, enabling them to share information and provide a unified investigative effort to combat crime in the county; no similar program is currently in use at this time. He said he would use the grand jury system more effectively in the fight against crime, noting that it has not been used adequately in the past several years.

Dabney is married to Dayle A. Dabney, who operates the Early Learning Center in Oakland. They are the parents of three daughters: Erin, 20, a junior at Dickinson College; Shannon, 18, a freshman at Savannah College of Art and Design; and Meghan, 15, a sophomore at Southern High School. They reside in Mountain Lake Park.

Paugh Awarded B&L Scholarship

April Paugh is this year's recipient of Bausch & Lomb's Pat Fischetti Scholarship.

April is a 1994 graduate of Southern High School, and plans to attend Garrett Community College and pursue a degree in secondary education.

While in school, she received the National Science Merit Award, Presidential Academic Fitness Award, United States Navy Honors Program Certificate of Achievement, Distinguished Honor Roll and Honor Roll Student, Certificate of Merit, Senatorial Scholarship, and Who's Who award.

April is the daughter of Roger and Wanda Paugh, Oakland.

First United Second Quarter Earnings Strong

First United Corporation has posted another strong quarter of earnings, according to Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and chief executive officer for First United Corporation, regarding second quarter performance.

Stanton said that the corporation earned $1.56 million or $.25 per share. This compares to $1.39 million or $.23 per share for the same quarter of 1993. Year-to-date earnings were $3.16 million, or $.51 per share which represents an increase of 7.55 percent over the same period in 1993. The return on average assets (ROAA) was 1.47 percent. The return on average equity (ROAE) was 12.79 percent for the year. In comparison, the ROAA and ROAE for the year 1993 was 1.42 percent and 12.86 percent, respectively.

Stanton attributed part of the increase in earnings to the corporation maintaining a strong net interest margin. Net interest income was $10.79 million for the first six months of 1994, representing a 4.44 percent increase over the first six months of 1993.

"Loan growth and effective asset/liability management made this growth possible," Stanton said. "Loans were the main source of interest income accounting for 87 percent of the total interest income. Other time deposits were the main source of interest expense, totalling $3.05 million of the $5.14 million in interest expense."

He said that the company enjoyed strong sales in the Trust Department and steadily growing commissions earned through PRIMEVEST Financial Services and Oakfirst Life Insurance Corporation. This contributed to other operating income increasing to $1.88 million, a $.29 million increase or 18.03 percent over the same period a year ago.

The provision for possible credit losses was $.16 million for the first half of 1994 versus $.33 million for the first half of 1993. Net charge-offs were $.13 million, year-to-date, versus $.37 million for the same period in 1993. Stanton explained that it is First United Corporation's philosophy to maintain stringent underwriting standards, in addition to demonstrating a strong commitment to the loan review process.

Non-interest expense increased from $7.18 million for the first six months of 1993 to $7.82 million for the same period in 1994, representing a 9.01 percent increase. Stanton attributed salaries and employee benefits as the main reason for this increase. He also reiterated the company's "solid teamwork strategy" for increasing efficiency.

Growth performance for the corporation remains steady. Total deposits were $382.70 million, representing a 3.84 percent increase over year end 1993. Net loans increased $.55 million to $315.03 million. And, shareholders' equity increased to $50.38 million, for a 4.15 percent increase over year end. At the same time, the corporation posted a risk-based capital ratio of 18.97 percent.

First United Corporation paid a cash dividend on May 1, of $.10 per share. That dividend closely equals the $.16 per share dividend paid for the same period of 1993, which, when adjusted for the 3- for-2 stock split, is the equivalent of $.1067 per share. In addition, a cash dividend of $.12 per share was declared on July 6, to be paid on August 1.

Stanton outlined some expansion plans by announcing the scheduled opening of the First United National Bank & Trust's new White Oaks Office in Cumberland. The facility will offer an automated teller machine (ATM) and additional office space.

Myersville Bank, First United's newest subsidiary, continues construction on its Riverside Center Community Office, to be located in North Frederick. It is anticipated that this office will open at the end of the third quarter. It will offer a complete product line, plus house offices for a trust officer and a PRIMEVEST investment executive.

First United Corporation (NASDAQ: FUNC) is a multi-bank holding company having the following banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust, Myersville Bank, and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. As of June 30, 1994, the corporation posted assets of $438.42 million. As of the same date, the corporation had 6,192,000 shares outstanding.

New Program Available For Frail Elderly

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) announced this week that a new program to serve the frail elderly will be made available October 4. The program, known as Senior Center Plus, provides an important service for senior citizens who do not require medical day care, but need more personal assistance than is available in a senior center, according to an AAA spokesman.

The Senior Center Plus program is designed to address the functional limitations and nutritional needs of the frail elderly and to promote socialization, the spokesman said. Eligible clients are persons 60 years of age or older who are frail, require assistance to perform at least two activities of daily living (ADL ie. bathing, dressing, preparing meals, etc.) and may be at risk of institutionalization.

The Senior Center Plus program will operate two days per week (Tuesday and Thursdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland. Clients will receive breakfast, lunch, and snack and will be able to participate in various activities during the day. Assistance with toileting and the administration of medications will be available for clients requiring these services. The program will be managed by an LPN with assistance from a certified geriatric aide.

Prior to participating in the program, each client will be assessed for functional status, mental/cognitive status and nutrition status. A plan of care will be developed for each client based on individual needs limitations, etc.

Daily rates, determined by an income-based sliding fee scale, will range from no cost up to $36.50.

"We see this program as a new and innovative way to provide care and socialization for frail elderly in a pleasant atmosphere which is noninstitutional. Additionally, the program can offer respite for caregivers. The Senior Center Plus program can accommodate only 15 elderly per day the first year. However, we foresee expansion by October 1995," the spokesman said.

The agency is now accepting applications for enrollment in the program. Applications are available at the AAA office, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland. Persons with questions may call 334-9431, ext. 137 or 138.

Cost is $4 per person. Pictured below, members of the Mountain Top Promenaders' Square Dance Club displayed their talent on a platform provided by the park council. Shooting Range Grants Available

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that the DNR Wildlife Division is offering grants to Maryland shooting range operators for the advancement of public shooting activities.

"In addition to affording increased recreational shooting opportunities to the general public, this program will facilitate the safe handling of firearms among our citizens," Dr. Brown said.

"The three ranges DNR currently operates, coupled with privately owned ranges which already allow public access, are still unable to meet public demand," added Robert A. Beyer, Shooting Range Committee Chairman.

The program will distribute grants up to an individual maximum amount of $3,000 annually. Grants are available on a competitive basis for purchases or improvements directly relating to shooting activities. DNR also encourages groups and organizations to donate funds to the program or provide challenge grants.

This year's application deadline is August 31, 1994. Applications will be accepted from any not-for-profit club or organization willing to offer public access to their range facilities and be listed in DNR's shooting range brochures. Funding requests will be reviewed and grants will be awarded by DNR's Shooting Range Committee. To receive a program fact sheet and application, persons may contact the Wildlife Division at (410) 974-3195.

Jessica Teets Is Honored By Commissioners

Jessica Teets, who recently returned from a five week 4-H ambassadorship to the United Kingdom, was honored last week in a certificate of recognition issued by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners.

The award commended Teets for representing Garrett County, Maryland, and the United States during her travels in the British Isles. The certificate also praised Teets for her "efforts to increase the mutual appreciation between the citizens of Maryland and her host families" in the U.K.

A member of Garrett County's Monte Vista 4-H Club, Teets was one of four Maryland International 4-H Youth Exchange ambassadors to the U.K. for 1994. She spent a total of five weeks abroad, each in a different section of the U.K. The youth exchange program is intended to promote international understanding and friendship.

Teets, a 10-year member of 4-H, has served as president, vice president, and reporter for her chapter. She carried projects in leadership, public speaking, child care, and community service. She was also active at the Garrett County Fair with projects and radio spots.

Since graduating from Southern High School in 1993 in the top 5% of her class, Teets has gone on to attend the University of Maryland at College Park. She is majoring in international relations with a pre-law emphasis.

Teets, who returned from Europe early last week, will be available to share her experiences with any community group until the end of August or during Christmas break.

Teets has stated that she would appreciate monetary contributions to offset her share of the expenses for the trip. Donations will be accepted at the Garrett County Extension Office, Oakland.

Forestry Board Chairmen Meet In Hagerstown

The Forest Conservancy District Board Chairmen from Garrett, Allegeny, Washington, and Frederick counties met Tuesday, July 12, at the Holiday Inn in Hagerstown. Karin Miller, Grantsville, represented the Garrett County Forestry Board at the meeting.

Jim Klunk, DNR Forest Service, and executive director for the MD Association of Forestry Boards, chaired the meeting.

Ms. Miller reported on the Natural Resources Conservation Education Program which has been prepared by DNR. This is not a new program, but a program designed to look at what is already being done and to try to improve on these efforts, she said. The new plan establishes goals and objectives for the program, and establishes a network of Natural Resource professionals available to assist teachers with conservation oriented programs.

Phil Pannill, watershed specialist for the Western Region, gave the Board members an update on the DNR-Forest Service prioritization of watersheds.

This prioritization of watersheds will be used to re-direct the Forest Service programs, to off set a loss of 31 positions in the Western Region, and approximately 44 percent of funding over the last few years.

John Chapman, DNR-Forest Service, Western Region Forest Conservation Act (F.C.A.) coordinator, gave the members an update on the draft F.C.A. technical manual which has been sent out to all interested parties. Ric Lillard, DNR-Forest Service, Western Region fire supervisor, gave the members information on the "dry hydrant" project which is being funded through a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Resource conservation and Development (R.C. & D.) program. The Maryland Forest Service has received a grant for $10,000 to establish one dry hydrant in each county in Maryland. The Garrett County Commissioners have agreed to purchase the materials for another dry hydrant also.

Eric Schwaab, director, DNR Maryland Forest Service, updated the board members on the Department's efforts to deal with limited manpower resources and decreasing budgets. Many of the services now being provided by the Forest Service will be discontinued, while other services will now have fees attached, he said.

In addition, the services provided by the Forest Service will be re-directed to reflect the goals set for the Department of Natural Resources.

HAVING A BALL and learning a lot of soccer this week are over 100 Garrett County youth of all ages who are participating in a North American Soccer Camp, inc., day-camp at Southern High School. The camp, sponsored by the Mountaintop Soccer Association, is being instructed by eight coaches from Great Britain, who will conclude the "soccer week" by playing in an "international" game Saturday evening on the Southern High athletic field against all-stars from area colleges and universities. New Garrett Landfill To Open Aug. 15

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced this week that the new Garrett County solid waste facility will open for business on August 15. Operating hours for acceptance of waste at the new facility will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday. The new solid waste facility is located off the Oakland Sang-Run Road approximately three and one half miles north of Oakland.

The commissioners noted that the new solid waste facility was constructed as a result of federal law which required the closure of the old Round Glade landfill. The decision to build and operate the now facility for use by Garrett County residents, property owners, and businesses was made to allow the type and quantity of refuse disposed there, to be controlled and to save money over the long term.

By limiting the amount of out-of-county refuse entering this facility, integrating state of the art disposal methods in its operation, and implementing a strong local recycling program, it is believed that the new facility will be able to handle refuse generated in the county well beyond its 20 year projected life expectancy. By not importing garbage from urban areas to help finance the new landfill, as some local governments have been forced to do, the commissioners noted that a prime objective was met in preserving the recreation potential of the county.

According to Rodney Glotfelty, director of Garrett County's Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, all waste that was previously being hauled to the old Round Glades landfill will be diverted to the new solid

Oakland Man Is Accused Of Two Sexual Offenses

An Oakland man was arrested this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office which charged him with two sexual offenses as well as battery. Other arrests noted by the sheriff's office this week include two persons charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), one charged with theft, and one accused of marijuana possession.

Junior R. Lewis, 21, is accused of sexually molesting a 13-year-old girl on July 23. He has been charged with third degree sexual offense, which is a sex offense allegedly committed against a victim under the age of 14, and fourth degree sexual offense, which is forcing sexual contact without the consent of the victim. He has also been charged with battery.

Lewis is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond, according to an office spokesperson.

A 28-year-old Oakland man was charged with DWI on July 30. Michael A. Harsh was stopped on Rt. 39 near Crellin when the arresting officer apparently observed his vehicle cross the center line. The arrest was effected at 1:45 a.m.

Katherine L. Burns, 24, Oakland, was arrested for DWI on July 31. She was stopped on Rt. 50 at approximately 1:40 a.m., according to the police report.

Derek R. Bittinger, 22, Friendsville, was arrested on the strength of a warrant issued by Garrett County District Court. He has been charged with theft.

Bittinger is accused of stealing model train sets, tools, and a personal check, all worth a total of $2,500, according to the report. The victim in the case is Edward Bittinger, McHenry.

A Mountain Lake Park teenager was charged this week with possession of marijuana. Bruce A. Liller, 19, was arrested for the violation following a routine traffic stop on Lewis B. Naylor Drive, according to the report.

Heidi Hauser Of Oakland Is Crowned State Dairy Princess

Heidi Hauser of Oakland was crowned the 33rd Maryland Dairy Princess at ceremonies Tuesday, July 26, at the Francis Scott Key Holiday Inn in Frederick. The 16-year-old daughter of Tom and Alice Hauser was selected the Allegany/Garrett Dairy Princess in May, and went on to compete for the state title at the Frederick event attended by nearly 200 dairy industry supporters.

"As you can see I'm very happy," the newly crowned dairy princess said with tears in her eyes to reporter Rebecca Long of the Frederick News-Post immediately after the contest. "I am very, very excited and can't wait to start promoting this wonderful industry.

"I want to teach people to realize how important milk is to America," Miss Hauser told the reporter. "I hope to help kids understand where milk comes from and how they can lead a healthier life if they use dairy products in their diets."

Nancy Savage, Allegany/-Garrett Dairy Princess Committee chairperson, said that she was "just tickled to death with Heidi's speaking ability. She did a super job, and I'm so proud of her."

As part of the contest, each contestant had to answer a spontaneous "fish bowl" question. Heidi's question was: In speaking to a group of non-farm senior citizens, how would you promote the dairy industry?

She answered by saying, "I would speak to the female portion first, and stress the importance of calcium in their diet to prevent osteoporosis. Then to the whole group, I would make sure they knew how important that little bit of cheese they eat here, and the ice cream they eat there, is to them. This is what counts. I would also make sure that they knew where their dairy products came from."

Miss Hauser was also selected Miss Congeniality at the pageant. Although she says she was overwhelmed by winning, she said the contest was exciting, something different. "It's not every day that I

Bausch & Lomb Reduces Work Force By 10%

Management for the Bausch & Lomb manufacturing plan in Oakland annnounced employee layoffs early this week that will reduce that facility's work force by 10%. According to a company news release, this was the local plant's response to a reduction in demand caused by excess inventory worldwide. Similar actions occurred at two other U.S. facilities.

According to Dave Spirk, human resources manager for the Oakland plant, the labor reduction will involve "more than 50" voluntary layoffs and "fewer than 85" involuntary layoffs. Those affected were granted severance based on length of service and a benefits extension.

Former employees also qualify for Trade Readjustment Act assistance as jobs having been impacted by foreign competition. As such, these individuals qualify for extensions in federal unemployment compensation, educational benefits, and relocation assistance if required to gain employment.

Tuesday morning, B&L Division Vice President of Manufacturing Butch Sumpter, Acting Oakland Plant Manager Alan Barr, and Spirk met with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, County Administrator Bob Fusek, and County Economic Development Director Tom Jones to discuss the layoffs and their impact on the company and community.

After the meeting, Commissioner Elwood Groves stated, "They [the managers] are indicating to us that under the new arrangement they foresee a very stable situation for the Oakland plant over the next 18 months."

Commissioner John Braskey stated, "We have gotten assurance that this is the final and complete action at Bausch & Lomb." He also remarked that the B&L management is working with the state Department of Employment and Economic Development and the Western Maryland Consortium to help those released get involved in retraining programs.

Groves went on to commend the B&L management for seeking voluntary layoffs and putting together a transitional program to

Southern High School Targeted To Receive Distance Learning Classroom

Southern High School is one of three western Maryland schools targeted to receive the first distance learning classrooms designed to serve high school students. Mount Savage High School and the Career Center, Washington County, will also be set up with the fiber optic network, which utilizes a two-way interactive video. A distance learning center is already in operation at Garrett Community College.

"We've been waiting about a year for this news," said Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent of Garrett County Schools. "The potential of the distance learning capability is tremendous and very exciting."

Coviello said the arrangement will eventually provide advanced placement courses for students, workshops and seminars, and other opportunities. He noted that the education board hopes to arrange a similar classroom at Northern High School in the near future.

"Right now, we're working on the new classrooms and computer center at Northern. But eventually we want to add the distance learning there, too. This will be helpful in providing joint classes, such as calculus taught to both schools by one teacher," he said. He added that Southern High School had adequate space

Kitzmiller Area Residents Told To Boil Water

A boil-water notice has been issued by the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., and the Maryland Department of the Environment to the residents of the towns of Kitzmiller and Shallmar.

According to a spokesman for the Sanitary District, unfiltered water has passed into the Kitzmiller-Shallmar water system because of a malfunctioning filter. All water that is used for drinking and cooking purposes should be brought to a rolling boil for one minute before such use.

New parts for the filter have been ordered from California and repair is expected to take about one week. The spokesman said the Sanitary District regrets the inconvenience caused for these residents and invites them to telephone 387-6115 and leave a message to receive more information.

Road Naming Hearing Set

Jim Tourington, permits and inspections coordinator for the Garrett County Planning Office, notified the county Board of Commissioners Tuesday that the first hearing on the naming of unnamed, private roads in the county will be held August 10 at 7 p.m. at the Finzel Fire Hall.

This hearing will cover the Grantsville, Finzel, Avilton, and Elbow voting precincts. Later hearings will be held to discuss roads in other areas of the county.

In accordance with the new road naming policy adopted by the commissioners last month, each resident who uses a private road has been asked to suggest a name for the road. The name favored by the most respondents will be accepted by the county.

However, the county must hold a public hearing before any road names are made official. The planning office has undertaken to name all private county roads to enable emergency service personnel to respond to 911 calls more efficiently.

Tourington commented to the commissioners that some members of the Finzel Fire Department expressed concerns about the

Dear Friends To Present Concert On GLAF Stage

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will bring Dear Friends back to the Garrett Community College stage this season, with a concert set for Saturday, August 13, beginning at 8 p.m. The group will perform "Come to the Fair," a concert commemorating some of American's most famous fairs, including the 1892 Columbian Exposition, better known as the Chicago World Fair. The event will also precede the August 14 opening of the annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair.

In keeping with the musical sounds that filled the midway, concert halls, resorts, and saloons of turn-of-the-century expositions and fairs, Dear Friends will recreate the festive atmosphere with piano rags by Scott Joplin, rousing Sousa marches, and popular songs of the day, such as Meet Me In St. Louis and Victor Herbert pieces, including I'm Falling In Love with Someone.

According to Glenn Garlick, quartet member, the students, mostly high school and college students, will play a mix of pieces from the classical period, including selections by Dvorak, Haydn, Boccherini, and Ravel.

Every Saturday evening throughout the summer, Music at Penn Alps brings a variety of music to the area. The 5-For-Kids Project is co-sponsored this year by The Maryland Salem Children's Trust and The Maryland Association of Resources for Families and Youth (MARFY), a state association of individual advocates and private provider agencies which include residential treatment centers, group homes, shelter programs, day treatment programs, treatment foster homes and family counseling services. Approximately 70 organizations are represented in MARFY and together these programs provide help and assistance

APARTMENT COMMUNITY NEARS COMPLETION -- Friendsville Associates Limited Partnership has announced its 24-unit apartment building at the corner of Morris and Chestnut streets, Friendsville, will open for occupancy shortly after the Labor Day weekend. The new community has sparked the interest of many in the area as it progressed through initial groundbreaking last fall. The building will offer modern one-bedroom apartments at rental rates that are approximately 30-percent of the income of those who qualify as elderly, handicapped, or disabled. Complete with a social room on the ground level, and specially designed barrier-free apartments for the physically challenged, the facility was built with financing through the Farmers Home Administration. Edwards Files For Re-Election To MD House of Delegates

Delegate George C. Edwards has filed for re-election to the Maryland House of Delegate from District 1-A, Garrett County, and the Shaft, Midland, Lonaconing, and Barton election district in Allegany County.

Edwards is the ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, and would maintain that position upon re-election. Edwards also is chairman of the Oversight committee on Program Open Space and Agriculture Land Preservation, the only Republican in the House to chair a sub or oversight committee.

Edwards said he has enjoyed working with and for the people of Garrett and Allegany counties and feels much has been accomplished over the past several years. He stated there are some exciting things taking place in both counties and the work needs to continue.

According to Edwards, two of the major issues to be addressed this term are the structural budget deficit and welfare reform.

"The state will experience a one billion dollar structural budget deficit over the next several years," he said. "This problem needs to be addressed by a cooperative effort between the governor and the legislature. We need to prioritize funding. First, adequately fund programs that are working and do away with the ones that aren't effective. Second, make good programs state wide, or if not good enough to make state wide, drop them. The last thing we should do is start new programs. Also, a two year budget cycle should be thoroughly evaluated."

He also cited the need to continue working on welfare reform, noting that the bill that passed last session but was vetoed by the governor should be passed again and put into law and made statewide as quickly as possible.

Edwards is a member and lay leader at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, served six years in the Army National Guard Company C 121 Engineers Oakland, is a member of American Legion Post 214, the Lions Club, Lonaconing, Republican Club, Development Corporation, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival board of directors, the NRA, an associate member FOP Lodge 40, and a member of the Citizen Advisory Board of the Joseph B. Brandenburg Center, Cumberland and the Rocky Gap Foundation, Inc.

Edwards is married to Linda Fisher of Friendsville, and they reside in Grantsville with their daughter Kristin and son Paul.

The Friends For George C. Edwards Committee is chaired by JoAnn Robinson and the treasurer is Robert G. Stuck.

Education Board To Meet Tuesday

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet Tuesday, Aug. 9, for its regular monthly session. Public session will begin at approximately 4:30 p.m. in the board room of the main office.

Personnel matters are to be discussed at 4:40 p.m. (all times are approximate), including revisions to several board policies. At 5:30 p.m., maintenance and operations bid awards will be acted on, followed by a travel request, revisions to the Comprehensive Maintenance Plan, and revisions to administration procedure concerning the authorization and approval of board of education expenditure of funds.

The fiscal year 1995 budget will be discussed and acted upon at about 6:30 p.m., followed by information on the fiscal year 1996 capital improvement program requests. A request from the Mountaintop Soccer League will be heard at 6:45 p.m., and recognition of the Red House breakfast program will follow at about 6:50.

Public comment is scheduled at 7 p.m.

Instructional concerns, beginning after public comment, will include the art program of studies for students in kindergarten through fifth grade, the health advisory committee report, the Hickory Environmental Education Center committee report, and information and action concerning the building trades house sale.

Board concerns are to be discussed at 8 p.m., including the goals of the local board, Legal Services Agency seminars, a possible special meeting with Garrett County Commissioner candidates, school visitations for the school year 1994-95, and a discussion of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education Conference.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the open portion of the meeting.

Commissioners Attend MACO Conference

Members of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners traveled to Ocean City recently to take part in the summer conference of the Maryland Association of Counties. The theme for the biannual meeting was technology in government.

Commissioner John Braskey stated that one of the more informative seminars held during the conference was a discussion with Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College, in which Herman outlined his concept of "Garrett Communiversity."

According to Herman's plan, G.C.C. will use computers "to become an information and telecommunications hub for community access to electronic information services and distance education." Herman explained that the computer system will serve as a communications link between the college, public libraries and schools, government agencies, members of the business community, and private citizens.

The system will allow intercommunication between these entities and will also enable users to access other information services.

Local Woman Is Found Guilty Of Drug Violations

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer in a case against Kathy Jo Harding, 19, Friendsville, who was found guilty by a jury of two drug violations. While the defendant made motions for acquittal, a jury found her to be guilty of possession of marijuana and conspiracy, according to the court report. The jury found Harding not guilty of possession with intent to distribute.

Last week's trial was the third for Harding, as the first two - in April and July - ended in mistrials. The defendant had made motions for acquittal throughout all proceedings, according to the court report.

After the verdict, Harding was released on $1,000 bail. A sentencing date was not indicated on the court report.

The defendant was arrested following a November 1993 Maryland State Police search and seizure of two Friendsville residences where Harding apparently co-resided. In one home officers reportedly found 27 marijuana stalks, and at the other they discovered three gram scales and approximately 100 grams of marijuana packed in baggies.

Orientation For New GCC Students Slated

An orientation for all new students entering Garrett Community College this fall will be held Tuesday, September 6, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., according to Cliff Everett, activities coordinator.

Everett said students will meet in the auditorium where president Dr. Steve Herman and Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell will welcome them. They will then break into groups and go with their group to five different 30-minute sessions. These will include sessions on student activities by Everett and Lora Evans, SGA president; introduction to the library by director Dana Shimrock; financial aid information by coordinator Crystal Filer-Ogden; tour of the college by Manning Smith, associate dean of student services; and question and answer session led by Joan B. Crawford.

A picnic cookout has been scheduled at 12:30 p.m. and the afternoon activities will include volleyball, badminton, frisbee throwing and musical entertainment.

All new students are "strongly urged" by Everett to attend the orientation.

District Court Case Placed On Stet Docket

Among the numerous cases heard last week in Garrett County District Court included one involving a Mountain Lake Park man who had numerous charges against him placed on the stet docket.

Carl H. Friend, 19, had been charged with three counts of reckless endangerment, one count of battery, two counts of assault, and two counts of malicious destruction of property. Judge Ralph M. Burnett, district court judge, ordered Friend to pay $150 to the complainant, and remain on good behavior.

Friend had been arrested in March by sheriff's deputies on the strength of a warrant after charges were filed by John E. King, Oakland, who stated his vehicle was tailgated by Friend's vehicle while the two were traveling along Bethlehem Road. King reportedly pulled to the side of the road to let Friend by, but said the defendant also pulled over and stopped. King said he got out of his truck to question Friend's behavior, but was told to get back into his truck.

Friend reportedly continued to tailgate King's truck, and when the complainant stopped at the Shell Road, Friend jumped out of his vehicle and into the truck, breaking the back window, sending glass into the cab, and cutting King's face.

According to court records, King then drove to Nazelrod Road, got out of his truck, and chased Friend until another vehicle picked him up. King subsequently filed the charges, resulting in Friend's arrest.

When charges are placed on the stet docket, any of those charges can be recalled in the next year if the court deems it necessary.

In other district court news, Diana L. Deming, 29, was not prosecuted on one count of possession of CDS (controlled dangerous substance) and one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia, because of insufficient evidence. She had been arrested April 20 by Maryland State Police, during an undercover drug operation at her home.

Michael A. Corby, 19, Swanton, was not prosecuted on one count of possession of CDS and one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia in last week's court proceedings. He had been arrested at Pizzeria Uno on April 10, and charged with the offenses by state police.

Marla Hare, 25, McHenry, was granted probation before judgment from an earlier verdict of guilty on one count of battery. Judge Burnett stated the conditions of her original probation will remain as imposed. Hare had been charged with the offense by Christy V. Liller, McHenry, after incidents that occurred between August and September 1993.

Six Injured In One-Vehicle Mishap Friday

Six Cumberland youths were injured in a single-vehicle accident Friday afternoon on the New Germany Road, near New Germany State Park.

The 16-year-old driver of a 1988 Honda Accord lost control of the vehicle near the Poplar Lick Trail, according to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry. The car crossed the road, struck a guardrail, traveled back across the road, and struck an embankment.

The driver and his five passengers, all juveniles, were transported to Cumberland Memorial Trauma Center by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and Frostburg Ambulance.

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) State Forest and Park Service Rangers from New Germany State Park and Savage River State Forest were the first to respond to the call from Garrett Central at 12:52 p.m. Also on the scene were firefighters from the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

The investigation is continuing, and charges are pending, according to written reports. Police indicate the cause of the accident may be attributed to driver inexperience. None of the occupants were wearing their seatbelts.

No report of the condition of any of the youths could be obtained from the hospital because the spokesperson refused to release any information.

ONE INJURED

An Oakland woman was injured in a one-vehicle mishap last Thursday one the New Germany Road, near the entrance to New Germany State Park.

According to state police reports, Diane (Lascaris) Walthall, 41, was operating a 1992 Chrysler Town & Country just south of the entrance to the park, when she lost consciousness. The vehicle reportedly traveled off the road and struck a tree head-on, causing it to overturn against the tree.

Walthall was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, where she was admitted for treatment. She has since been released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

TRACTOR-TRAILER, VEHICLE MISHAP

A Grantsville man was transported to Garrett Memorial after a tractor-trailer pulled out in front of the car he was driving early last Thursday morning.

John Lindeman, 31, driving a 1985 Oldsmobile Regency, was transported to the hospital by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad after a 1992 Kenworth, operated by Claude Wagner Jr., 69, Oakland, pulled into his path on Md. Rt. 135, near the Sand Flat Road, according to MSP reports.

Lindeman was initially listed in "stable" condition at GCMH, but has since been released.

B&E, THEFT

An investigation is continuing into a breaking and entering and theft that occurred sometime between July 17-28 at a residence on the Hoyes Run Road, 1.7 miles from the Sang Run Road.

According to state police reports, unknown persons entered a residence owned by Bonny Lee Kellner, Parkland, Fla., and stole a VHS video recorder.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater is the investigating officer.

DWI ARRESTS

Two DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) arrests were logged at the local state police barrack in the past week.

Christopher Alan Wildroult, 21, no address given, was arrested and charged with DWI on July 29 by Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski.

Jeffrey Allen Liller, 28, no address given, was charged with DWI on July 30 by Tfc. R.J. Sivic.

METTIKI SUPPORTS GCC -- Dave Thomas, corporate affairs manager of Mettiki Coal Company, pictured right, recently presented Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, with the final $5,000 contribution, completing the corporation's $25,000 pledge to the GCC Foundation's Endowment Campaign. The Mettiki $25,000 pledge and other community pledges totaling $250,000 are being matched dollar for dollar by the Private Donor Incentive Program of the Maryland Higher Education Commission. Pledges made between the fall of 1989 and June of 1992 to the GCC Foundation's Endowment Campaign are eligible for the state match program. Pledge payments may be collected through June of 1996. Investment income generated from the Endowment Fund is used to support the students and programs offered at GCC. Ann Smith, president of the GCC Foundation, and Dr. Herman expressed their appreciation to Mettiki for its leadership role in the Endowment Campaign and for its continued support of the college. In recognition of Mettiki's major contribution to the Endowment Campaign, the GCC Board Room was dedicated in 1990 as the Mettiki Board Room. Theft Of Over $2,000 In Goods Probed By GCSO

The theft of numerous household items from a McHenry area home was reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in the past week. Also reported was a breaking, entering, and theft at the new Garrett County Landfill, which has not yet been opened to the public.

Richard E. Lawrence, Taneytown, contacted the sheriff's office last Thursday when he arrived at his vacation residence located in the Limpopo Subdivision off North Ridge Road. He had last been at the home on July 6.

The culprits apparently pried opened a side door to gain entry. Once inside, they removed a microwave oven, television set, VCR, stereo and speakers, chainsaw, shotgun, vacuum cleaner, kitchen appliances, beer, tools, food, and other items. The total loss was estimated at $2,131, according to the police report.

In addition to this investigation, the sheriff's office is also probing a breaking, entering, and theft at the new Garrett County Landfill garage, located on Oakland-Sang Run Road. The facility has not yet been opened to the public.

According to the report, illegal entry was made late Monday or early Tuesday of this week. The unknown persons apparently pried open a steel door and took a circular saw, electric sander, and a tool box containing several tools.

The loss in this case was estimated at $523, according to reports.

get to meet people like them. I feel very proud."

As Allegany/Garrett Dairy Princess, Heidi had attended a Dairy Princess Seminar July 5 through 8 at Lycoming College in Williamsport, Pa. She said she learned a lot at the seminar, and hopes to keep in contact with many of the girls she met there.

At home in Garrett County, Heidi is a senior at Southern High School and has served as president of both the Country Kids 4-H Club and the Oakland FFA Chapter. She is active in the community with church, teaching Bible school, and participating in the youth group and youth choir.

Other than her dairy activities and exhibiting cattle on the county and state level, she is active in horsemanship, fashion revue and public speaking. Miss Hauser hopes to pursue a career in dairy and equine science.

"The traveling I will do this year to represent the dairy industry will give me that one chance in a lifetime to meet people who may have a big influence in my future," the new dairy princess reflected, and stated that she just can't wait to begin her duties as 1994-95 Dairy Princess.

Shannon Harrison of Burkittsville, the Frederick County Dairy Princess, was selected the Maryland Alternate Dairy Princess. She will assist the state dairy princess throughout the year.

The program was a tribute in the memory of C. Lester Dudrow, an important contributor to the Maryland Dairy Princess program. The Maryland Dairy Princess Association has installed a bleacher seat at the dairy show ring at the Frederick Fairgrounds to honor his work, according to Susan G. Summers, state dairy princess chairperson.

Heidi will be available to groups and organizations for promotions throughout the year. To make arrangements, those interested may call Heidi at 334-4323, or Nancy Savage at 746-8174.

The Dairy Princess program has been active in Garrett County since 1978, and Miss Hauser is the second State Dairy Princess from Garrett County to be crowned since 1985 when Sheila Bender Miller held the title.

In Loving Memory Of
Roger Allen Wilhelm
Who Went To Be With The Lord
3 Years Ago
August 4, 1966 - August 4, 1991

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many, more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in his wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly Missed By The Families

To Our Dear Friends At Shadey Dell Chapel

We want to thank you for your love, your prayers, your friendship, and love gifts we've received through the years. There have been so many times we have been in a valley, and with God's word and your caring smiles you've given us inspiration to go on.

We thank the Lord for all of you, and for guiding and helping us grow in the Lord. We love you and will deeply miss everyone of you. We will keep you in our prayers, that God will bless you all and the church will prosper and grow. God bless.

Our love,
Jody, Mike, Mikey and Joseph Shaffer

Baseball Success...

Those who have even the slightest interest in sports are well aware of the unusually high level of success that our local baseball teams, at every age level, have achieved this spring and summer.

The Garrett Community College Lakers under new head coach Ed Wildesen wrapped up another winning season. The Southern High Rams, under Coach Jim Bosley, recorded their first ever undefeated regular season, while Coach Phil Carr's Northern Huskies concluded their campaign with an outstanding record. Little League teams at both ends of the county likewise enjoyed winning seasons, while three teams of all-stars from the Oakland Little League advanced well beyond local competition. The Oakland 13-year-old squad finished as runners-up in the District One tournament, the 14-15 age team won the district and North Maryland titles before finishing as runners-up last night in the Mid-Atlantic Championships, and the 11-12 age division team won the district title and will be playing in the finals of the Maryland State Tournament this evening.

Meanwhile, the Garrett County American Legion baseball team, also coached by Ed Wildesen, has also advanced to the Maryland Tournament and will begin play for the state title this Friday.

While it appears this editorial belongs on our sports pages, we believe there is much more to be said about the success of our various teams. It is obvious that our kids and their coaches are especially talented in the sport, but more importantly, we believe that such success says a lot about the people of Garrett County. It demonstrates that an outstanding work ethic and cooperative spirit are characteristic of our young people. It reveals that the level of dedication, patience, enthusiasm, and encouragement by our coaches is exceptional. Finally, it indicates that support of the youth by their parents and other members of their families is wonderful, as they are willing to make great sacrifices to help their children succeed.

With such a network of excellence, similar success has been and will be enjoyed in many other sports in Garrett County. Winning is fun, but the reasons that a winning team is successful are the truly valuable benefits of an athletic program.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in relation to Hospice of Garrett County's luau set for this Friday night, Aug. 5, at Will-O-the-Wisp.

Many people have worked very hard on this fundraiser, which Hospice must do, as we receive no local, state or federal assistance, to make it a nice evening of fun and relaxation. There will be excellent food, good music, and a silent auction. Many county businesses have donated items to the auction.

Hospice is a very worthwhile and necessary organization that serves the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County and there is no charge for the services our volunteers provide.

My main reason for writing this letter is to request the people of Garrett County and others who might be interested in helping Hospice help the terminally ill in Garrett County to call 334-5151 right away for tickets. The cost is $30, of which $15 is tax deductible.

Thank you for your consideration and support.

Sincerely,
Wayne Johnson

To the Editor:

Sunday, September 18, marks the American Cancer Society's fourth annual "Making Strides Against Cancer" event. Making Strides is a five mile non-competitive event to be held at the Deep Creek State Park. WKHJ is returning as media sponsor and will broadcast live from the event.

Making Strides is an awareness event to remember those friends and family members who have died of cancer, but more importantly, it is an event to celebrate life by honoring those who are currently fighting cancer while raising funds for the American Cancer Society. Making Strides reinforces that prevention, early detection and prompt medical attention play key roles in the fight against cancer.

To enter Making Strides, individuals or teams may contact Elaine McDonald at 301-387-4040 or the American Cancer Society at 301-722-2145 or 1-800-STRIDES. The registration fee is $5 per person. Teams, of 10 or more people, who collect a minimum of $25 each in contributions prior to the event are eligible to receive a T-shirt with team name/company logo on the back.

Please join together with your friends, families, schoolmates, and co-workers as individuals or as a team to make strides against this dreaded disease. All participants who turn in collected contributions the day of the event will be eligible for prizes. Additional incentive awards will be awarded to the individual and team who turns in the highest amount of collected contributions the day of the event and to the team with the most members.

Cancer can be beaten. Let's celebrate life by Making Strides.

Sincerely,
Elaine McDonald,
1994 Chair
Garrett County Unit

To the Editor:

On life's highway, amidst hustle and hurry, one tends to forget those who have lots and lots of time.

Our visit to the Quilt Show sponsored by Summerfest was a great success. The residents of the Goodwill Mennonite Home enjoyed it very much. In fact, much time was and is still spent discussing the various quilts, the quality, type, color, etc.

This beautiful day was made possible by the business who supplied our tickets, the Garrett Transportation System, and our volunteers.

Cheryl Bittinger did a wonderful job loading and unloading residents which she transported to and from the Grantsville Elementary School for the show. Thanks, Cheryl.

Tom and Violet Reichenbecher, Elvin and Vera Beitzel, Jay Oester and Twila Bender gave of their time to push wheelchairs and help each one admire the artwork in the quilts. Thanks.

My co-workers, Leona Maust, Sonya Bender and Shirley Teets gave their time to assist in any way possible to provide stability and a pleasant day for our residents. Thanks for giving beyond the call of duty.

The detailed work and extensive time involved in a quilt reminds one of the intricate weaving and time involved in true friendship. May the knowledge that you helped to add quality "time" to our residents add to our, "thank you."

Sincerely,
Idella Bender
Activities Director

To the Editor:

Safe bike trails are of major importance to us and our customers at High Mountain Sports. We hope that all candidates for county commissioner focus on this issue and pursue it throughout the campaign.

The needs exist for both a healthy amount of Garrett County residents and county visitors. Proof of the fact is the increasing local bike sales and every station wagon coming to visit the lake loaded with three-four bikes on the roof (watch Rt. 219 near the lake every weekend). A great patchwork of public off-road trails (snowmobile, hiking, four wheel or hiking) exist within the county but none that one can ride for more than several hours. Also there is a great need for a paved and level trail near the lake where the majority of vacationers are staying and currently riding their bikes on our crowded roads.

If a trail were paved it could double as a bike trail and in-line skate trail. The recent banning of in-line skates in the Oakland business district creates a greater need for such an outlet for athletic expression. A five-mile skate makes for an exhilarating workout.

We feel there are several ways to go about the trail building issue. First there is the older idea of linking all of the existing trails in the county to form a countywide trail network usable by bikes nine months a year and snowmobiles and cross-country skiers three months a year. A second way would be to use the rails-to-trails approach, acquiring railway right-of-ways and converting them to bike trails. We have been informed that these railway right-of-ways exist within Garrett County.

We realize that there are more pressing issues that face us now, but we think Garrett County can ill-afford (pun intended) not to do this now. The economic impact can only help (we lose dollars to the nearby Confluence path every weekend) and the health benefits are many. Let's do it before future development makes this idea impossible.

Sincerely,
Brian Glotfelty
and Steve Green

To the Editor,

Having to look at the disgusting 18 dumpsters in full view now from the Rte. 42 everytime I head for home is an outrage! I wonder how much we paid, are paying, and will forever pay some bureaucratic brain truster for coming up with such an atrocious eye sore?

We used to roll by on Rte. 42 seeing the lovely trees, the beautiful lush greenery everywhere in its pristine beauty. The dumpsters were out of sight in the same location and many people did not know they were there, (who were strangers to the area).

Now, in all their ugliness with garbage, papers, etc., blowing all over the ground for a large area, some out along Rte. 42 and overflowing dumpsters as far as the eye can see from Rte. 42 for days, as there was early this week, what in the world is the person thinking of, who made this horrible decision? The land space is still the same as it always was, the recycling container (white) is gone; why and where is it? The land didn't shrink; why were the dumpsters moved out to the front of the road for all to see the awful mess? With debris everywhere in full view, where is the esthetic viewpoint in this atrocity?

With all the stench in our Friendsville area from the apparent conduct or behavior of a human being, do we need this garbage in the constant public view? None of it is a necessity and we could sure do without it.

Who could "clean up" the garbage in the Friendsville

THE COUNTY AND THE FAIR

The old tractors lined up to be weighed for the antique tractor pull. Some shone with new paint and perhaps even polish. Others appeared in their original condition. Some of the latter appeared as fit as ever for a day's work in the fields.

Late afternoon had come to the first day of our county fair. Piles of wood chips and crusher run were everywhere as men and loaders did their best to make paths on which to walk and drive after the torrential rains of the night before. Spirits were high on the back field where tractor enthusiasts were starting their engines.

Not everyone will understand when I say that tears welled up in my eyes as I saw the Farmall "M"s and "H"s trundle by. As images they emerged from the shadows of my childhood. Most of 35 years have passed since my father traded the "H" for a 340 and then a few years later the other for a 460. Not long after that we had a 706. In less than a decade our ploughing tractor went from pulling a two-bottom moldboard plough to a six-bottom. At the time we believed it was progress.

An International Super "C" went by which made me smile. Our neighbors still keep their Super "C" as a raking tractor. Those old mechanical horses were made to last forever. I apologize for my predilection towards red paint, but for our family red equaled tractor.

The actual pull held little interest for me. I remember the first time I saw a pull, also at our county fair. I turned to the person next to me on the grassy bank, a veteran of pulls, and asked, "Is that it?" "That's it," he replied. I watched a while longer, just to be sure it wasn't for me. But those old tractors warmed my heart) all lined up, and chugging along.

That's the glory of a fair. There are thousands of things to look at. Having simply walked by them all, a person gets an education. Then there is that something on which interests settles. One leaves the fair with the inkling of a desire to become a beekeeper, for example, and with the certainty that someone else will have to buy the hot tub.

I learned a little about the marketing of sailing on the Chesapeake Bay from a fellow I first knew when he was helping to run a packing plant, and from whom I bought my Christmas tree last December. Governmental agencies were set up to distribute the latest word on matters as diverse as health, aging, farmland preservation, recycling, and discharging pollutants.

My own interest settled in the those parts of the fair which attend to farm, garden, and kitchen. If it were not immodest to mention it, I might let drop that I have now served for seven years as Assistant Superintendent in charge of bee products. The job description includes receiving all bee products (honey and wax, both in various forms, and educational displays) and finding a judge for the same. In addition to entering a box of cut comb honey, our household sent in a number of canned goods and samples Deborah's herb garden. And we came home with ribbons of several colors, some of them blue.

There was learning here, too. For example, we are not supposed to can applesauce anymore. It is too dense. Experts only recommend freezing as a method of preserving applesauce. Ours is a friendly fair, so my sauce was not disqualified, but lumped in with canned apples where it came fourth out of four entries. Even had there been other applesauce, it still might have placed fourth out of four.

On the farm and garden tables we counted more herb than tomato entries which tells us two things. It has been a rough year for tomatoes, and increasing numbers of people are growing their own herbs. In fact, classes need to be added for herbs since there were more entries for "any other variety" than for the named classes. Trends turn up at the fair, and herbs are one.

The best part of the fair is invisible, though palpable, too. All ideas must become flesh to be real and true. The fair is a gathering of the county as a community as nothing else is.

When I was born in 1955 Harford County, was a farm county with three towns largely dependent on the farms. Today it is a metropolitan county, and yet there is still a will to farm among the country people. Just as important, the tens of thousands of people who have moved here have a will that farming should continue.

At the fair, we gather, those of us whose roots are centuries deep and those who moved here the day before yesterday, together recalling our past and envisioning our future. As I left the fair, I passed by the hot tub still bubbling and the old tractors still pulling.

Theatre Review

Broadway Bound

review by John R. McEwen

What do you get when you cross All In The Family with Long Day's Journey Into Night and set it in a Jewish neighborhood? You get Broadway Bound, which is playing tonight through Saturday at the Garrett Community College auditorium. This is the third part of Neil Simon's autobiographical trilogy, where Eugene Jerome and his brother Stanley finally leave the nest to seek their fortune as a comedy-writing team. It is not to be missed.

As with all the Simon plays I've seen and read, it is ingeniously written. But this trilogy must be his best work; it is obvious that he is showing what life was really like in his family. As Eugene, the narrator character, keeps pointing out, you can't make this stuff up. The reason his family was funny was because they weren't trying to be. But it's no TV sitcom. Just like real life, it has ups and downs, funny moments and sad moments and touching moments. In a few hours, it tells us volumes about family interactions, expectations, priorities, hopes, and agendas. About human nature.

Just as it is hard to believe this was not Neil Simon's real life, it is hard to believe this troupe of six actors is not a real post-war urban Jewish family. Their relationships are so well- and carefully-defined, they have such a comfortable, familiar way with each other, one can plainly see these are, all six of them, professionals.

Mike Greenberg, who portrays narrator Eugene, is a person who is uncomfortable with "being serious." He can make fun of anything; he jokes about every subject. Yet he is the one who saw so deeply into his family's psyches; he is the one who writes everything down, who takes the time to watch and listen. And to know. Greenberg expertly shows us these two sides of Eugene. He interacts with each of the other characters in a different way. His relationship work is really something fascinating to watch.

Marilyn Hausfeld gives an absolutely brilliant performance as Kate, Eugene's mother, a plain Jewish girl who grew up learning that family was the most important thing in life. And although she might occasionally feel the longing for more meaning to her existence, she knows her station. And her blessings. And her limitations. Hausfeld's quiet calm during most of the play is only a front; the scene where she relates her long past brush with a celebrity betrays the pressure cooker inside. She shows us and Eugene that the mother he's known all his life is a real person after all. She gives the character a beating heart.

Eugene's excitable brother Stanley is played by David Coyne, whose stamina is incredible. He has the delivery of Gleason, the timing of Benny. And the energy! Watch the way he holds his hands when listening to the radio show. The man knows how to be excited without moving a muscle. Incredible.

Ed Johnson plays Ben, Kate's father and the boys' grandfather. He is a grumpy old Jewish Socialist who seems oblivious to everything in today's (1940's-50's) world. But is he? Maybe he falls asleep at the dinner table, but maybe he knows more about people than anyone else in the show. Johnson lets Ben have three dimensions; he's not just playing your stereotypical old Jew, like you've seen a million times. This is especially visible in his scene with Jack, his son-in-law.

Jack Jerome is Kate's husband and the boys' father; he is played by Stan Shulman. A man in the throes of classic mid-life crisis, Jack is caught between his duty to his wife and family and his desire for some sort of fulfillment. The scene of his emotional confession to Kate is played admirably by both.

Finally, there is Blanche, Kate's sister, who finds herself in the awkward position of being a wealthy widow trying to get along with her father, the Socialist who bristles at her association with the evil upper class. Blanche is played by Joanne Bauer, and her emotional richness (pardon the pun) is equal to the level of the more prominent cast members. Her easy relationship with her sister Kate is balanced nicely by her helpless conflict with Ben.

With a script like this and actors like these, one might think one wouldn't even need a director. On the contrary: in shows where the relationships are so well-defined and the action so seamless, the director is the one who deserves most of the credit. Robert Christie has rendered an impeccable production. Actors can deliver lines or emotions a million different ways; it is the director who chooses what is appropriate and makes it all blend. Bravo!

The set design by Mark Simpson and lighting design by Josh Mowczko combine ingeniously to transform a ten-by-twenty-foot stage area into a six-room, two-story house. And without a single set change. This is the kind of simple efficiency all tech designers strive to achieve. Joan Lada's costume design was equally well thought out.

It is unfortunate that the lighting booth in the GCC auditorium is so close to the audience, and not separated by so much as a pane of glass. But the lighting crew must be aware of the fact that even a whisper can be very distracting. It is as if they are standing in the house, right behind the audience members.

This is real theatre, folks. It is on a par with anything you would see off-Broadway in New York. Make time in your schedule this weekend to see this play. You won't regret it.

to over 5,000 children annually, according to Louise Richards, director of the Salem Trust, located along Lower New Germany Road.

In 1992, there were 11,146 children in Maryland living in out-of-home care. It is estimated that this number increased dramatically in 1993 to over 12,000 children, Mrs. Richards said.

Riding for Salem this year will be Tom Ruckert, Salem staff member, and Alan Kauffman, pastor of Glade Mennonite Church in Accident. They are putting in long hours to train for this event. Ruckert rode last year and felt so strongly about the benefits of the project that he agreed to ride again this year. An experienced rider, Kauffman says he is looking forward to the excitement of the five-day ride and the challenge of crossing the mountains of western Maryland. Both riders say they feel a dedication to helping Maryland's children in need and are glad to be helping in this way.

All contributions to Salem will be used to provide direct services to the 36 children residing in Salem's program. For more information, persons may call (301) 689-8176.

Ms. Sanders Joins Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty

Denise Sanders, Deep Creek Lake, recently joined Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty as a full time sales associate. She has been licensed as a real estate agent since January 1990 and was recognized as "Rookie of the Year" by the company after her first year of licensing.

Ms. Sanders has resided in Garrett County since 1971 and stated that she is "comfortable working with the wide variety of properties which are marketed locally, including lake and full-time residences, land, and development properties."

She attributes her success to her ability to communicate with her buying and selling customers, stating that she recognizes real estate as a "people business."

"The part of this business which I enjoy most is the opportunity to meet and talk with all kinds of people. That's what initially attracted me to this profession.

"I'm happy to be part of the Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty organization. I appreciate the high level of professionalism I've found here, and the support of the other agents and managements," she said.

Robert Huebner, broker and owner of the business, stated that he is pleased that Ms. Sanders has decided to activate her license with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, and that she is "eager, enthusiastic, and experienced."

OHS Class Of 1944 Meets For 50th Year Reunion

Approximately 70 members of Oakland High School's Class of 1944 gathered July 23, at the Will O'the Wisp for their 50th year reunion. Twenty-eight of the 108 classmates are deceased.

Master of ceremonies and chairman of the class's reunion committee, Mike Kildow, introduced the other committee members: Hubert Custer, vice chairman; Phyllis B. Trickett, treasurer; Betty Ann Glotfelty, secretary; and Alvin Friend and Clara Gauer.

The program, titled "Reflections on Changes," was given by Bill Treacy. He noted members of the class of 1944 were, among others, before "television, penicillin, polio shots, antibiotics and Frisbees; before frozen food, nylons, dacron, Xerox and Kinsey. Timesharing meant togetherness, not computers. A chip meant a piece of wood. Hardware meant hardware; and software wasn't even a word."

A reading, titled "You are growing old when..." was read by Bud Fauber. A few of the replies included: "...everything hurts. What doesn't hurt doesn't work." "...you feel like the morning after when you haven't been anywhere" "...you get winded playing chess."

Awards were presented to classmates as follows: Ted Stockslager, Florida, for traveling the farthest to attend; Leorne Crowe, married the longest; Clara Gauer, most offspring; Betty Ann M. Glotfelty, most recently wed; and Allen Naylor, least amount of hair.

The class of 1944 graduated on June 7 of that year, one day after the allied invasion of Europe. "Most men knew they would go to war, and did serve," said Phyllis Trickett, spokesperson for the class. She also noted the class had the most graduates, even though many members were in the armed services. And, because of its size, it was the first class to conduct graduation ceremonies outside the school, in a church amphitheater in Mtn. Lake Park.

Other history-making events for the class of 1944 included it being the first in Oakland High School's history to wear caps and gowns; the first class to have a basketball team that did not have a teacher as a coach (Howard White served as coach); the first class to have no outside sports, because of the war; the first class to have a reunion on its 10th anniversary, and continue every five years since then; the only class to not have a class picture, because there was a shortage of paper during the war; and "Senior Skip Day" became "Senior Class Day";

Class members voted to meet again in 1999 for their 55th year reunion.

THE CHARTER PRESENTATION for Boy Scout Troop 49, Grantsville, was held recently at Bethesda Church of the Brethren, which sponsors the troop. Delegate George Edwards was the guest speaker for the event and the charter was presented by Bill Miller, executive officer and charter partner representative of the church. Certificates, patches, membership cards, and annual and special awards were presented to the scouts. Pictured left to right, front, are Jess Carey, Matthew Maust, and Josh Resh. In the second row are: Donovan Bicker, Johnny Carey, Jeff Folk, Aaron Fisher, Cindy Fisher, committee chairman; Wayne Durst and Paul Durst, representing American Legion Post 214, Grantsville. In the back row are: Allen VanSickle, scoutmaster; John Carey and Ron Folk, assistant scoutmasters; Mr. Miller; Dan Folk, unit commissioner; and Delegate Edwards. The troop meets every Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at American Legion Post 214.

To register, you must give your name, address, phone number, date of birth, place of birth, and make a party affiliation selection or write-in party choice. A voter registration form must be signed under oath attesting that you are a U.S. citizen and have not been convicted of certain crimes. You must be 18 by November 8, 1994, in order to register to vote in the primary or general elections. Voting is your civic duty as well as your voice in the government.

Handcast Designs Successfully Marketed By Hobby House Press

Hobby House Press, located in Grantsville, has successfully marketed Handcast Designs Limited of Wales for the past 10 months, with Handcast Designs' business increasing 49% since Hobby House moved to the local location in December 1993. Because of this increase, Hobby House officials anticipate the hiring of additional associates to serve the needs of Handcast customers.

"Handcast Designs' sales administration house contract with Hobby House has been expanded," said Jackson. "Hobby House Press will now telemarket Handcast Designs products to gift stores in the heartland of the United States. As Hobby House Press sales associates' work proves successful, more territories will be added."

Handcast Designs, initiated in 1984, uses traditional casting techniques to create intricate giftware based on nature. Collections include themes of flowers, fruit, lace, animals, and architecture, all created by the Handcast artists to decorate picture frames, trinket boxes, clocks, and potpourri bowls.

The newest theme collection, Anemone, features the bright hues of the anemone flower on handcast decorative items. The company also produces special jewelry pieces of the floral and teddy bear themes.

District Court

Craig B. Keemer, 40, Reading, Pa., had a motion for expungement on his possession of CDS charge denied by Judge Burnett. He had been arrested for the crime in June 1993 by Natural Resources Police at Swallow Falls State Park.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for an Oakland woman who was found guilty on charges of theft and theft scheming.

Mary L. Johnson, 19, had been charged with those offenses by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office stemming from an incident that occurred between March 16 and April 14, when she reportedly stole money from Treasure Island while she was a cashier at that business. She reportedly voided legitimate sales receipts and then stole that amount of money from the register. The amount of money stolen was $1,193.02.

Cathy J. Ford, 30, Oakland, was found not guilty on one count of assault and one count of reckless driving.

She had been charged with those offenses by Deborah L. Estill on May 15 following an incident in the parking lot of Browning's Foodland, Oakland. The charges involved a reported attack on Estill's son.

CORRECTION

In last week's edition of The Republican, it was incorrectly reported that Carl E. Schmidt, Friendsville, was in Garrett County District Court on a CDS charge.

The article should have read Edward C. Schmidt, 23, Friendsville, was granted probation before judgment on one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Judge Timothy Finan, Allegany County District Court, fined Schmidt $100 and placed him on three years of unsupervised probation for the offense.

Schmidt had been charged with the crime on May 6 by Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a tip from an anonymous caller indicated the defendant had marijuana plants growing in plain view in his house.

DNR CASES

Natural Resources Police officers charged two area men with underage possession of alcoholic beverages and littering in a state forest, resulting in district court fines.

Carl H. Friend, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, and Timothy S. Beeman, 20, Oakland, were found guilty of the offenses and charged a total of $120 each, stemming from their June 18 arrests.

Dyck To Speak During Renewal Series In Gortner

Peter Dyck, Akron, Pa., will be the guest speaker at a Spiritual Renewal series at the Gortner Union Church near Oakland. The series will begin Thursday evening, August 11, and conclude on Sunday evening, August 14. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening, with the Sunday morning service beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Peter Dyck was born in Russia. At the age of 12 he emigrated with his parents and family and settled in Saskatchewan, Canada. He attended the University of Saskatchewan, Bethel College in Kansas, and received a B.A. degree from Goshen College in Indiana. He received his master of divinity from Bethany Theological Seminary in Chicago. Waterloo University, Ontario, granted him an honorary doctorate.

During World War II, he served with Mennonite Central Committee in England, where he married Elfrieda Klassen, another Russian-born Canadian MCC worker. Immediately after the war, the couple were transferred to Holland to direct the MCC material aid program, and then to Germany to work with refugees, helping to care for them in camps, accompanying four transports to South America, and assisting in the processing of many others for immigration to Canada.

From 1950 he served as pastor of the Eden Mennonite Church, Moundridge, Kan., for seven years. In 1957 Peter and Elfrieda, with their two daughters, returned to Europe to direct the MCC program there and in North Africa. He was also responsible for MCC's East-West programs. After 10 years, he was transferred to Akron, Pa., where he continued with MCC until his retirement in 1982.

He is the author of the following books: A Leap of Faith, Up from the Rubble (co-authored by his wife), The Great Shalom, Shalom at Last, and Storytime Jamboree.

The Gortner Union Church is located four miles south of Oakland, along the Gortner Road. The public is invited to attend the services.

Program To Focus On Life Planning, Health Care, Wills

Area Agency on Aging will present a program about "life planning" at the Kitzmiller Nutrition Site on Tuesday, Aug. 9, beginning at 11:15 a.m.

The presentation emphasizes the importance of making early health care decisions for oneself, according to a spokesperson for the agency. In addition to showing the video, the agency will make available living wills and advance directives forms. The forms may be used by seniors now to specify what type of life sustaining medical treatment, if any, they choose should they become incapacitated and unable to make such decisions in the future, the spokesperson added.

Anyone, 60 years of age or older, who is interested in learning more about "life planning" is welcome to attend. For additional information, persons may call 334-9431.

Local Youth Learning Soccer From Brits; Big Game Slated

Over 100 area youth of all ages are learning the finer points of soccer this week at Southern High School by participating in a week-long day-camp presented by North American Soccer Camps, Inc.

Eight coaches from Great Britain are being hosted by several local families and serving as instructors for the camp, which is being sponsored by the Mountaintop Soccer Association. Instruction is being held each morning from 9 a.m. to noon and the week will culminate with an awards ceremony Saturday morning, followed by the first international soccer game ever held in Garrett County, to be played Saturday evening under the lights on the SHS athletic field.

Coaches from "the Old Country" who are conducting the camp include: Noel Wallace, John Taplin, Neil Wilson, Sean Bradley, Matt McQuillian, Damien Walker, Leo Cook, and Dave Stanford.

Wallace, a physical education teacher in Birmingham, is a former School Boy International and a member of the British Catholic Schools team. He played semi-professional soccer in Germany.

Taplin is in his third year of his pursuit of a teacher degree at Bedford College, where he is also involved in coaching the soccer team.

Wilson, a 23-year-old physical education teacher from Hull, played for England at the U15 level and now plays semi-professional ball in northern England.

Goalkeeper Sean Bradley, 24, is from the northern town of Wigon, where he was an associate professional with the Wigon Athletic Football Club and is a member of the Lancashire County coaching staff.

McQuillian, who hails from Chester on the Welsh-English border, was an apprentice professional at Chester City and now plays semi-professional ball in the Merseyside area of England. He also commutes across the border to coach the Welsh Wrexham Football Club.

Walker, a 23-year-old native of the Channel Isles, now resides on the mainland where he is a trainee teacher at Bedford College and also serves as soccer coach.

Cook, 22, is a native of London and plays in the very competitive semi-professional Diadora League. He coaches in the youth program of the 2nd Division Club Brentford.

Stanford, 23, just completed his studies at St. John College in York, where he played for the First 11, British college champions last year. He also coaches for Scarborough and York City football clubs.

Wilson, a four-year veteran coach for North American Soccer Camps and coach of the high school age players, said that he was "impressed" by the level of ability of the Garrett County players. "They learn very quickly and are doing a great job," he said. "I'm having a wonderful time working with them."

Stanford, who coaches the younger players, said that giving the children variety and keeping them occupied are among the goals of his instruction.

"We try to give every player the opportunity to score and to win," he said. "We don't spend as much time on drills as the older players because it gets boring for the little ones. So we play a lot of games. But that gives them the opportunity to keep kicking the ball, which is the best thing they can do at their age to become better players."

Besides the support of the camp being provided by the host families, local restaurants are also supporting the program by donating meals to the visiting coaches. Meals have been provided by Silver Tree Inn, Denny's, Arby's, Pizza Hut, and McDonald's restaurants. The Deep Creek Lake Yacht Club at Turkey Neck has also served as a host for the coaches during the afternoons.

OBVIOUSLY ENJOYING THEMSELVES at the Silver Tree Inn last night were the members of the British coaching staff of North American Soccer Camps, Inc., who are conducting a day-camp at Southern High School this week. Silver Tree, as well as Arby's, McDonald's, Denny's, and Pizza Hut restaurants, have provided a meal for the coaches, who are staying with several local families. Pictured above, from left, seated, are: David Stanford, coach; Grant McDonald, son of Elaine McDonald of Silver Tree; Charlie Cook, Sean Bradley, Noel Wallace, and John Taplin, coaches. Standing, same order, are: Neil Wilson and Matt McQuillan, coaches; Mrs. McDonald; and Damian Walker, coach.

SIZE MAKES LITTLE DIFFERENCE in the sport of soccer, as this tyke prepares to take a shot under the watchful eye of Coach Matt McQuillan.

Mountaintop Soccer Association President Carole Ann Lovett hopes that a large number of area residents come out to the Southern High School stadium Saturday night to watch the international game that will be played by the coaches against all-stars from several area colleges and universities. Other coaches who will arrive for the game will be Malcolm Mitchell, Steve Elliott, Greg Valentine, Ray Lodge, Mike Tonge, Eric Cox, and Martin Bane, all of whom are current or former semi-professionals.

Joining the coaches will be Garrett County resident and assistant Southern High coach Selvyn Brown, a native of Jaimaica and former professional player in Arkansas.

Collegiate all-stars expected to play are from West Virginia University, the University of Richmond, Davis and Elkins College, and West Virginia Wesleyan College. The kick-off for the game is set for 7:35 p.m.

SHOOTING A BALL at teammates' "posteriors" is among the more enjoyable drills; for those taking the shots, that is. Juggling the ball (below) to see how many touches can be recorded without a miss is also among the more popular camp exercises.

ABSORBING all the soccer knowledge Coach Neil Wilson has to share are Southern High players Meghan Dabney, Charles Granke, and John Andrews. Below, Granke and Dabney battle for possession of the ball.

Sailors Race In Sandy Douglass Memorial Event

by Harry Filemyr

The Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association held its annual Maryland Championship Invitational Regatta, renamed the Sandy Douglass Memorial Regatta, this past weekend. Sandy Douglass was a world- class sailor and canoe racer, boat designer, and founder of the boat company in Deer Park now owned by Harry Carpenter. Sandy's single-minded guidance of the Flying Scot class has made it what it is today.

Thirty-eight boats from three states participated. Five races were scheduled, but because of lack of wind and time, only four were held.

The first race used the westerly wind down the slot at Turkey Neck Point. From the start, Dick Gregory followed a lift up the Turkey Neck shore where just before the race he had told his crew, Allison, "We'll stay away from there; the wind is dead along that shore." When he tacked away from the "dead wind," he crossed the fleet and moved to what looked like an insurmountable lead. However, John Meredith recovered from a mediocre start to get ahead 50 yards from the finish.

Dan Neff of Annapolis with Nicole Racker, a visitor from Germany, sailed away from the Challengers (normally B Fleet) and into the midst of the Championship fleet. He would accumulate three firsts and a second. He explained his choice of the Challenger fleet because of inexperience: as a Scott skipper, sailing on Deep Creek Lake, and the crew never being in a Scot before. But, well, yes, he is on a college sailing team, he crews in a Scot, and yes, he is on his way to the Flying Scot National Championship to crew for a past national champion.

The second race was set up to head into a light southwest breeze, up the channel of Deep Creek toward Hickory Ridge. By starting time the wind had jumped to due west. Except to round marks, most of the Lasers tacked only once. Most Flying Scots did not tack at all. Regatta race commander, Don Hott, explained, "It was good when we set it, and I know it was bad at the start; but we had to get in three races and I'll be darned if I was going to spend all afternoon fiddling with it."

Dave and Stephanie Mahan started at the extreme end of the unfavored end of the starting line. No one else was near and, with completely clear air, they pulled away into what looked like a safe lead. Again John Meredith ran down and passed the leader. The Mahans finished second.

By the third race, the dying wind was shifting northwest. The writer got loose of the starboard crowd at the start and tacked to port on the first header. "We'll just go behind the starboard tack boats," I said. But we crossed ahead. As we were lifted past the Thousand Acres shore, the fleet all went right to Turkey Neck. When we re-crossed, "I'll be; we're first! " Only Harry and Carrie Carpenter were close. A wind shift put the Carpenters around the upwind mark first. Places changed briefly when they dropped their spinnaker in the water, but Harry and Carrie went on to win.

On Sunday, the fourth race was delayed for 20 minutes awaiting the last gasp of a dying easterly breeze. The race, though short, took two hours and did not leave time for another race. In the light and variable breeze, featherweight Carol Clefton made the right moves to edge out Tom Johnson and her husband Gordon Clefton for a Laser win.

Al and Jean Thagard had a huge lead on the Challengers, but spent a nerve-wracking 20 minutes while Neff inched closer, looking for a breath of air to carry them across the finish.

Harry Carpenter showed he knows his home port, gently tacking first to one side of the slot, then the other, and coming out ahead in what looked like a game of chance. John Meredith was again "tanked at the start." On the long spinnaker run he passed boat after boat as chased patches of clear air, then dove into inside position at the marks. His fifth place Amish was good enough to beat Harry and Carrie Carpenter by one point in the Regatta.

John Meredith received a "keeper" trophy for the Regatta, the Maryland Championship trophy to take home until next year, and the Sandy Douglass Memorial Regatta trophy to be on display at the Turkey Neck Yacht Club. This trophy was donated by Garrett Community College and presented by Mike Logsdon, academic director of the Adventure Sports Institute of GCC.

Dick Gregory for eighth place got "the monkey," a perpetual "trophy" that has traveled from Jacksonville, Fla., to Lake Norman in North Carolina, and now to Deep Creek Lake. For 20 years, it has been awarded to the highest finisher "out of the money" at the Sandy Douglass Regattas.

RESULTS

Lasers -- Tom Johnson, first; Keith MacMillan, second; Kevin Rissell, third; Dan Rubel, fourth, and Carol Clefton, fifth.

NHS Physicals To Be Given At Naumann Office

Physicals for all Northern High School football players will be given August 8-9 at Dr. Walter Naumann's office in Accident, rather than at the school, according to Tom Vent, NHS athletic director and varsity coach. Players must have their physical forms completed and bring them to the school at 8:30 a.m. August 15, the first day of practice.

Vent said that equipment will be issued on that day, which he is calling "testing day." All players and managers are to report to the school that morning.

Soccer Referee Re-Certification Clinic Scheduled

Local soccer referees who wish to be re-certified for the coming year are invited to attend a one-day clinic on Saturday, Aug. 27. The date for the clinic was originally Sept. 3, but it has been moved up a week because of the Labor Day holiday.

Specific times and location for the clinic will be announced later.

New Regulations On Water Skiing Are Announced

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., reminds the public of recent changes to the regulations governing vessels towing individuals on water skis, tubes, and similar devices.

"At DNR, the safety of our citizens is always our first priority," Dr. Brown said. "We believe these new regulations will help to further reduce mishaps on Maryland waterways."

The following changes to the regulations are already in effect:

*A motorboat towing individuals on water skis, aquaplane, etc., shall at all times stay 100 feet away from the shore, and any wharfs, piers, pilings, jettys, bridge structures, abutments or people in the water.

*When passing another vessel, the operator of the towing vessel shall stay at least 100 feet away from the other vessel.

*Tow lines may not be more than 75 feet in length, except when barefoot skiing, a tow line up to 100 feet in length may be used.

*On the Upper Potomac River, on the slackwater above dams 3, 4 and 5, a motorboat may not tow more than two tubes or similar devices when the tow line is attached directly to the device.

The public may direct any inquiries to Boating Administration at (410) 974-2918.

Oakland All-Star Team Moves Into State Title Game Today

The Oakland Little League 11- and 12-year-old All-Stars have advanced to the finals of the Maryland State Little League Championship Tournament and will meet either East Frederick or Capital City this evening.

Oakland is the only unbeaten team left in the double-elimination tourney, having recorded three straight wins this past week. The local leaguers came from behind to edge Hughesville, 10-8, on Saturday, topped Delmar on Sunday, 11-9, and then rolled over previously unbeaten East Frederick Tuesday evening, 12-2, on a one-hitter by Josh Bosley.

In the game against Hughesville, Oakland was behind 7-1 before rallying to record the win.

Four members of the Oakland team rapped home runs in the win over Delmar on Sunday, while Delmar's Davey Griffith smacked a grand slam. Jordan Uphold, Jason Hinebaugh, Bosley, and Toby Upton each homered for Oakland, with Uphold and Hinebaugh each going three-for-four.

Bosley allowed just one hit and recorded 11 strikeouts against East Frederick Tuesday. Upton led the offense with a homer and two doubles, while Uphold added a solo homer and Hinebaugh contributed three singles.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

Rain again caused the cancellation of racing at Somerset County Speedway last Friday night. If the weather will cooperate, the action will get under way again this Friday, August 5. The gates will open at 5:30 p.m. with racing beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Cumberland Raceway

There were 73 cars in the pits and Benny Parsons, former Winston Cup driver, was at the Cumberland Raceway. Parsons, who held an autograph session before the races, was the guest of Western Maryland Distributing Co. Inc. and When Pigs Fly Restaurant, both of Cumberland.

Wayne Johnson, of Hancock, won the Ponderosa Steak House Late Model Feature; Jim Deneen, of Hyndman, was the winner in the Hamilton Dodge Semi-late Feature, his sixth win this year at Cumberland; and Darras Deneen, of Bedford, Pa., got his first feature win this year at Cumberland in the Pure Stocks. All features had heads up starts and the entire show was over by 10 p.m.

In the 20-lap Late Model Feature, Wayne Johnson, from the pole position led from flag to flag, all under the green for the win. Scott Brode finished a close second. Brent Smith, his first time this year at Cumberland finished third, followed by Bob Hershman, Bob Salathe, Tom Clise, Randy Kimmel, Tony Flanagan, Todd Price, and J.R. Keifer. Heat winners were Bob Salathe and Wayne Johnson. Western Maryland Distributing and Miller Genuine Draft gave Johnson a $500 bonus and "The Gang" and Lambert's Auto Service gave Johnson an additional $100 bonus, making the win worth a total of $1550. Kevin Smith, driving the Tom Gill owned 31X made his first appearance at Cumberland, had to drop out late in the race with fuel problems while running second.

In the 18-lap Semi-late Feature, Allen Buckley held off Jim Deneen until the half-way mark, when Deneen took over for the win. Allen Buckley finished second. Jack Pencil came from 11th to get third, followed by Bob Elbin, Greg Fuller, Shane Beegle, Buddy Van Meter, Barry Willison, Brian Lowery, and Dave Carlheim. Heat winners were Allen Buckley and Wade Peer. Western Maryland Distributing gave Deneen a $250 bonus.

In the 12-lap Pure Stock Feature Darras Deneen led from flag to flag for his first win this year at Cumberland. Denny Sponaugle finished second, followed by Bill VanMeter, Rick Saville, Dave Riley, Johnny Harr, Don Nicholson, Brad Brown, Wally Mowery, and Allen Pryor. Heat winners were Darras Deneen, Denny Sponaugle, Don Nicholson and Brad Brown. The Consy winner was Allen Pryor. Western Maryland Distributing gave Deneen a $250 bonus.

The three feature winners each received a custom made feature winners hat from M&M Enterprises and a gift certificate from General Graphics. Marshall Oil Co. gave five gallons of racing gas to Jim and Darras Deneen, and Howell Automotive gave a set of spark plugs to Darras Deneen and five gallons of racing gas to Allen Pryor.

The Tri-State Photos Hard Charger Award went to Don Nicholson, Fan of the Week was LeAnne McGowan of Cumberland, and the Jr. Fan Club winner was Travis Stickley.

Racing returns to the Cumberland Raceway Saturday, August 6. Late Model drivers will sign autographs during intermission. Gates open at 4:30, hot laps begin at 6:30, and racing starts at 7 p.m.

DRIVER OF THE WEEK-DENNY ROUNDS -- Driving his 1982 Buick Regal to victory in the Pure Stock Class at the Somerset County Speedway is Denny Rounds of Grantsville. This is his third year of racing at the Meyersdale, Pa., track with his #57 Pure Stock with its 350 c.i. Chevy motor built by Automotive Machine. Rounds, who owns his car, is employed by Keystone Lime in Springs, Pa. He is 40 years old, and he and his wife, Tammy have two daughters, 5-year-old Sarah and 3-year-old Katherine. His sponsors are Fuel City, Grantsville; Keyser's Ridge Auto Truck Stop, Keyser's Ridge; and Accident Garage in Accident. His pit crew often includes his brother Ron Rounds, but can include anybody who will pitch in and help. This year, Rounds has won two "C" Main events and one heat at Meyersdale, and received a trophy at the beginning of the season for the best looking car. His goal for 1994 is to finnish in the top 10 at the track.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Raindrops threatened, but nothing dampened the great racing at Interstate 79 Speedway last Friday night as five former winners visited victory land.

Rick Strickler led only one lap in the Semi-late Feature, but it was the last one as he picked up his third straight win of the year. Danny Hamrick set the pace for the first 19 laps with Strickler trying to pass low each time. On the final lap, Strickler decided to take the high lane and got the win. Hamrick was second followed by Terry Conrad, Steve Booth, and Tim Harsh. Hamrick and Conrad picked up the heat wins.

The Late Model Feature was a dandy as Scott Wolfe, who was making his first start at I-79, paced the field for 21 laps. Two early cautions sent Nolan Dalton and Tim Hitt to the rear after Dalton spun and Hitt went to the pits with a flat tire. While Wolfe tried to hold off challenges from Denny Chamberlain and Chuck Harper, Dalton and Hitt were coming from the tail. On lap 22, Harper made the pass for the lead and a lap later, Chamberlain retired with a flat. Harper came across the line in first followed by Dalton, Hitt, Wolfe, and Duane Mooreland. Heat race winners were Wolfe, Dalton and Chamberlain.

Jim Byers picked up his fifth victory of the season in the Pure Stocks ahead of Jay Martin, Carl Sullivan, Mark Bell, and Butch Summers. Heats went to Byers, Sullivan, and Jim Bendishaw, Jr. Paul Watson won the Consy.

The hot streak of Mike Lewis continued in the 4-Cylinder Stock Class as he got his fifth straight win and seventh of the '94 season over Larry Speicher and Mike Simpson. Tommy Pennington and Dave Summers rounded out the top five. Pennington, Summers, and Lewis picked up heats.

Dave Groves held off several challenges from Mike Wilson to take the UMP feature. Groves was driving the Kevin Rogers #15. Wilson was second with Bernie Petanowick, Hubie Hatfield, and Kevin Jones chasing. Heats went to Jones, Petanowick, and Rusty Jones. Hatfield grabbed the B-Main.

Racing action continues this Friday with Special Olympics Night and racing in five divisions. Sunday, August 14, is race number three of the West Virginia State Championship Series.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Eighteen late models hurled themselves across the clay oval Saturday night at Elkins Motor Speedway and by the time the dust had settled, only 10 cars remained. The winner, Gary Dalton, pulled himself from the cockpit of his Rocket chassis, wiped sweat, mud and exhaustion from a weathered face and managed a smile as he accepted his second feature crown of the season. He had survived.

An invert twelve of the top heat racers placed Nick Alvaro on the pole for the start. One lap later Jim Pyles jumped out in front, lost control in turn four and smacked head-on into the infield tire marker. Behind him, Chuck Howdershelt, Kevin Marsh and Greg Tressler collected in a mass of metal that eliminated Howdershelt from the race. Alvaro regained the lead on the restart but before the next lap was complete, Frank Wilson was over the bank in turn one. Duane Moreland and Paul Wilmoth passed Alvaro on lap five and the two battled for the lead until a spin-out by Moreland on lap nine removed him from contention.

Going into the 11th lap, the top four cars were Wilmoth, Gary Dalton, Nolan Dalton and Denny Chamberlain. Out of turn four, Gary Dalton took the lead but a spin-out by Tom Champ put Wilmoth back in front for the restart. Again, out of turn four came the four leaders in one torque-wrenching mass. Chamberlain managed to nose out Wilmoth this time but Jim Pyles violently flipped over turn one before the lap was complete. Strangely, Chamberlain and Wilmoth went to the pits while Pyles, uninjured, was helped off the track. Upon restart, Gary Dalton took control and never looked back. Frank Wilson, Sonny Stutler, Denny Chamberlain and Robbie Scott rounded out the top five.

Jerry Haseleu took the Semi-late Feature win in his standard fashion by starting on the pole and tearing up the field. The fight for second, though, remained close throughout the race. Kevin Hamrick, in his best effort this season, did everything necessary to keep Steve Booth from passing. This included avoiding a last lap surge by Booth that had the crowd on its feet. Fourth place went to Danny Hamrick while in the fifth spot was last week's victor, Tim Harsh.

Mike Collett, Thomas Simpson, Tommy Pennington and Larry Speicher put on a fantastic Four-Cylinder Stock feature show. The four cars seemed inseparable until Collett, after leading the entire race by the slimmest margin, relinquished the lead with two laps to go to Speicher. Thomas Simpson squeezed past Collett on the last lap to steal second but Collett held off Mike Simpson for third.

In the UMP Modified feature, Kevin Jones passed Roger Pitzer on lap 12 and held on to win his second of the season ahead of Pitzer and Phil Harris.

In the Pure Stock Feature, Bill Tincher took the lead on lap four and outraced Danny Bismark and points leader John Smith, Jr.

Don't forget, next week, Saturday, August 13, Elkins Motor Speedway will present the Sixth Annual Armstrong Classic. This year, the Armstrong Classic will run in conjunction with the WV Championship Series at Interstate 79 Speedway on Sunday. Each track will award the winner of the Late Model Feature $2,500 and if the same car and driver can take the checkered at both tracks, he'll pocket an extra $1,000. Additional purses to all other classes at both track will also be awarded.

Mourning Dove Season To Open On September 1

The September 1 opening of Maryland's dove season will once again find thousands of hunters standing amid piles of spent shotshells in the near impossible quest for a limit of mourning doves. This year, however, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife Division reminds dove hunters of one important difference: this is the first time that Maryland (along with California, Missouri, and South Dakota) will require all migratory game bird hunters to possess a Migratory Bird Harvest Information Program (HIP) Permit.

The HIP program is aimed at gathering more reliable information about the annual harvest of doves, snipe, rails, woodcock, ducks, geese, and coots. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will survey HIP permittees to: (a) learn how much they hunt; and (b) learn the number of migratory game birds each hunter harvests. State and federal wildlife managers will use this information in making decisions about the conservation of North America's migratory birds. Maryland's participation in HIP will pave the way for implementation of the program throughout the Atlantic flyway, and all states will participate in HIP by 1998.

Maryland hunters can obtain an HIP permit free from any of the more than 300 license agents where hunting licenses are available.

Additionally, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has forwarded to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service its selected dates and bag limits for the other webless migratory game bird hunting seasons -- woodcock, rails, and snipe. The season dates and bag limits were selected by DNR's Wildlife Division within limits established by the USFWS.

The DNR Wildlife Division has also prepared a one-page flyer on Wildlife Management Areas with dove hunting opportunities. This handout is available at 410-974-3195.

Food For Thought

Hot Stuff! Just 1 tsp. of chili powder has 18 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance for vitamin A, in the form of beta carotene. Paprika has even more.

Make pilaf with barley instead of rice for a change; it's richer in flavor--and fiber, too. Stir 1 cup barley into 2 cups boiling chicken broth; cook covered five minutes. Add diced zucchini and yellow squash (one each) and cook until liquid is absorbed. Stir in 1 Tbs. butter.

Black bean corn salsa is a cook-out party favorite. Add half a can of cooked beans (about 3/4 cup) to 2/3 cup corn relish with ¼ cup radishes, thin-sliced, 1½ tsp. lime juice and ¼ tsp. cumin.

Coating fish to fry? Mix cornmeal with flour for extra crunch for the crust. Top with sauteed chopped hazelnuts.

Lewis Siblings To Minister At Loch Lynn Church Of God

Stephen and Erica Lewis, children of Stephen and Diana Lewis, Oakland, will minister through word and song at the Loch Lynn Church of God on Sunday, Aug. 7, at both morning and evening services.

The Lewises have both attended Central Bible College, from where Erica graduated this spring in Christian education administration and youth ministry. She recently completed an internship in Cumberland with the Central Assembly of God youth pastor Dan Nason.

Stephen will return to the college in the fall to continue working on his major in Bible and pastoral ministries. He recently returned home from East St. Louis, Ill., where he completed a summer internship at the Washington Park Assembly of God. He worked with inner-city children there on a daily basis.

The siblings have traveled with the college's Revivaltime Choir for the past three and a half years, and have recorded two albums on which they were both featured soloists.

Sunday service times at the Loch Lynn Church of God are 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Home Tips

ORGANIC ANT CONTROL — For some reason this year, I had a problem with large black ants. They began swarming into our home and we couldn't seem to get rid of them. We bought all kinds of ant baits and traps but nothing worked. Personally, I hate the thought of sprays because of our pets and children. Also, most of the ants were concentrated in the kitchen where I prepare the food. I hated the thought of using chemicals in that room. In despair, my husband and I thought about hiring a professional exterminator.

When I happened to mention this to my father in a phone conversation, he told me to fill a spray bottle with white vinegar. He said whenever I see an ant, spray it directly with the vinegar and spray whatever surface the ants were on. I did exactly that and my father was right. The ants were eliminated and my home was once again bug-free. This sure beats using chemicals and spending money on an exterminator. Thanks, Dad! Diana A., Hopewell Jct., N.Y.

Landfill To Open

waste facility beginning August 15. With a few exceptions, all waste entering the new facility will be weighed and subject to a $20 per ton tipping fee. Glotfelty emphasized that this tipping fee is by far the lowest in the state of Maryland, where the average tipping fee for waste delivered to landfills is $57 per ton.

Tires will be accepted at the new facility but will be subject to a fee of $2 per passenger tire (up to 16 inches), $10 per truck tire (16-24 inches), and $150 per equipment tire. This fee will be added to the tipping fee for tires that are mixed with other refuse and must be removed from the disposal cell after dumping has occurred. Segregated loads of tires will be assessed only the above charges or may be assessed at a rate of $200 per ton for passenger tires and $150 per ton for truck or equipment tires. Maryland law no longer allows the disposal of tires in landfills. Tires brought to the new facility must therefore be loaded onto trucks and transported to recycling facilities in Frederick and Parkersburg, W.Va., thus resulting in the much higher tipping fees.

White goods, such as refrigerators and freezers, must now be properly vented of their refrigerant gasses prior to ultimate disposal. A separate fee of $10 per unit will therefore be assessed for this type of item brought to the new facility. This fee will help to defray the cost of the venting process.

No tipping fee will be charged for loads of soil or clay that do not contain appreciable amounts of rock, wood, or other contaminants. Determination of whether or not a fee will be assessed for this type of material will be made on a case by case basis.

Fees will be due prior to leaving the facility based on weigh tickets generated for net refuse disposed. Weight will be assessed in 20 pound increments. Upon registration of vehicles and approval of credit, billing on a month basis is available to customers of the new facility. Interested parties may begin signing up for customer billing and registering trucks the week of August 8. There is no charge for this service. For more information concerning automated billing procedures, personnel at the landfill can be reached at 387-0322.

In conjunction with the opening date for the new solid waste facility, work is being completed on many of the county's satellite collection sites. According to Glotfelty, these sites will begin to be staffed as they come on line near the middle of the month. Summer operational hours under consideration at this time are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days per week. While permit stickers will not have to be on vehicles using the sites until late September, they will begin to be sold by the County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling by August 15. The stickers will not expire until December 31, 1995.

Application forms for the permit stickers will be made available at the various refuse sites as well as other locations throughout the county. A fee of $20 will be assessed for each household registering a vehicle. If desired, an additional sticker will be issued to a second vehicle owned by the same individual or household member at no additional charge. Each vehicle over the initial two registered by each household for $20 will be subject to an additional $20 fee.

area? Anyone care enough about their own backyard, or is it easier to blame Pres. Clinton since he is being blamed for most things these days?
Think about it, please!
Thank you,
This is my opinion,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

Almost weekly I've read about a sexual assault case on the front page. Most of the crimes were against children or minors.

I am not an expert on the subject, but do know that pornography victimizes women and children, and affects the mind of the one who reads it. A fact that I learned while in law enforcement school is that porn is almost always found in the home of the person who has committed a sex crime. Ted Bundy, who raped and murdered countless women, admitted that he began looking at soft porn as a child, then began looking at hard-core porn as he got older.

Sure, not everyone who uses porn will become a criminal. But how many children are violated, pushed into sex as a teen, or have had their marriages weakened or destroyed because of it?

If you're tired of reading about those cases in the paper, if you're afraid your children will be exposed to it, then get involved with the fight against pornography. Locally, there are several stores that rent porn videos, (one store has over 400 titles), and there are stores that sell the magazines. Stop patronizing these shops. Tell the owners why, then shop at the stores that don't carry porn!

You may say "I cannot make a difference." But together we can! Example: a nationwide boycott of a large chain began three years ago, because one of its subsidiaries sells porn. The corporation's last financial statement showed a substantial loss of income and they may close 100s of stores.

If you need help there are addition hotlines and organizations that can help your club or church start an anti-porn task force. Think about yourself, think about your children, and think about what you can do to help stop the spread of pornography in our community.

Thank you,
Lisa Baker

School Targeted

for the network center, as opposed to Northern at this time.

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced that the distance learning will soon be a reality for the three schools as a result of a grant offered by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The state, on behalf of the Regional Education Services Association (RESA) of Appalachian Maryland, has received approval for funding the Western Maryland Public Telecommunications Project.

Funding is set at $417,720 with $245,750 awarded by ARC. The balance of the project is to be covered by local matching contributions valued at $172,000. Coviello reported that part of the local portion will be funded through another ARC grant, and part will be in the form of services rendered and facilities provided.

The Bell Atlantic Company will provide equipment and support services valued at $50,000 for each of the three classrooms. Coviello indicated that this donation includes projectors, monitors, and the fiber optics line.

The new network at Southern will be tied to installations at Allegany and Garrett community colleges, Hagerstown Junior College, and a proposed site at Frostburg State University.

The three new sites should be operational in the fall with regularly scheduled programming to begin sometime in the late fall or early winter.

The Western Maryland Public School Telecommunications project is a joint venture of the public and private sectors and is underwritten by the three participating school systems, Bell Atlantic Telephone Company, RESA, and ARC.

Paugh Seeking Seat On County Bd. of Education

Robert L. Paugh, Oakland, has announced his candidacy for the District 3 seat on the Garrett County Board of Education.

Paugh is retired from the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration (DMV) with 33 years of service as both a driver's license examiner and as a supervisor in charge of the driver's license division for Garrett and Allegany counties.

A 1946 graduate of Kitzmiller High School, he is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, and served the state of Maryland as a school bus inspector and as a park ranger at Deep Creek State Park.

Blood Donors In Friendsville To Get "Pre-Check"

Blood donors who come to the Friday, August 18, American Red Cross Bloodmobile at the Friendsville fire hall from noon to 6 p.m. will introduced to Pre-Check, a new Red Cross procedure to reinforce donor screening steps already taken to provide the safest possible blood supply for patients in need.

According to Barbara Sojak, Donor Resources field representative of the Johnstown Region, Pre-Check screens prospective donors with known social security numbers before they donate to identify more quickly than previously possible donors who are deferred for health reasons and those who have not waited the required 56 days since their previous donation.

"Pre-Check does not take the place of the required health history screening, but by screening out at the bloodmobile donors who through record checks done later at the regional blood center would be found to have been ineligible to donate, Pre-Check will help prevent the collection of unusable blood, and thus enhance the safety of the blood supply, and protect the health of our donors," Sojak explained.

She added that Pre-Check pilot studies conducted by several Red Cross blood regions indicate that the Red Cross's implementation of Pre-Check may add about one minute to the length of the blood donation process, currently estimated at about one hour and 15 minutes.

"Pre-Check was enthusiastically approved by the vast majority of donors who participated in the pilot studies, and has also been received favorably by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which provides regulatory oversight to our nation's blood centers," Sojak noted.

"We trust that Friendsville donors will realize that although there continue to be changes in how we manage the donation process, one thing hasn't changed: their blood saves lives. Donors of all types are needed to donate on August 18," she said.

She also reminded prospective donors to provide their Red Cross blood donor card, or some other form of positive identification, when they come to donate blood in order to reduce the potential for duplication of or discrepancies in donors' records, and thus help to further ensure blood product safety.

Forms of acceptable identification include driver's license, employment or school identification, voter registration card, and many other forms of identification that include a social security number or birth date. Sojak encouraged prospective donors with questions about their eligibility should contact the Johnstown Region's Nursing Department at 1-800-542-5663.

The Creator, when planning the world, gave order to our lives...a rhythm as old as time. In the third chapter of Ecclesiastes, we are told there is "...a time for every matter under heaven; a time to be born, and a time to die; ...a time to weep, and a time to laugh; ...a time to seek and a time to lose; ...a time to keep silence, and a time to speak; ..."

God has also given us a time to worship. "Six days you shall labor; but the seventh day is a Sabbath to the Lord your God" (Exodus 20:9-10).

Our Heavenly Father knew that though toil was good, we would need to observe a regular time each week to rest our bodies and strengthen our faith by communing with Him. Begin the renewal of your spirit this Sabbath with the Creator, for it has been said, "Time and the tides wait for no man."

You should notice a label that appears on some of your prescriptions. It states, "CAUTION, Federal law prohibits the transfer of this drug to any person other than the patient for whom it was prescribed."

There is a good reason for this caution. Today's medicines can be very specific for a particular illness and could even be harmful if they were taken for something else. Same symptoms do not necessarily mean the same illness. Only a physician can determine the cause of an illness and what a person should take for it. THE BIBLE SPEAKS

JUBILEE ANYONE?
August 7, 1994

Background Scripture:
Leviticus25:8-10; 23-28, 39-42
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 3:5-9

The Old Testament Concept of the year of jubilee is one I wish Christians had borrowed, as we borrowed so much else, from Judaism. To the best of my knowledge, I think it is celebrated at times in the Roman Catholic Church, but I confess I know little about that observance.

The year of jubilee was based upon the psychology of human nature. Just as God knew that the people of Israel needed a Sabbath so that human life would not be one long succession of undifferentiated days, so He knew that there must be special seasons in the life of the human soul. Life cannot afford to be all work and no Sabbath and correspondingly, life cannot be all Sabbath and no work. There needs to be a rhythm of life between contrasts--day and night, work and celebration.

One of the essential elements of life is celebration. We need to work hard and diligently and then we need to celebrate. Life in the Old Testament community is a constant cycle of labor and celebration. Today that is still one of the great motivations behind worship--we worship to celebrate the grace of our Lord.

A SPECIAL TIME

The jubilee was also intended to be a time when wrongs were righted. Not that they were not to be righted at all times, but that at the time of jubilee a special, extra intentional effort was to be made. Note that all the things God requires of His people in the year of jubilee were designed to be beneficial to the life of the people: Hebrew slaves were to be released, bondage was to be terminated, liberty proclaimed, and the year was to be sanctified or set apart for special holy works.

Actually, the word "holy" means something set apart. It is true that all of life should be filled with our awareness and response to God, but there is also a need for special times of awareness and response. At Christmas we celebrate God's incarnation in the person of Jesus Christ and most people are moved to be a bit more loving, a bit more generous, a bit more sympathetic to the needs of others. Christmas sermons urge us to extend the Christmas spirit into the other 365 days of the year.

SPIRITUAL SEASONS

Yet, few, if any of us, ever live our lives on a steady, unwavering plane of spirituality. Just as our physical vitality ebbs and flows and our mental acuity has peaks and valleys, so the spirit varies in its intensity, minute by minute, day by day, season by season. So we need special times, jubilees, to call us once again to our highest level of spiritual awareness and resolve. We need to interrupt our work with celebration so that we can return to it with new understanding, resolve and vitality.

The jubilee/Sabbath is also a time of faith. "And if you say, 'What shall we eat in the seventh year, if we may not sow or gather in our crop?' I will command my blessing upon you in the sixth year, so that it will bring forth fruit for three years" (25:20,21). Just as the people of Israel in the desert had to trust God to provide for them on the Sabbath, so they had to trust in His providence during the Sabbath year and the jubilee. It took an act of faith to refrain from planting and harvesting in that seventh year. All they had from God was a promise--could they live on that? Can we?

Is there provision for Sabbath and jubilee in your life? A time when you turn aside from your daily work and preoccupation to celebrate the goodness of God, to return to your roots, to see and respond to the needs of others, to remember that everything in this world belongs to God and is only temporarily ours?

Jubilee anyone?

COVER STORY

Apples, oranges, soap and sun in 'Malibu'

BY JEFF PLASS

Joanna Cassidy

Beautiful people in beautiful places with big-time problems and lots of double-dealing ... hmmnn? Sound familiar?

"Hotel Malibu," CBS' answer to Fox's prime-time soaps "Models Inc." and "Melrose Place," premiered Aug. 4 and airs Thursdays.

The drama centers around the daily goings-on at the luxurious Hotel Malibu, owned and operated (for the time being, at least) by the Mayfield family: widowed matriarch Eleanor (Joanna Cassidy), unscrupulous son Jack (John Dye) and doe-eyed do-gooder Stephanie (Cheryl Pollak).

Last week's pilot episode puts all the cards on the table, introducing viewers to the Mayfields, the financial dilemma confronting the hotel and the rest of the show's ensemble cast.

"You know what it is?" Cassidy says of the series' premiere, "Lynn and Bernie (executive producers Lynn Latham and Bernard Lechowick) and the network have decided to just punch it up in these (first) six shows. To let you have it, full force.

"And then, if we develop an audience, we can, sort of, back off a little bit. But you're gonna get it all. Everything you can imagine, you'll get."

Basically, the pilot unfolds like this: Eleanor had inherited the hotel following the death of her husband. Her son, Jack, eager to sell the hotel and get his hands on his inheritance, has secretly been facilitating the hotel's decline.

Between double-dealing with a prospective buyer and greasing a local politician in order to get a permit, Jack hardly notices that his sister Stephanie, or "Stevie," has returned home.

Fresh from quitting her career as an advertising executive (she refused to promote a brand of cigarette), Stevie begins investigating how the hotel could be losing money when business seems to be booming.

Stevie gets trapped in an elevator with head bartender and all-around good guy, Harry Radzimski (Harry O'Reilly), setting the table for the show's first romance.

Also in the first episode, viewers meet Melinda Lopez (Jennifer Lopez), an assistant bartender who suspects racism and sexism around every corner; Melinda's over-protective father, Sal; and Harry's good-hearted, but ne'er-do-well, sister, Nancy.

While Cassidy concedes that comparisons between "Hotel Malibu" and the Fox dramas are unavoidable, she manages to tap dance around the tag of "prime-time soap opera."

"I think that inevitably we're going to be put into that (category)," she says. "I would avoid saying 'soap' at all. I think we're like a long, unfolding novel. I suppose you could have called 'Upstairs, Downstairs' like a soap, too."

And as far as comparisons go between "Malibu" and "Models":

"We're far more sophisticated," Cassidy states. "We don't take ourselves seriously. I think ... you know I'm gonna sound really snotty about this ... I think we're much better.

"I think that the acting is better. The scenes are better. The writing is better. I mean, the whole deal is 100 percent better. It's apples and oranges."

Alfred Hitchcock

Q: Was the theme song for the "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" series written specifically for that show? –Leigha Hardin, Shepherd, Mont.

A: It was an arrangement of a classical piece called "Funeral March of a Marionette" by Charles Gounod.

Q: Can you please tell me the name of the comedy that starred Debbie Reynolds, Fred Astaire and Tab Hunter? Is it on video? –Lansing Anderson, Winchester, Va.

A: First, I want readers to know that your complete letter provided me with a wealth of additional information that I cut for length. You're looking for "The Pleasure of His Company," which unfortunately is not on video.

Q: Is Sean Astin ("Rudy") the son of Patty Duke and John Astin? –Lucy R. Martin, Fremont, Calif.

A: Yes.

Q: I hope "The Byrds of Paradise" is just on hiatus and not permanently canceled. –Nancy F. Johnston, Geneva, N.Y.

A: It's gone, the victim of very poor ratings. Sorry.

Q: Please settle a bet: Who sang the title song from "High Noon"? I say Tex Ritter, my brother says Frankie Laine. –Frank Barrese, Pawtucket, R.I.

A: If you want to get technical, you're both wrong. There was no "title song." But if you're asking who sang "Do Not Forsake Me, Oh My Darlin'," that was Ritter.

Q: Please answer a question for my husband and his brother. Did Sylvester Stallone start his career on "Peyton Place" as Norman Harrington, old man Peyton's grandson? –The Wright Family, Trenton, N.J.

A: That was Christopher Connelly as Norman.

Q: In 1980 or '81, there was a Christmas special on PBS called "She Loves Me," part of the "Great Performances" series. It starred Robin Ellis and Gemma Craven. Is it available on video? –S.R., Emerald Isle, N.C.

A: I came across a tape of this (originally BBC) production while I was in London a couple of years ago (European tapes are not compatible with our VCRs), but it never has been released domestically.

Q: Rita Hayworth was one of my all-time favorites. Why are none of her movies shown on TV or videos? What was the name of the remake of "Rain" she did? –Anne M. Thorpe, Fremont, Calif.

A: Huh? More than two dozen of Hayworth's films are abundantly available on video, including "Miss Sadie Thompson," the movie you asked about. They also air frequently on cable channels such as American Movie Classics.

One-act teen tragedy on HBO's 'P.O.W.E.R.'

BY JOHN HARMON

Young, aspiring drug dealers beware.

That's the blunt and bitter message sent by "P.O.W.E.R.: The Eddie Matos Story" airing on HBO Tuesday, Aug. 9.

This half-hour biographical film is based on the life of Eddie Matos, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., who became a drug dealer at age 14 and was shot in the back and paralyzed by the age of 17.

While the film aims to deter teen-agers from a life of drugs and guns, parents should be aware that "P.O.W.E.R." delivers its message realistically.

Street life is vividly portrayed with some violent scenes and a few instances of explicit language. It is, however, this realism that packs the punch and helps send a convincing message to young persons interested in drug dealing careers.

Alexis Cruz is convincing as Matos, the book smart kid who decides to make the grade with the help of cocaine rather than the classroom.

Cruz musters up just the right amount of attitude and street savvy in a performance that effectively tackles the teen-age problems of peer pressure and emotional family ties.

"P.O.W.E.R.," which stands for "People Opening the World's Eyes to Reality," was started by the real-life Matos in the quadriplegic ward of Goldwater Memorial Hospital in Roosevelt Island, N.Y. The group visits high schools to warn students about the dangers of drugs and guns.

At the end of the film, appearing in his wheelchair with the help of life-support, Matos sends a personal message.

"You are responsible for your life. Don't make the same choices I made. Don't do guns and don't do drugs."

Alexis Cruz stars in the biographical film, "P.O.W.E.R.: The Eddie Matos Story," a tragic account of the rise and fall of a teen-age drug dealer on HBO Tuesday.

Harry O'Reilly and Cheryl Pollak star as Harry Radzimski and Stephanie Mayfield, head bartender and owner's daughter, respectively, of the "Hotel Malibu," Thursdays on CBS.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Easy to avoid talking to USA's 'Stranger'

BY JOHN HARMON

Pierce Brosnan

"Don't Talk to Strangers," premiering on USA Network Thursday, Aug. 11, has a strange bad guy and an even stranger plot.

Pierce Brosnan jumps into the role of antagonist (before he dons his 007 "Licence to Kill" badge as James Bond on the big screen) as a vindictive, money-hungry schemer in this anything-but-suspenseful suspense film.

Shanna Reed co-stars as Jane, a mother who wins a court case to gain sole custody of her son Eric (Keegan Macintosh). This infuriates her ex-husband, Bonner, (Terry O'Quinn), an alcoholic cop with a short temper.

As Jane begins to put her life back together, she embarks on a whirlwind romance with a charming gentleman named Patrick Brody (Brosnan). Before you can say "divorce court," Jane is remarried and plans to move away from her annoying ex-husband.

While driving cross country to their new home, mother and son realize they are being trailed and suspect a certain angry, whiskey-drinking ex-husband may be following.

Tragedy strikes when little Eric disappears from a roadside motel. Enter an unconvincing Brosnan, who has trouble carrying off the sudden metamorphosis from kind husband to cold-hearted kidnapper and actual father of Eric.

Confused? There's more. Viewers find out that Bonner bought Eric from a drug-addicted mother in the hospital after Jane had her fifth miscarriage.

It turns out that Eric's real grandfather, a wealthy Chicago "businessman," wants to buy his grandson back. And who better to track the boy down than his real father, Patrick, who stands to earn $5 million.

"Strangers" boasts a highly confusing plot that takes far too many aimless twists and turns. The strength of the film's dialogue can be summed up by Jane's emotional speech when she confronts the Chicago grandfather about Eric's plight.

"You wanted to buy him like ... like a puppy. People died because you wanted your puppy." Enough said.

Elsewhere, Anne Archer and James Woods star in "Jane's House" on CBS Sunday, Aug. 7. Fox airs "12:01" with Martin Landau on Monday, Aug. 8. Kenny Rogers joins Ann Jillian in "MacShayne: Winner Takes All" on NBC Friday, Aug. 12. Also on NBC, Shanna Reed pops up again as a mother fighting to protect her child in "Moment of Truth: Stalking Back." The drama airs Saturday, Aug. 13.

Fox promises new look for pro football coverage

Terry Bradshaw

Fox is going to great lengths to prove its commitment to quality NFL football coverage.

The network is heralding its first season of NFL coverage with what it calls "the biggest marketing campaign in the history of sports."

"We have run more promos more often in prime time than for any other sport in network history," says Tracy Dolgin, executive vice president of marketing.

Fox begins its NFL coverage Friday, Aug. 12, in San Francisco, with the 49ers playing host to the Denver Broncos in a preseason matchup.

Ex-CBS broadcasters Pat Summerall and John Madden will call the plays for Fox. Terry Bradshaw, James Brown, Howie Long, Jimmy Johnson and Lonnie Lardner comprise the Fox "NFL Sunday" crew.

The on-air relationship between Bradshaw and Johnson, however, could prove to be a bit rough due to Bradshaw criticizing Johnson for missing preseason meetings in Anaheim, Calif.

In addition to the ongoing media blitz, Fox plans to hold viewers and entice new ones by enhancing the quality of coverage.

"Last year, Pat Summerall and John Madden's team usually worked with seven cameras, four tape machines and one super slo-mo (slow-motion camera) each week," Executive Producer Ed Goren says. At Fox, they'll be working with 12 cameras, eight tape machines and two super slo-mos each week.

"That's basically the same equipment they had in January at the NFC championship game. So I guess you could say every week is a championship week at Fox."

Goran says audio equipment also has been upgraded, and all games will be broadcast in stereo.

Another facet to Fox's facelift of NFL coverage is graphics, and Fox Sports President David Hill says much attention was given to them. He says the emergence of interactive television and the growing demand for such technologies drove the effort.

"We've spent a lot of time working on them and refining them," Hill says. "And the work you see there is still in progress, because they won't be finalized ever. Graphics should never be finished."

Fox will air two other preseason games: Friday, Aug. 19, as the Green Bay Packers visit the New Orleans Saints; and Saturday, Aug. 27, when the New York Giants take on the Chicago Bears at Soldier Field.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Discovery Channel unravels 'Watergate'

President Richard Nixon

When Richard Nixon died only weeks ago, news organizations around the world bent over backwards not to speak ill of the dead.

Now, virtually 20 years to the day since the beleaguered Nixon resigned his presidency, The Discovery Channel presents the American premiere of "Watergate," a definitive examination of one of the nation's darkest hours.

The five-hour BBC coproduction, which airs Sunday-Wednesday, Aug. 7-10, uses 55 exclusive interviews – including the last TV conversation with Nixon White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman – and never-before-revealed information to unravel decades-old mysteries.

•Excerpts from the Nixon tapes, broadcast here for the first time, in which the president and his advisers plot to conceal evidence from the FBI.

•A secret memo, never before known to exist, explicitly indicating that Haldeman had prior knowledge of the plan that led to Watergate. "If Haldeman knew about this, there is no doubt in my mind that Richard Nixon knew about this," says former White House Counsel John Dean.

•Haldeman's revelations, based on his extensive notes, about how the inner circle plotted the burglary.

•Previously unbroadcast clips from the 1977 Nixon marathon interview with David Frost.

For viewers who want to pick and choose their Watergate revelations, here's a breakdown:

Sunday: "Break-In," which examines events leading up to the burglary. A second episode, "Cover-Up," immediately follows, showing how the White House paid hush money, shredded documents and intimidated witnesses to conceal the staff's link with the burglars.

Monday: "Scapegoat," the series' most riveting hour, shows then-White House Counsel Dean as he agonizes about testifying before federal prosecutors and sets the wheels of Nixon's downfall in motion.

Tuesday: "Massacre" looks at Nixon's ham-handed and ultimately disastrous firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Wednesday: "Impeachment" chronicles Nixon's final, agonizing struggle to hold on.

"Watergate" is a monumental achievement for The Discovery Channel, a cable service whose name has never before seemed more apt.

SOAP TALK

'Days' needs to give Billie her due

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Marcy Walker

Dear Candace: I have watched "Days of Our Lives" since I was a little girl, and you could say I am quite a fan. I never miss an episode.

I was reading your article about Kristian Alfonso (Hope, "Days") and I would like to say that I think it would be great if Hope and John (Drake Hogestyn) got together. He saved her life, and they make a good match.

I would have liked Hope to get back with Bo (Robert Kelker-Kelly), but I feel so sorry for poor Billie (Lisa Rinna). She never had anything, and then she finds the man of her dreams only to lose him to his supposedly dead wife. It isn't fair. I also happen to think that Billie and Bo are great together.

Little Shawn Douglas (Scott Groff) will be happy to have his mother back, but he has also grown to love Billie. –Misty Valentine, Reed Springs, Mo.

Dear Reader: The writers and producers at "Days" were very bright when they brought Alfonso's character back to life. Rather than immediately putting her together with Bo, they are waiting to see if Alfonso and Kelker-Kelly share that small-screen chemistry that Alfonso and Peter Reckell (ex-Bo) had. They are doing this by making it seem as though there is a possibility that she could be one of Stefano's tricks and giving her amnesia so that she cannot remember who she is.

There is a good chance that Bo and Billie could still marry, but who knows? Viewers will have to wait and see if Alfonso and Kelker-Kelly can recapture that soap opera super-couple status that Bo and Hope shared in the past.

Dear Candace: Could you please give me the address where I can write to Marcy Walker (Tangie, "Guiding Light")?

For as long as I can remember, people have been telling me that I look like her.

Now that I work in a grocery store I hear it at least once a day. I would like to write her and let her know that she has a twin in the universe. –Kerry Wright, Sanford, N.C.

Dear Reader: You are one lucky woman to look like Walker. She is one of the most beautiful women on television, and popular with her fans. You can write to her C/O Guiding Light, CBS, 51 W. 52nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Storm Damage Alert Issued By Dr. Brown

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has issued a storm damage warning to Maryland's citizens.

"Due to the severe weather our area has been experiencing, we want to remind everyone that those pursuing outdoor recreational activities should at all times remain alert to changing weather patterns," Dr. Brown said. "Boaters and swimmers should be especially aware that these storms leave water levels high, currents unpredictable, and tree damage resulting in additional debris in the waterways."

There have been reports of scattered tree damage in a number of counties, although not as extensive as the damage experienced during the winter ice storms. DNR Forest Service personnel are consulting with local jurisdictions and utility companies to assess the damage. Property owners needing tree care services are urged to contact qualified companies which are licensed by the Forest Service.

For information on water conditions or to report a waterway emergency, the public should contact the Natural Resource Police at (800) 628-9944 or (410) 974-3181.

For information on licensed tree care companies or how to care for a damaged tree, the public may contact the DNR Forest Service at (410) 974-3776.

"LOVE BEARS" DONATED TO MSP - The ladies of Oakland Church of Christ recently undertook a project to make stuffed bears to donate to the local state police barracks and other agencies and organizations to be distributed to small children as the need arises. Troopers will carry several "Love Bears" in their vehicles to be given to a child to hug at a time they may be frightened, upset or hurt. The ladies of the church worked diligently for several months to supply the bears to agencies and organizations that will, in turn, distribute them as needed, according to Laura Holley, spokesperson for the ladies group. Representatives from the church recently presented the bears to the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry. Pictured above, from left to right, are Beverly Smith, Zac Holley, Laura Holley, Vanessa Holley (front), Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, and 1st Sgt. D.E. Stanton. Grant Received For Homemaker Program At GCC

Garrett Community College has received notification of the receipt of a new grant from the Department of Human Resources, Community Service Administration, Women's Services Program to offer specialized services to displaced homemakers over the age of 30. The grant, amounting to $100,000 over a five-year period, to be funded yearly in the amount of $20,000, will be coordinated from the New Horizons office, according to Barbara Frey, director of New Horizons and recipient of the new grant award. The new grant will be called "New Dimensions."

According to Mrs. Frey, the definition of a displaced homemaker for the purpose of this grant is: A displaced homemaker is an individual who is over 30 years old; has performed as a homemaker for his or her family in the home; is not gainfully employed or is underemployed; has had, or would have, difficulty finding employment; and has depended on the income of a family member and has lost part or all of that income as a result of separation, divorce, or death or disability of that family member; or has depended on public assistance as the parent or AFDC specified relative of a dependent child and is no longer eligible for that assistance.

Program services will include the following for displaced homemakers: (1) Counseling designed to assist the displaced homemaker in entering or reentering the job market; (2) Information and referral to other services and resources available; (3) Career Path Program which is an intensive workshop program designed to assist participants in identifying their skills, setting goals, developing coping skills, updating occupational information, and learning job search techniques; (4) Informational workshops such as: (a) Legal Rights; (b) Health Issues; (c) Money Management; (5) Discussion groups on such issues as divorce or separation, support, grief, return to the work force, return to school; (6) Job-training opportunities designed to provide or improve skills and experiences necessary for employment; (7) Employment assistance which includes career counseling, job development, and placement.

Training allowances will be provided to approved participants whose income levels are such that they would have difficulty maintaining a home and providing the expenses necessary for training.

LABEL IT - GOOD READING

There's more "food for thought" arriving daily on supermarket shelves thanks to the introduction of a new food label. New government regulations ensure that soon almost all processed, packaged foods will have a "Nutrition Facts" label. The new labels will appear gradually as products produced as of May 8, 1994, enter the marketplace. This is good news because the new label makes it easier for you to select the variety of foods you need to build healthful diets for yourself and your family.

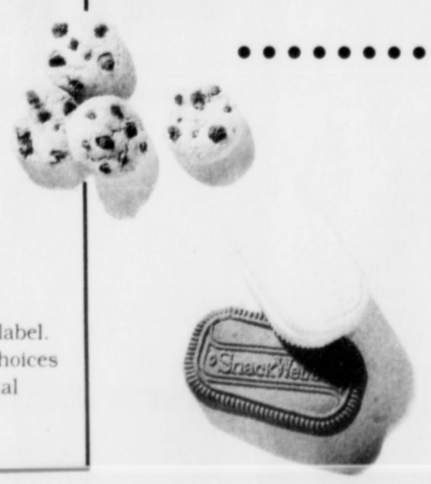
Check out the new "Nutrition Facts" label pictured here. You'll notice several features that can help you in the decision-making process. For example, similar foods now have similar serving sizes. All of the nutrition information on the label is provided "per serving," so this helps you compare foods and choose the products that best fit your individual needs and tastes.

An updated list of required nutrients includes the ones thought to be most important for today's consumers. By choosing many different foods each day, you can get the essential nutrients needed for health without getting too many calories or too much fat — especially saturated fat — cholesterol or sodium.

The term "Daily Values," is an important newcomer to the food label. Daily Values are reference numbers, set by the government, that reflect up-to-date nutrition recommendations. Percent (%) Daily Value shows how a food fits into a 2,000-calorie reference diet. Your own nutrient needs may be less than or more than the Daily Values listed on the food label.

Some products are described as "light," "low-fat," high-fiber," etc. These terms can only be used if the food meets strict government definitions. A "reduced-fat" cracker, for instance, must have at least 25% less fat than an equal portion of the food to which it is compared.

These are just a few changes you'll find on the "Nutrition Facts" label. Get started on some good reading. Learn to mix and match your choices to get the nutrients you need and the foods you enjoy. It's your total diet over time that really contributes to your good health!



Community Team Holds Successful Bike Rodeos

The Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Team has spent many hours of the 1994 spring season organizing bicycle safety rodeos in various communities throughout the area. Four successful bicycle rodeos have already been completed during the months of May, June, and July in the Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, Crellin, and Accident areas, and plans are underway for four other similar events, according to Joelle Plauger, bicycle safety project coordinator.

"The safety rodeos incorporate bike inspections, safety presentations, and helmet use all in one two-hour event, and bring together the Community Outreach Team, community planning groups, local businesses, and student and community volunteers to promote local bicycle safety," Plauger said.

Each event begins with registration and free bicycle inspections for all participants. Plauger said Bryan Glotfelty and Steve Green from High Mountain Sports at Deep Creek Lake have donated their time and support to the events by providing these inspections at both the Loch Lynn and Crellin bike rodeos. Following the inspections, all participants tackle 13 obstacle courses designed to test the skills necessary for safe bicycle riding. Riders practice starting, stopping, balancing, and controlling their bicycles, while showing appropriate hand signals and obeying all rules of the roads.

"The courses are designed with safety, skill, and fun in mind, with some areas representing intersections, and other areas shaped like figure eights," Plauger said. "All rodeos are held at school or community park sites, away from traffic and pedestrians, to avoid any safety hazards for the riders participating."

At all of the bicycle safety rodeos, riders are required to wear bicycle helmets. Any rider who arrives without a helmet is given the opportunity to purchase one at a low cost. The cost of helmets is based on a sliding-fee scale, depending on the number of members in a household and the amount of annual income earned.

At the conclusion of each rodeo, all riders receive participation certificates and free information on bicycle safety.

"Local community planning groups have provided refreshments and volunteers for all the events we've had so far," stated Plauger. "These groups, along with other local organizations, will continue to be a support system for us as we plan our future safety rodeos."

Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Team is encouraging any local students obtaining volunteer service hours to sign up for the set up and organization of the upcoming bicycle rodeos. Rodeos scheduled for the remainder of the summer include: Friendsville Rodeo -- Friendsville Elementary School, Tuesday, August 2, 6-8 p.m.; and Grantsville Rodeo -- Grantsville Community Park, Monday, August 8, 6-8 p.m.; and Oakland's Rodeo -- Broadford Lake Park, Saturday, August 27, 3-5 p.m. A rodeo for students at the Route 40 School is being planned for September, Plauger said.

This series of community bicycle safety rodeos are part of a mini-grant that was awarded to the health department by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Injury Prevention program. More information is available by calling 334-8111, ext 248.

LEARNING BICYCLE SAFETY - The Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Team has recently staged four "bicycle rodeos" in the local area in an effort to teach riders about bike safety. Several more rodeos have been planned - see story for dates and locations. Instructors Kathy Lilley and Dusty Stanton are pictured above at the Loch Lynn rodeo, and Teresa and Elizabeth White are shown below at Kitzmiller as they tackle one of the many obstacle courses offered at the event.

Phone-A-Thon Yields $7,300 In ACS Pledges

The American Cancer Society has announced that nearly $7,300 was pledged by local residents during a recent phone-a-thon held in July to benefit both the Allegany and Garrett county units.

Pledge forms have been mailed to all residents who pledged a donation during the phone-a-thon. The local American Cancer Society office encourages prompt response so as to save the organization additional postage costs. Money raised will continue the many education, patient service, and research programs of the ACS.

"We as an organization are truly blessed to have such tremendous support from the communities we serve. We were unable to do a door-to-door campaign this year, so we appreciate the response to our phone-a-thon efforts. Without public financial support, we could not continue our mission." stated Becky Harvey, president of the Allegany County Unit.

"Financial support from our community makes our volunteer efforts possible; together, we can all make a difference." added Susan Athey-Oxford, president of the Garrett County Unit.

Both Ms. Athey-Oxford and Ms. Harvey encourage local residents to actively volunteer or financially support the American Cancer Society. To join the ACS volunteer team, persons may call Cindy Kelley-Haywood at 301-722-2145.

THE SHOCKING TRUTH!
Man Risks Life Cleaning Pool Under Power Lines.

"Swimming pool surroundings can turn hazardous when aluminum cleaning tools and overhead electric lines come into contact."

Please, please don't locate your pool near or under an overhead electric line or next to a utility pole. Remember, overhead electric lines are not insulated.

Long-handled aluminum pool cleaning apparatus can add six feet to your height as you walk and work around your backyard pool. Such equipment can easily touch an overhead electric wire causing an instant fatality.

Before installing any type of pool, in-ground or above-ground, be sure to call Potomac Edison's toll-free customer service number (1-800-654-3317). Ask about rules and regulations concerning safe swimming pool installation. In most areas, there are also local codes governing swimming pools.

A little common sense can go a long way toward making outdoor summer activities safer for everyone. Never fly model airplanes or kites near overhead power lines. Always use caution to avoid power lines with ladders, scaffolding or other equipment. Never go near or touch a downed power line.

IMPROVEMENTS AT DEEP CREEK WILL REQUIRE TEMPORARY LOWERING OF LAKE'S WATER LEVEL

Penelec, owner of Deep Creek Lake and the Deep Creek Hydroelectric Station, will begin making improvements this month at the lake and power station.

This work will require the lake to be drawn down to lower-than-normal levels in September and October.

Work to repair the lake's primary spillway, a structure that helps control the flow of excess water from the lake, began in mid-July and will continue through November.

In addition, Penelec plans to build two water-control structures, a flow bypass and a tailrace weir, near the station — measures designed to enhance the fishery in the Youghiogheny River. The flow bypass will help maintain water flow in the Youghiogheny during low-water times.

The tailrace weir will improve the oxygen content of water discharged from the plant by aerating the water as it splashes through the W-shaped concrete structure.

Work on the flow bypass and tailrace weir is set to begin in October and is expected to extend into November.

Work on all three projects will require the lake's water level to be lowered. The water level will be lowered by four feet, from an elevation of 2,458 feet on Labor Day to an elevation of 2,454 feet on Oct. 3. At or near the lower elevation, boaters may experience some inconveniences.

Boat owners are advised to take the necessary docking precautions before the water level is reduced. Unattended boats could become stranded. After Oct. 3, the lake's water level will be uncontrolled as a result of a temporary shut-down of the power plant. The water level could rise rapidly in the event of heavy rainfall.

The relatively rapid drawdown will provide frequent white-water boating conditions on the Youghiogheny River from Sept. 5 through Oct. 3 as water from the lake is released into the river. There will be no release of water to the river from Oct. 3 through November because the hydroelectric plant will be shut down.

(Questions regarding Penelec's projects at Deep Creek should be directed to David Clossin, (814) 533-8738.)

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

FLOOD WATERS wreaked havoc in the town of Kitzmiller on March 29, 1924, damaging buildings and causing furniture to float right out into the streets. The photo, which was made into a postcard, is the property of Laura Belle Harvey and is published here courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. The GCHS Museum, located along Center Street in Oakland, is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will also be open Saturday afternoons from noon to 4 p.m. during the month of August and on the first two Saturdays of September, according to Beth Friend, curator. Admission is free.

Janet Bernard Named Garrett Realtor Of Year

The Garrett County Board of REALTORS has announced the selection of Janet L. Bernard as REALTOR of the Year for Garrett County. The selection was announced recently at the Board of REALTOR's annual Crab Feast by Ruth Huebner, 1993 REALTOR of the Year for Garrett County.

The REALTOR of the Year award is one of the top two honors granted each year by the Garrett County Board of REALTORs. The award recognizes a member who has been active in the organization on local, state, and national levels, who exemplifies the REALTOR Spirit and upholds the REALTOR Code of Ethics in his or her business dealings, and who has made significant contributions to the local civic community.

Bernard has contributed her time and talents since 1967 when she entered the real estate industry. She was instrumental in the formation of the Garrett County Board of REALTORs and the Multiple Listing Service. For each of the past eight years, she has served as either a director or as an officer of the Board, and was elected president in 1986 and again in 1993. Among other committee assignments, she has chaired the Strategic Planning and New Member Orientation committees, and participated in the Professional Standards Committee.

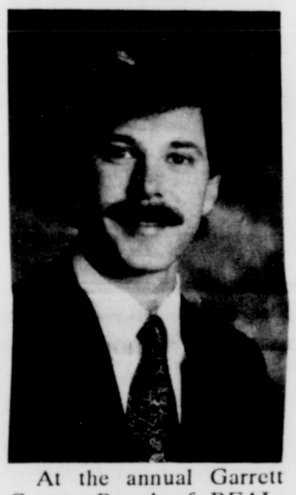
As an agent with Garrettland Realty, Bernard became a member of the Millionaire Club, and later became sales manager for Garrettland Realty. Until last year, Bernard handled the property management division for Garrettland Realty. She said she "received particular satisfaction" from handling housing complexes for the elderly and thus helping to "provide a quality of life that is so much better than any of them expected or hoped for."

In 1993, Bernard affiliated with A&A Realty Better Homes and Gardens as an associate broker. In January of this year, she also established her own property management company.

Bernard's civic involvement centers around her membership and participation at the Crellin Assembly of God Church, where she has been church secretary, Sunday school teacher, and choir member. She is currently coordinator for the Women's Ministries Group, which has both local and international outreach programs. Additionally, Bernard has been active in the Western Maryland Heart Association. Bernard will represent the Garrett County Board of REALTORs in the state-wide REALTOR of the Year competition at the Maryland Association of REALTORs Convention in Ocean City in September.

She is a native of Garrett County and resides along Glendale Road with her husband, Harland. She has three sons and three granddaughters.

Realtors Name Kight Distinguished Sales Associate



At the annual Garrett County Board of REALTORS Crab Feast, Mary Jo Lyons, 1993 recipient, announced that Harry E. "Ed" Kight had been named 1994 Distinguished Sales Associate. Kight will represent the Garrett County Board of REALTORS in the state-wide competition at the Maryland Association of Realtors Ocean City Convention in September.

Criteria for nomination is established by the National Association of Realtors and nominees are judged on local board activity, recognized outstanding business conduct and accomplishments, REALTOR education, designations, and job knowledge as well as civic activity.

Kight and his wife, Jana, reside in Oakland on Second Street. In addition to being their home, the building is also known as the Oak & Apple Bed & Breakfast, which they own and operate. They have been residents of Garrett County since 1990.

Kight is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, where he serves on the Property Committee.

He received his bachelor's degree from West Virginia University and an MBA from Old Dominion University.

Kight's real estate career began four years ago as a rental agent with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. According to a spokesman for the agency, talents and "obvious good judgment" made him a good candidate to head the department. "He established outstanding rapport with owners and renters and the Rental/Management Department grew rapidly under his leadership," the spokesman said.

"Ed's career in listing and selling real estate has been equally impressive. In a very short time he has become one of the leaders in his office. He quickly develops rapport with and gains trust of clients and customers. He is highly respected by his fellow agents," added the spokesman.

Kight is currently serving as treasurer of the Multiple Listing Service and co-chairs the Garrett County Board of REALTORS Budget and Finance Committee. He is pursuing his Graduate Realtors Institute (GRI) designation.

Community Colleges Serving Most Students

Community colleges have become higher education institutions of choice for most Marylanders, according to the Student Outcome and Achievement Report (SOAR) recently released by the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

The report showed that two thirds of the 1992 Maryland high school graduates who went to college in Maryland attended a community college for their first year. SOAR covers all public institutions and three independent institutions that provided data for the report: Johns Hopkins University, Western Maryland College and Villa Julie College.

Figures on the number of students requiring remedial courses were also contained in the report. Over one third (36%) of the graduates needed remedial mathematics; 22 percent needed remedial English, and 21% required reading remediation. The need for remediation was greater among students at community colleges that have an open door admissions policy.

Leslie LeAnn Liller and Brenden Clifford Updyke were united in marriage on May 14 at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oakland. The Rev. Rogers Fike performed the double-ring ceremony.

Organist was Linda Wengerd, Oakland. Vocalists were Kathryn Rhodes, Harrisonburg, Va., and Michael Williams, Rhoadesville, Va.

The couple lighted a unity candle, followed by the lighting of side candles by their mothers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Liller, Gillette, Wyo. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dorris "Buzz" Updyke, Oakland.

Escorted to the altar by her father, and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a candlelight ivory satin gown, with a Victorian bodice and high bridal collar. The bodice was heavily encrusted with pearled and sequined Alencon lace. The ornate, single pouf sleeves ended in bridal points. A full circular skirt fell from a Basque waist, and swept to a semi-cathedral train, heavily embellished with beaded appliques and an Alencon beaded lace edge.

The bride wore a candlelight ivory satin hat with floral sprays and a waist-length, double-pouf veil of bridal illusion. Her jewelry consisted of pearl and gold earrings which belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Dallas Havard.

She carried a cascading bouquet of ivory silk roses, lily-of-the-valley, mums, lilacs, fern, burgundy lilies and pearl strands. The flowers were arranged by Mary Lou Stemple of Grandmother's House.

Serving as maid of honor was Michelle Liller, Oakland, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Christa Updyke, Oakland, sister of the groom; Susan VanSlyke, Virginia Beach, Va.; and Ann (Umstot) Drennan, Oakland.

The attendants wore off-the-shoulder emerald green ballerina-length gowns, with wide ivory lace collars, and V-backs with bows. They carried baskets of flowers with ribbons, also created by Grandmother's House.

Christopher Sullivan, Harrisonburg, Va., served as best man. Jamie Brafford, also of Harrisonburg, Tom Swider, Atco, N.J., and Todd Toothman, Oakland, were the groomsmen.

The groom and groomsmen were attired in charcoal grey cutaway tuxedos with tails, grey vests and silver-grey ascots.

Charise Tasker, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a floral dress with burgundy and mauve-colored cabbage roses and greenery. She carried a smaller version of the attendants' baskets.

Mitchell Tasker, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. He wore ivory knickers.

Jamie and Jessica Moore, cousins of the bride, attended the guestbook and distributed programs.

A buffet reception was held at the Will O'the Wisp, under the direction of Martin Heise. A prayer was offered by the Rev. Rogers Fike, and a toast was made by the best man. Decorations were provided by the bride's parents, and Rita Liller and Linda Underwood, aunts of the bride.

A two-tiered burgundy, mauve and white wedding cake was accented with stairs leading to a single-tier side cake and another set of stairs that led to a bottom side cake. The cake was baked by Carolyn Riley, aunt of the bride, and was a gift to the couple.

Photographer was Doug Buckley, and the wedding was videotaped by Carolyn Riley.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, and catered by the church's women's fellowship.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School, and a May graduate of Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., with a bachelor's degree in health science and a minor in home economics. She is currently employed at Fareway's Restaurant, McGaheysville, Va. She plans to attend Eastern Mennonite College for nursing this fall.

The groom is also a graduate of Southern High and Bridgewater College. He received his bachelor's degree in business administration, economics and a concentration in accounting. He is employed at Spanky's Restaurant and Deli, as assistant manager.

The bride was guest of honor at several showers -- one hosted by Ann (Umstot) Drennan, and surprise showers hosted by the Oak Park Church of the Brethren Women's Fellowship, and Susan VanSlyke and Kristin Rohdenburg, friends of the bride.

Following a honeymoon trip to Williamsburg and Virginia Beach, Va., the couple established residence in Massanutten Village, McGaheysville, Va.

Farm Bureau Asks Congress To Clarify Pesticide Policy

The American Farm Bureau Federation said today that farmers continue to be impacted by the uncertainty that surrounds federal pesticide policy.

"Farmers and ranchers are looking for stability and predictability. They are looking for assurances that the tools they need to protect their crop investments will be available and safe to use," Keith Eckel said in testifying before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee.

Eckel, the president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and a vegetable grower in north central Pennsylvania, represented AFBF during a hearing examining the Clinton administration's pesticide legislation. Farm Bureau has expressed disappointment that are excessively rigid, bureaucratic and punitive.

"The benefits of pesticides accrue to all of society, not just to farmers," Eckel said, "and their consideration in pesticide regulatory decisions is critical for a reasoned and coordinated policy. The benefits of pesticide use must be balanced with risks, along with the need to feed a world population that is growing by nearly 100 million people every year."

He said the central question in the pesticide debate is, "How can our current food safety system be improved, without undermining what is generally viewed as successful in producing the safest and most abundant food supply in the world?"

"Federal pesticide policy is surrounded by uncertainty: The uncertainty associated with the Delaney Clause enforcement, the uncertainty associated with re-registration, the uncertainty associated with the loss of minor crop pesticides, the uncertainty over the availability of new products and technology, and the uncertainty over this legislation," Eckel said.

The farm leader told the panel that Congress must act to resolve the gridlock involving federal pesticide policy. According to Eckel, "While our current system needs improvement, evidence is overwhelmingly in favor of building upon what we have, rather than making drastic changes."

Ideas and options that Farm Bureau has advocated will reduce total pesticide use, he said. Those ideas include research to find alternative pest control products such as biological control agents and microbial pesticides, and resistance management including the use of genetic engineering, growth regulators and breeding for host plant resistance.

"We believe that improvements in pesticide application technology and improved applicator training in reduced use methods will substantially decrease the need for pesticides without burdensome new regulations aimed at limiting a farmer's control options," Eckel testified.

Several pesticide proposals are pending before Congress. Farm Bureau supports the Pryor/Lugar bill, S.1478, and H.R. 1627, by Reps. Lehman, Bliley and Rowland. This legislation has broad bipartisan support in both the Senate and the House, where it is now co-sponsored by more than a majority of House members.

Rabbit, Poultry Exhibitors Prepare For County Fair

In preparation for the Garrett County Fair, all youth and adults planning to enter rabbits and/or poultry have been asked to be aware of the following procedures:

All rabbits and poultry are entered on Monday, Aug. 15. The animals must be entered by 6 p.m. Feeding and watering of both rabbits and poultry is handled by the superintendents, according to Alice E. Hevner, 4-H extension agent.

Dr. James Fearer, state veterinary, reminds all exhibitors to review the health regulations listed in the Premium Book. For rabbits, he states that "in some past shows this summer, there have been rabbits that have experienced problems with the upper respiratory disease known as 'snuffles.' Please check your rabbits for runny eyes and noses, and moist fur on fore paws, before bringing them to the fair. If any of your rabbits have these symptoms, you should have your veterinarian examine them before coming."

Judging will take place at different times, and exhibitors need to be present, Hevner said. Poultry will be judged on Tuesday, Aug. 16, with results posted that evening. Rabbits will be judged Aug 17, with results posted that evening.

A Rabbit Fitting and Showing Contest has been added to the fair classes this year. This will be held on Thursday at 9 a.m. All 4-H and FFA members are invited to enter the competition, and must be present to enter. Persons planning to enter, or those who need additional information may contact the extension office at 334-1900.

New Ethanol-Blended Fuels Mean Cleaner Air For Maryland

An alternative fuel that reduces carbon monoxide emissions and decreases smog can now be purchased in Maryland. A change in state regulations to allow ethanol-blended gasoline, made from corn, to be sold in the state was announced today by State Comptroller Louis Goldstein during the annual meeting of the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA).

Ethanol-blended fuels reduce carbon monoxide levels in automobiles as much as 25 percent, and are proven effective in reducing urban smog. Nationwide, ethanol blends account for 10 percent of the fuel supply.

Until today, Maryland was one of the only states in the nation not using ethanol-blended fuels. MGPA worked with state officials to revise a technicality in state fuel regulations that kept ethanol-blended fuels from being sold in Maryland.

"As home to one of the most highly traveled corridors in the United States, we felt the change was critical," said Robert Hutchinson, past president of MGPA.

"This change will have a positive environmental impact on Maryland in the form of cleaner air, and consumers benefit by having another oxygenated fuel option during the winter months."

In 1992, the Environmental Protection Agency designated Baltimore and Washington D.C. as two of the nine smoggiest cities in the nation. Consequentially, under the federal Clean Air Act, all gasoline stations in these cities are required to sell oxygenated fuels between November 1 and March 1. Before ethanol, only gasoline with methanol tertiary butyl ether (MTBE), a non-renewable fuel, could be used during the winter months.

Ethanol is made from corn and other renewable energy resources. While ethanol is not new, its commercial development came about during the oil crisis in the 1970s. In addition to dramatically reducing carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions in a vehicle's exhaust, ethanol also provides an environmentally sound octane enhancer to replace the lead in gasoline.

"The use of ethanol-blended fuels can help reduce the United States' dependence on foreign oil and protect our energy security by using our own domestic renewable fuel resources," said Hutchinson.

Currently, 50 percent of the U. S. oil supply is from foreign sources.

As a corn-based product, ethanol is important to Maryland agriculture, an industry that employs 14 percent of the state's working population and generates $11 billion in state revenue.

Nationwide, the U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that increasing ethanol production could create between 28,000 and 108,000 new jobs within the next six years.

Maryland residents should take advantage of this change and ask for ethanol when they fill their tanks," said Hutchinson. "Doing so is good for the quality of the air we breathe, and is good for the state economy."

Rain Increases Moisture For Many Farmers

During the week ending July 29, crop conditions were showing signs of improvement in most of the state. Pasture conditions also improved thanks to increased moisture supplies. Frequent rain showers brought relief to crops. However, Cecil County was hit by recent tornadoes, affecting its fruit production considerably.

Wet conditions held days suitable for fieldwork during the week to an average of 3.6 days, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the State, topsoil moisture was 5 percent short, 76 percent adequate and 19 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 11 percent short, 84 percent adequate and 5 percent surplus.

Statewide, hay supplies were adequate and pastures averaged in good condition. Peaches mostly in poor condition and apples averaged in fair to mostly good condition. Potato harvest was earlier than last year.

Maryland's progress for the week ending July 31 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Planting progress: Corn, silked, 81, 70, 73. Soybeans, planted, 99, 100, 99; blooming, 37, 36, 43. Small Grains: Wheat, harvested, 99, 100, 98; Barley, harvested, 100, 100, 100; Oats, harvested, 91, 99, 94. Sweet corn, harvested, 54, 32, 45. Alfalfa hay, 2nd cutting, 98, 99, 93. Other hay, 2nd cutting, 77, 69, 55. Peaches, harvested, 47, 30, 30.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending July 29, had above normal temperatures and precipitation which ranged from light to moderate. Temperatures averaged 77.0 degrees, 0.3 degrees above the normal of 76.7 degrees for the July 25 through July 29 period. Minimum temperatures were as low as 55 degrees at Oakland, but generally in the high 60's. Maximum temperature was 94 degrees in Bel Air, but generally in the 90's for all stations. Precipitation averaged 2.32 inches, 1.39 inches above the normal of 0.92 inches. Precipitation ranged from 0.72 at Frederick to 4.50 inches at Snow Hill. Regional rainfall averages were: Western, 1.38; North Central, 1.96; Southern Maryland west of the Bay, 2.04 and Eastern Shore, 3.37 inches.

One acre of land (roughly the size of a football field) can produce 11,000 heads of lettuce worth $4,000.

Holler Captures Awards During 4-H/FFA Show

Tommy Holler, a member of the Red House 4-H Club, exhibited several animals during the annual Western Maryland 4-H/FFA Spring Show, held recently at the Garrett County fairgrounds.

In sheep showmanship, Holler received a first-place senior champion award, and a grand champion award in fitting and showing. He also placed first with his Hampshire ewe lamb, yearling ewe, yearling ram, and market lamb. He achieved champion status with his yearling ewe, yearling ram, and grand champion with his market lamb.

Holler also entered animals in the baby beef and beef breeding shows. He took first place with his Simmental heifer, third with his steer, and a second place ribbon in the senior fitting and showing category.

Judging in the various events was based on how well the animal was fitted for the show, and the exhibitor's skill in presenting the animal to the judges.

Tommy, the son of Thomas and Neomia Holler, Oakland, competed with exhibitors from Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

Md. Conservation Districts Refocus For The 1990's

Back in the good old dust bowl days in the 1930's, there was wind, water, and top soil. It was relatively simple. Conservation Districts were established locally to work with federal and state conservation agencies to solve erosion problems, and teach people, mostly farmers, how to conserve valuable resources such as soil.

But today, as we grow ever closer to the 21st century, conserving soil isn't so simple. For one thing, people keep moving it about: farmers, developers, road constructors, even homeowners when they put in vegetable and flower gardens. And moving soil about wouldn't be so damaging if it didn't rain. However, in Maryland, it rains...a lot.

When the Maryland Association of Conservation Districts held their summer meeting recently, they addressed the differences of how solving erosion challenges used to be and how they are now. The membership of the organization talked at length about how operations had changed over the years. At the opening session, Dave Thomas, a conservation district supervisor from Garrett County stressed the need of stepping outside the bubble of "how things used to be" and taking a good look at how things have evolved and whether or not the conservation district personnel is addressing the needs of today's communities.

Does the community see us as only farmers trying to help? Or do they see us as community leaders in solving problems?" he asked. "We need to be proactive, not reactive and create win-win solutions through the leadership of our conservation district supervisors." Thomas emphasized the change in public sentiment on environmental issues, and talked about the cost/benefit evolution in considering how erosion and water quality affects communities.

"Soil Conservation Districts are in a prime position to lead change," he said. "We need to serve as change agents and look and think in much broader terms than we have in the past. We need to get outside that comfortable bubble and get involved in many of our communities' environmental issues. We need to actively look for win-win situations, cooperation, understanding, and we need to do a better job of communicating."

The mission of the Soil Conservation Districts has changed dramatically over the years. When they were first established in Maryland, mostly along county lines back in the 1940's, they dealt with community and farm erosion problems. In the 1950's, they expanded their role to manage problems that affected entire watersheds.

Today, conservation districts work in soil, water, and related natural resources with all citizens in rural and urban/suburban areas. Water quality has become a major emphasis. This not only includes soil that flows downstream with water when it rains, but also includes animal waste, toxins, and all manner of chemicals that are applied to the land that also flow downstream and underground when it rains.

The workload not only is different than it has ever been, but it is complicated by the fact that most citizens are much more aware of environmental problems than they were in the past half-century. Citizens drive Congress and the Legislature, they need information to make decisions, and they desire immediate action when there are any problems that involve the natural resource base.

"Our priorities are constantly changing," said Pete Cruikshank, district manager in Charles County. "We not only are influenced by our local, community needs, but we also must deal with federal and state programs such as the federal farm bills and the state critical area and tributary strategy programs, with education programs for students and adults, with promotion of what we do-the workload is tremendous. "We are known for our technical expertise and we have a critical role to play in each of our communities. If we can focus at the local level, we will maximize our resources and be able to offer the quality our communities have come to expect."

The opening session also included some nuts and bolts advise. Martha Clark, Chair of the Board of Supervisors in Howard County talked about what her conservation district personnel had done in an attempt to better meet the needs of Howard County citizens. They collectively went through team building, workload analysis, and also met with 15 other agencies in the county working in soil and water conservation to streamline the delivery system to people needing help with conservation challenges.

"Before you can set priorities, you must know where you have been, and where you are now," Clark said. "We looked at our workload, evaluated jobs, crossed trained on many jobs, and put a system in place where we are constantly re-evaluating and re-prioritizing our work to meet the most urgent needs. We also took a good healthy look at who pays the bills. This really sharpened our ability to prioritize."

The Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee was represented by Chair, Robert Davis, a district supervisor from Wicomico County. He gave an overview of the structure of the committee as representing all federal and state agencies working in natural resources, and talked about how they could help conservation districts address their workloads. "One of the biggest jobs we do is look at regulations that may affect conservation districts and especially the customers they will affect such as farmers or developers," he said. "We go over these in an attempt to make them palatable, easier for everyone to do their jobs. Sometimes these regulations are not realistic. We can help there."

The State Soil Conservation Committee also gets out meaningful information to conservation districts, promotes understanding of natural resource challenges between all agencies and groups working with them, and educates agency and legislative leaders about protection of the natural resource base.

Refocusing on the constantly evolving workload that Maryland's Conservation Districts have was the purpose of the summer meeting. The opening session gave everyone a lot of good ideas and the ability to act on them.

Treatment For Pesticide Clothing

Researchers have found that ordinary laundry starch on regular cotton clothing protects pesticide applicators from harmful chemicals. Starch binds with chemical pesticides and keeps them away from the skin until the clothing can be washed. It is biodegradable, inexpensive, and familiar to most consumers. Cotton and cotton-polyester garments that have been starched provide a durable finish that traps pesticides and prevents their transfer to the skin, and allows moisture vapor to be transported away from the skin. The starch-bound chemicals are rinsed away in the wash.

Leafhoppers In Alfalfa

Unfortunately, the Potato Leafhopper is still a serious problem in many of the alfalfa fields throughout the area. Rainy weather has delayed the harvesting, giving the leafhopper population plenty of vegetation. I would strongly recommend that you scout the fields that have just recently been harvested and not treated this year. I have found huge populations of the leafhopper recently. In fact, the populations in some of the fields were to the extent that regrowth was not occurring. Many of the fields treated earlier this year have some leafhoppers but in most instances not to the level of serious damage. My advice would be to sweep net all of your alfalfa plantings.

Problems In The Bean "Patch"

Have you noticed any of the bean plant leaves wilting and dying almost overnight? Well, if so, your beans probably have been hit with "Bacterial Blight." The wet, humid conditions have been ideal for bacterial blight. Also, the lush foliage growth has reduced the air movement through the planting adding to favorable conditions. There is not really much you can do about the situation. If there is a low level of infection, an application of copper sulfate might help. Experts recommend planting a Western grown seed to avoid bacterial blights.

BOLYARDS HAVE REUNION

To observe the 100th anniversary of the birthdays of Raymond and Alta (Teets) Bolyard, their descendants held their annual family reunion the weekend of July 15-17 at Blackwater Lodge. The Bolyards were residents of Aurora where they lived for over 50 years in the large white house across from the Exxon station on U.S. Rt. 50. Raymond built and operated the garage and Esso station and prior to that had been a rural mail carrier. Alta was a school teacher early in life, then devoted her time to raising a family. Both were active in the Aurora Methodist Church.

They were the parents of seven children: Ruth (Mrs. Clifton) Christman, Keith, Kent, Doyle, Lowell, Larry and Marvin (Bucky). Mrs. Bolyard died in 1976, Mr. Bolyard in 1986. Their son, Lowell, is deceased.

Forty family members gathered from West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Georgia, South Carolina and Vermont.

Mrs. Bolyard was one of the first women who learned to drive and offered freely of her vehicle for transporation to meetings of church women, of homemakers. Her husband, with his truck, provided hauling service to the community. They were interested in youth and particularly in sports, mainly basketball, and attended the games. It is said that Mrs. Bolyard attended most, or perhaps all, of the games in which her son, Marvin "Bucky", played, including those years at WVU when he played for the Mountaineers along with Jerry West. All of the children except one, entered the teaching profession.

FRIENDSVI

Friday & Saturday AUGUST 5 & 6

Plans have been finalized for the 15th annual Friendsville Days Festival, which this year will have a country western theme. The event is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 5 and 6.

A western-style barbecue will kick off the festival, in keeping with this year's theme, on Friday at 5:30 p.m. The barbecue is open to the public and a free-will donation will be accepted. Country and bluegrass music by Rob Smith and the Buffalo Run Band will follow the meal, all of which will be held at the Friendsville Town Park.

A noon parade will begin the day's events on Saturday, featuring many local and visiting fire and rescue units, in addition to other organizational and commercial groups. The parade will lead into the town park where food concessions, game booths, crafts, raffles and live entertainment will be provided. Door prizes will be drawn hourly.

Saturday's stage entertainment line-up is scheduled to be as follows: 1:15 p.m.-opening ceremonies; 1:30 p.m.-Country Express Band; 2:30 p.m.-variety show featuring local talent groups and individuals; 4:30 p.m.-Pam and Tammy Brenneman, contemporary and pop music; 5 p.m.-the Never Too Late Girls; 6 p.m.-Billy Nedrow, southern and contemporary gospel; 6:30 p.m.-Cindy Conner, gospel/country; 7 p.m.-Country Express Band; 10 p.m.-closing ceremonies and announcements; 10:15 p.m.-fireworks display.

Several "country-style" games will be held throughout the afternoon and evening, including pie-eating and watermelon-eating contests, hay bale throwing contest for men and women, and a rolling pin contest. Horseshoe pitching will again be conducted this year by coordinators Jess Fearer and Sam Wakefield.

A softball tournament and soccer game will take place, and wagon rides will he offered. A visit by the "Fun Factory" is scheduled, which will feature games for guests of all ages, an air-bounce walk, "fun foods," and other attractions.

Selbysport homemade ice cream and the firemen's french fries are two of the familiar foods that will be available, among several other vendors. Barbecued chicken dinners will be available from the Lions Club.

Admission will be free, and events will be held rain or shine. Tents will be provided, according to an event organizer.

State Police DNA Database Is Established

While DNA evidence continues to be the focus of attention in a Los Angeles courtroom, the Maryland State Police Crime Laboratory continues preparations for the statewide DNA database system and repository.

The Maryland State Police Crime Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. Louis C. Portis, has been involved in DNA comparison since January 1, 1992. Dr. Portis reports that the Crime Laboratory's experience indicates how significant DNA evidence can be. "So far, the Maryland State Police Crime Laboratory has completed 140 DNA comparison cases," Portis said. "Of those, State Police chemists have only had to testify in court in four cases. There have been many guilty pleas entered by criminal defendants after a positive DNA identification has been made," he said.

The DNA database became a reality through legislation initiated by Governor William Donald Schaefer and supported by the Maryland State Police. The law establishing the repository takes effect October 1.

The law permits the collection of DNA from persons convicted of child sexual abuse, rape, or a first, second, or third degree sex offense. The law also allows the collection of DNA from inmates serving time on October 1, for any of those offenses.

The DNA will be collected by taking a blood sample from the convicted person. Specially trained chemists at the State Police Crime Laboratory will extract the DNA and analyze it. The DNA analysis will be converted into a numerical code, identifiable with only one person in the DNA data bank.

In the future, DNA evidence collected from a crime scene or a crime victim will be analyzed and compared with data in the DNA bank. Just as a fingerprint left at a crime scene can be compared to the fingerprint bank, a "DNA fingerprint" will now be able to be compared with the DNA bank to identify a crime suspect. About 130 sex crimes are committed in Maryland each month, and Maryland State Police Superintendent, Colonel Larry W. Tolliver, anticipates excellent results from this new crime-fighting tool. "The establishment of a DNA databank is a significant step forward for Maryland law enforcement," Colonel Tolliver said. "The latest scientific technology will now be employed by police to identify and apprehend the criminals who are committing these violent, degrading crimes against our citizens."

Maryland will be joining with the FBI's Combined DNA Index System (CODIS), a pilot project that networks the DNA banks of member states. Currently, 10 states belong to the network which will permit the comparison of DNA evidence with the DNA banks in those states.

Dr. Portis is coordinating preparations for the DNA database system and repository. The preparations include hiring five chemists, a data specialist and a secretary, purchasing equipment, and establishing regulations.

SMOKEY BEAR DAY PROCLAIMED - Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed August 9 as Smokey Bear Day in the state. A framed copy of the governor's proclamation was recently presented to the Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association. A spokesperson for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources stated that the Smokey Bear Forest Fire Prevention campaign has been one of the most successful ad campaigns ever created, having been instrumental in teaching young people in the country about fire danger in forests. Pictured left to right are Mike Kozier, chairperson of the Garrett County Forestry Board; Smokey, and Andy Anderson, president of the Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association.

This course is approved by the Maryland Real Estate Commission for 45 hours of instruction, and all students must attend at least 45 of the 51 course hours, according to a spokesperson for the college. A NEIGHBORHOOD BIBLE TIME YOUTH CRUSADE, conducted recently at Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church, was deemed a "grand success" by Dennis Leatherman, pastor of the church. More than 150 young people attended the week's activities which emphasized salvation, dedication and patriotism. "The teen program was a hit with the youth," Leatherman said. "Nearly 50 teens were involved, many of whom had no home church or spiritual training." The grand finale for the teens was a Thursday night "Destination Unknown," where they were taken to an undisclosed location, and had an all-sports activity and a message from the Word of God. An awards ceremony was conducted Friday evening. The Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church has Sunday Bible Time each Sunday morning at 9:45 a.m. For information and transportation, persons may call Pastor Leatherman at 334-3234.
